Promises to Support Italy in War.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—Adolf Hitler tonight told the United States to mind its own business and refused to permit "any American intervention in German affairs."

He warned President Roosevelt's administration to keep its hands off German trade with South America and threatened to enter into a trade war.

He said German relations with the United States "suffered from a campaign of defamation carried on to serve obvious political and financial interests."

Ready to Aid Italy in War.

He assailed an American official and three British statesmen, who frequently have attacked Nazi policies, as "apostles of war."

He pledged German support for Italy in any war against that nation.

He warned the western powers against interfering "in matters concerning us alone with the purpose of preventing natural and sensible solutions."

He demanded the return of Germany's "stolen" pre-war colonies.

He announced that Germany's fight against Jews will be carried on relentlessly.

855 Deputies Hear Oration.

Hitler made these statements in an anxiously awaited speech before 855 members of his hand picked reichstag in the Kroll Opera house. The occasion was the sixth anniversary of his assumption of power.

The speech ushered in a highly portentous week in Europe. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain tomorrow will face a debate on foreign affairs in the house of commons. The debate probably will hinge on what Hitler said today. On Wednesday Premier Mussolini of Italy will lift his voice and join the "war of words."

Tonight's torchlight procession commemorating Hitler's rise to German leadership was smaller than it was in 1933. The plaudits of the public were more subdued. Even in Berlin restaurants and coffee houses where many gathered to hear the speech over the radio, the guests seemed apathetic.

Cheer Hitler's Words.

But the enthusiasm within the opera house was greater than ever. Time and again members of the reichstag and special guests cheered their leader's words.

Hitler spoke from a rostrum in front of a huge gilded eagle, the insignia of the reich. The Fuehrer wore a new type of uniform—double breasted coat, black trousers, a white collar, and brown tie. An iron cross was pinned to his coat.

What struck the Berlin diplomatic corps most deeply in Hitler's oration was the absence of any particular attack against soviet Russia. They saw in this omission—coupled with the fact that Moscow and Berlin are conducting trade negotiations—an indication of a possible rapprochement between the two countries.

STRIKES AT AMERICA

After declaring that German relations with the countries of South America are satisfactory and that "economic relations with them continue to expand," Hitler spoke of German-American relations as follows:

"Our relations with the United States are suffering from a campaign of defamation carried on to serve obvious political and financial interests which, under pretense that Germany threatens American independence, is endeavoring to mobilize the hatred of an entire continent against European states which are nationally governed.

"We all believe, however, that this does not reflect the will of the millions of American citizens who, despite all that is said to the contrary by gigantic Jewish capitalistic propaganda through the press, radio, and films, cannot fail to realize there is not one word of truth in all these assertions.

Wants to Live in Peace.

"Germany wishes to live in peace and on friendly terms with all countries, including America. Germany refrains from any intervention in American affairs and likewise de-

HOUSE TO DROP INQUIRY; DEWEY MAY PROSECUTE

Justice Department to Continue Probe.

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Martin T. Manton, the nation's highest ranking jurist next to the justices of the United States Supreme court, resigned today under fire of charges by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, New York's militant state prosecutor.

Manton, senior judge of the Second United States Circuit Court of Appeals, has been accused of accepting nearly $450,000 from persons interested in cases which came before his bench.

In announcing his resignation from the bench, on which he had served twenty-two years, Judge Manton said he was innocent of any wrongdoing.

Will Not Stop Investigation.

However, his request for retirement, transmitted to President Roosevelt to be effective not later than March 1, will not end a three sided inquiry into the charges against him.

Attorney General Frank Murphy stated that a thorough investigation by the justice department will go on. United States District Attorney Gregory F. Noonan said any evidence indicating criminal violation of federal statutes would be put immediately before a grand jury.

It also was learned that the state income tax bureau will investigate more than twenty-five of the "Manton corporations." One of these, the Almanac-Esplanade corporation, apparently paid no state income tax for 1935, 1936, and 1937. This was revealed because the returns show no stamped record of assessment or payment. District Attorney Dewey announced that he is considering criminal prosecution under state law.

House to Drop Inquiries.

Dewey filed his charges with the house judiciary committee in Washington, which usually initiates impeachment proceedings. However, Chairman Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.] said Manton's resignation relieved the committee of responsibility for such action. But Manton still is liable to prosecution as an individual if a crime has been committed. Dewey listed six instances in which he alleged loans were received by the judge or by corporations he controled.

Four of the transactions involved litigants whose cases were won before Judge Manton's bench, Dewey said. An example of these was a loan of $232,981 Judge Manton allegedly accepted from the American Tobacco company in 1932 when a stockholder's suit for recovery of corporation funds was pending. Manton's vote was decisive in awarding a verdict to the tobacco company.

Judge Manton insisted that his business transactions were lawful, "whatever might be said of my success or lack of success as an investor."

Defends His Borrowing.

"All of them," he said, "were within the lawful right of any citizen or property owner, in office or out of it, and none of them bore the slightest relation to my conduct as a judge or to any litigation in my court.

"When I was appointed to the bench some twenty-two years ago I was owner of what I then considered to be a substantial amount of property, chiefly in stocks or corporations owning New York real estate. [Judge Manton at that time was 36 years old.]

"This property no law and no canon of judicial conduct called on me to surrender, sacrifice, or neglect. In common with every one else, the depression and a fall in real estate values entailed heavy losses on me. Such debts as I have incurred have been chiefly due to my efforts to meet the situation thus brought about.

"It is intolerable to me that while still on the bench I should be the central figure in a controversy, no matter what its outcome, that could be seized upon by malicious minds either to cast reflection upon the court of which I am a member or to weaken public confidence in the general administration of justice.

"By no voluntary act of mine will I contribute to such a situation. Rather than do so I prefer to carry out an intention which I have entertained for some time—to retire from the bench."

Quirks and Oddities of Storm Are as Varied as Snowdrifts

Haakon Jacobson, 37 years old, had been waiting for a day like yesterday since he left Norway two decades ago. He took one look at the blizzard and reached for his skis. For the ten miles between his home at 1506 North Fairfield avenue and his office at 2750 West 35th street, he took only an hour and 15 minutes.

Fifty men and women were huddled on the Loyola avenue elevated platform at 10 a. m. when one man's hat was blown to the tracks. As no train had approached for half an hour, one spectator set out to rescue it. He reached the hat, leaned over to pick it up and arose to face a North Shore electric train bearing down on him at the rate of 25 miles an hour. He huddled beneath the platform as the train rumbled by.

The animals supposedly most impervious to cold are polar bears. Yet officials at the Chicago Zoological park at Brookfield spent yesterday coaxing [with fish] their polar bears into a warm grotto. The wind, they said, was too strong.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company yesterday reverted to a custom it had not practiced in 40 years. It pressed men switchboard operators into service in various parts of the city.

The Buckingham fountain's electric eye, installed to protect its $10,000 copper sea horses, rang urgently at 2 a. m. yesterday. Detectives found a black and white tomcat, seeking refuge from the storm, howling before the eye.

Ten years ago Otis Shepard, now director of art for the Wrigley company, was given a handwoven pair of Alaskan snow shoes. Until yesterday, they hung over the fireplace in his studio at 68 East Goethe street. But yesterday he donned them and found, to his surprise, that they worked.

A woman stopped at a tavern at Halsted street and Grand avenue to telephone her office she would be late. In two hours, she was told, the proprietor had sold 300 telephone slugs, and had no more.

Along with many other workers, the police horses had a day of rest. Lieut. James Doyle of the mounted section of the trafic police directed that no horse be taken out of the barn.

When the trafic branch of the Evanston Municipal court was called to order yesterday morning, only six of the fifty-two defendants were present. Judge James M. Corcoran dismissed them with praise for their temerity in braving the storm.

Passengers on a loopbound bus of the Chicago Motor Coach company had three hours in which to become friendly. When, after innumerable halts, the bus came to a dead stop, all piled off and went into a corner drugstore for coffee. Then, in a body they clambered aboard a street car. When it, too, stalled, the motorman observed that his home was right across the street, and so he sauntered home for fresh, dry clothes and coffee. At another halt he and the conductor departed for a store to buy dry canvas gloves.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward, who lives in La Grange, was the only federal District judge to appear in chambers.

VICTORY

Mrs. Thomas Galbraith roused her husband at 5:30 a. m. to tell him their baby would soon be born. They set out to drive the five miles to St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet. Snowdrifts stopped their automobile. Police sent a squad car and, when it failed, a wrecking truck. It, too, was stopped. A police ambulance finally reached the stranded couple. Mrs. Galbraith was driven to the hospital where a baby girl was born.

Seven miles southeast of Lincoln, Mrs. Walter Sandel awaited her baby. State police called the state highway department. Snow plows were taken off other roads and sent to the rescue. They broke through the snow, clearing a path for a police car, which took Mrs. Sandel to the hospital, where a girl weighing twelve pounds was born.

Glenn Boyd and his wife were snowbound at their home on Holbrook road in Flossmoor. They telephoned for police to take them to the Illinois central railroad station. Two police cars turned back. Undaunted, the police drove to the home in a bobsled and took Mrs. Boyd to the station. Last night she was in the Chicago Lying-In hospital, hoping for a boy.

Frances Trout's throat ailment required immediate care. There was no way to take her to the North Shore railroad station. They stopped a train in a prairie near Northfield. Frances got to a hospital.

Harry Harper was desperately ill in his home at 8151 South Justine street. Capt. John Prendergast took charge when Harper's physician telephoned that enough oxygen for only 20 minutes was left. More oxygen was delivered in a squad car—in time.

DEFEAT

Joan Andersen, 6 years old, had a sore throat. Her mother, Mrs. A. M. Andersen, heard her gasping at 4:30 a. m. at their MacDonald lane home in Flossmoor. Mrs. Andersen telephoned Dr. T. H. Kelly of 1711 Ridge road, Homewood.

Snowdrifts blocked his garage door. The taxi he summoned could not reach his house. He tried in vain to get horses, and then waded on foot. For three miles he fought his way through the storm.

Finding that Joan had bronchial pneumonia and an acute congestion of the lungs, he telephoned for oxygen when he reached the home. The druggist started with the tanks, but his car was stalled by the snow. Joan died. Dr. Kelly said he might have saved her had he been able to reach her earlier.

6,400 Working to Clear Streets; 3 'L' Wrecks.

SCHOOLS WILL BE OPEN.

Chicago's public grade, high and evening schools will be open today as usual, William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, announced at midnight. Parochial schools also will be open.

Chicago and its suburbs worked last night and early today to dig out of one of the worst snowstorms in its history. No more snow is expected today.

Snow plow in 3700 block of Broadway.

The storm, which spread over thirteen states, partly paralyzed activity in Chicago. It was the most intense snowfall on record. It began at 11:30 p. m. Sunday and stopped at 2 p. m. yesterday, although minor flurries occurred later. During that fourteen and one-half hour period 14.8 inches of snow fell. Another tenth was added by 6 p. m., making the total 14.9 inches.

Weather bureau records showed this to be the heaviest snowfall noted in Chicago during such a period of time. The total fall tied Chicago's third heaviest snow, which occurred over a two day period, Jan. 6-7, 1918. The fourteen and a half hour fall of 14.8 inches tied the city's fourth heaviest snow of Dec. 17, 18 and 19, 1929. The heaviest fall on record was 19.2 inches on another two day period, March 25-26, 1930. The second heaviest fall was 16.2 inches on a three day period, March 7-8-9, 1931.

Storm Sweeps Through East.

Of the large cities Chicago recorded the heaviest snowfall, although the streets of Detroit, Mich., and Albany, N. Y., were virtually buried. Last night the storm, after having passed through Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York, was sweeping through the six New England states.

Near Chicago, the storm, marked by strong winds, covered much of Illinois, most of Indiana, and all of lower Michigan. It tapered off to the north and west to such a marked degree that Waukegan, forty miles to the north, reported only five inches of snow; Milwaukee, ninety miles away, only flurries, and Clinton, Ia., 144 miles away, "sunshine like Florida."

The weather bureau predicts snow or rain tomorrow for Chicago and vicinity.

WORK TO CLEAR STREETS

The city proper, the park district, all transportation agencies, and citizens, strove to make streets passable. At least 6,400 men and hundreds of trucks, snowplows, and sweepers were put to work by public agencies and transportation companies.

Mayor Kelly ordered Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, to use every available public facility for snow removal. Hewitt used 3,000 laborers and 500 trucks on the job.

Hewitt appealed to the Works Progress administration for 3,000 men to help clear the streets in the emergency. State officials said regulations forbade them to assign men for this kind of work.

The elevated lines, bus company, and surface lines put 2,500 men to work. The surface lines had 150 plows and as many trucks working all night. The bus lines employed 250 men and seventy plows on the boulevards.

Travel to Be Easier Today.

With most of the highways closed, road crews in Cook, Du Page, and Lake counties strove to make the principal roads passable by noon. Roosevelt road, it was predicted, and many other arterial highways, notably the Skokie road to Milwaukee, would be open for careful driving. Reports from the Chicago Motor and the Illinois Automobile clubs warned that most downstate and Indiana highways were blocked. Motorists were urged to make inquiries at motor clubs before starting trips.

The difficulties experienced in getting about Chicago yesterday will be eased today, Mr. Hewitt said. The surface lines expect to be operating at 90 per cent of normal; the bus lines at 75 per cent of normal. The elevated lines expect near normal operations.

Railroad schedules were near normal. Much of the railroad delay during the day was encountered near terminals because of frozen switches. Air lines grounded their planes, but expect to resume operations at 9 o'clock this morning if there is no more snow.

Chicagoans resorted to all manners of conveyances to get about. Some arrived at work only minutes late, others hours late, and many not at all. Hundreds of workers remained at downtown hotels last night to be sure they would be on the job on time today.

City Keeps Sense of Humor.

Chicagoans accepted the snowfall with good humor, largely because temperatures remained in the high twenties. Children enjoyed a great day because they were able to play with safety in the streets where motor trafic was impossible.

Taxicab companies were unable to handle all calls for service. Radio stations carried on, although some programs were canceled because of the inability of performers to appear on time. Recorded broadcasts were substituted.

TRAGEDIES OF THE STORM

The storm left its usual trail of trouble, tragedy, and near disasters. Andrew Busse, 59 years old, 1608 Maryland street, Gary, was killed when, blinded by the snow, he stepped into the path of a train in Gary. There were innumerable fires, in some of which firemen could not get near the scenes.

The worst accidents of the day occurred on the elevated lines, which were swamped with passengers. There were three elevated crashes, causing injuries to thirty-six persons. Six of them were seriously hurt.

The first of the train accidents came at 7:45 a. m. when a Douglas Park train smashed into the rear of another at California avenue and 21st street. Sixteen persons were hurt. Three, pinned in the wreckage, were extricated by firemen. They are James Jecmen, 1825 South California avenue; Paul F. Ziemann, 2625 West 22d place, and Andrew Kallus, 5006 West 16th street. They were taken to St. Anthony's hospital.

Crash on Ravenswood Line.

Four hours later an Englewood express rammed the rear of another train at the Damen avenue station of the Ravenswood line, causing injuries to seventeen persons. Frank J. Boehm, 943 North St. Louis avenue, a motorman, was the most seriously injured. He was taken to the Ravenswood hospital. Two others were seriously hurt. They are Mrs. Bessie Feinberg, 3753 Leland avenue, and Bernard Flatow, 3341 Wilson avenue.

In the third crash a Garfield Park train struck the rear of a Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin train at Kedvale avenue. One person was hurt slightly. He is A. F. Potter, 206 East Hickory street, Lombard.

The most spectacular fire occurred in Homewood. It started in the Merlyn B. Cleveland home at 18216 Ashland avenue, and for a time threatened to spread to four other bungalows. Mrs. Cleveland saved herself and her small sons, Thomas, 2, and James, 5, and a neighbor turned in an alarm.

Twelve volunteer firemen responded. They fought their way through deep snow drifts to the fire station. It was necessary to use a snow plow to clear a way for the pumper. After nearly two hours, in which they had covered two and a half miles, the firemen found themselves 800 feet from the Cleveland home and unable to go farther. The home was in ruins.

SCOUT DECIDES 'A SNOW BANK IS NOT LIKE A BANK

Melvin Guthrie, 15 years old, is a Boy Scout and is trained to be observant. He was plowing through the snow in Woodland avenue, Winnetka, yesterday when he spied the corner of an important looking brown manila envelope sticking out of a snow bank. He carried it to Arnold Bridges, his instructor at New Trier High school. Bridges told him to show it to his parents.

Melvin's father, Melvin E. Guthrie Jr., opened the envelope in their home at 446 Sunset road, Winnetka, last night. He found the contents belonged to William V. Hill, 174 Woodland avenue. They went to see Mr. Hill, who is a purchasing agent for Montgomery Ward & Co.

The envelope had slipped out of Mr. Hill's pocket as he shoveled snow off the sidewalk. He was glad to see the Guthries. Inside were common stock certificates worth $3,000.

Reserve Pilot and Aid Killed in Airplane Crash

Junction City, Kas., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Robert A. Kummrow of Morrison, Ill., second lieutenant in the air corps reserve, and Cecil C. Mills, his observer, were killed today when their airplane crashed four miles from Marshall field at Fort Riley, where they were stationed. Mills, an enlisted man, was with the first observation squadron. The cause of the crash was not determined.

SNOW TO KEEP MANY SUBURBAN SCHOOLS CLOSED AGAIN TODAY

Some suburban schools will reopen today and some will remain closed. Where no decision was reached definite announcements will be made this morning by radio.

North shore schools, including Evanston, will announce their decisions this morning, as will western suburban schools such as Oak Park, Riverside, and Brookfield. Definite closings are scheduled, however, for Proviso Township High school, Maywood, and all grade schools in that suburb; Melrose Park, Bellwood, and Forest Park. The Lyons Township High school in La Grange, Brookfield-Riverside High school in Riverside and the Oak Park-River Forest High school are scheduled to reopen.

Homewood schools are expected to open. Bloom Township High school in Chicago Heights will open, but grade schools there will stay closed. Thornton township schools in Harvey will close.

FARMERS HAIL SNOWFALL AS BOON TO CROPS

14.8 inches of snow is equivalent to 1.48 inches of rain.

Farmers in the storm swept area of Illinois, Indiana and Michigan welcomed the heavy snowfall that spread a protective covering over fields of fall sown wheat and rye and young meadows. Most were of the opinion yesterday that the snow would do far more good than harm.

No direct injury to crops was reported. Farmers pointed out that the melting snow should help materially to restore moisture to the subsoil. This is expected to be helpful for crops to be planted next spring as well as for small grains and meadow crops now in the fields. Rain and snow have been below normal for nearly five months in most of the region covered by the storm. Wells have gone dry in some places.

Fortunately, the snow was preceded by rain in most sections and the ground was not frozen in many places.

SPORTSMEN FEED STORM HIT BIRDS OF CHICAGOLAND

Yesterday's heavy snowfall sent hundreds of Chicagoland sportsmen and farmers into wooded areas with feed for pheasants and other game birds which will find it hard to find natural food. Izaak Walton chapters, Boy Scouts, sportsmen's clubs, and similar organizations are coöperating with landowners to protect the birds.

W. A. Smith, president of the Des Plaines chapter of the Izaak Walton league, said yesterday that more than forty members of his group will take corn and other grains into the forest preserves which border the Des Plaines river from Higgins road north to the town of Wheeling.

Joseph Jackson, president of the Waukegan chapter of the Izaak Walton league, said the Boy Scouts will aid in distributing ten bushels of ear corn in forest preserves and farm lands near Waukegan this morning.

Conservationists point out that extreme cold weather and heavy snows will not harm game birds provided they have an available supply of food. Grains should be placed in natural shelters, if possible, or artificial shelters may be made by banking corn stalks against a fallen tree or a fence.

TWO KILLED, ONE INJURED AS THEY THAW DYNAMITE

Fort Collins, Colo., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Frozen dynamite did the unexpected today, killing two men and injuring a third.

Workmen at the Colorado Portland Cement company plant were thawing three truckloads of the explosive, preparatory to blasting in the company quarry six miles northwest of here. A stick of the dynamite caught fire, but under such circumstances it usually burns itself out without damage. Apparently from a jar of some sort the burning stick exploded, setting off the three truckloads.

The blast was felt 28 miles away. It destroyed the garage, a 12-room stucco office building and damaged the main plant building. Dudley Tremaine and Lorenz Saracino were killed. Walter Hammett, chief clerk at the plant, was injured critically.

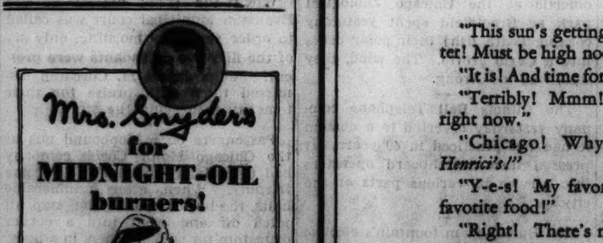
Broken line marks path of the storm across the United States. It started in the Pacific ocean south of Alaska at 6:30 a. m. last Wednesday. Captions on map indicate center of low pressure area and its day by day advance. The shaded area marks limits of precipitation. Snow did not fall throughout the shaded area, but only along the northern margin from Illinois to Maine. Rain fell along the lower edge of the area.



Why Chicago had a storm yesterday. 1. There was a low pressure area (warm, moist air) circling counterclockwise over the central west. Cold winds from the north and a high pressure area (also cold winds) from the northeast were driving a wedge toward the low pressure area. 2. The winds met and the wedge dented the low pressure area as the cold winds pushed under the warm ones. 3. The same circumstance in cross section. Cold winds slipped under the low pressure area and the rise chilled the warm, damp air, causing snow to fall.

TRIBUNE'S HOME DELIVERY RIDES OUT THE STORM

A nearly perfect home delivery service was given by CHICAGO TRIBUNE carriers yesterday despite the severe handicaps of the snowstorm.

In some areas, the circulation department reported, delivery was slow, but eventually was made. Only nine subscribers complained that their papers had not arrived.

This feat was made possible by the fact that the official carriers are independent business men. They and their entire families turned out to assist the boys. At first they drove their cars, later they switched to sleds. Finally they resorted to walking carrying the papers in bags.

The last serious threat to THE TRIBUNE'S home delivery service, officials recalled, was the storm of 1918.

Employés of the mechanical department of THE TRIBUNE were so prompt in reporting for duty that today's editions were printed a few minutes ahead of schedule.

Entertainers on W-G-N radio programs had difficulty reaching the studio in time for broadcasts.

Snow Falls Fast as Two Air Masses Clash.

Two large bodies of water—Lake Michigan and the Pacific ocean—were largely responsible for the paralyzing snow storm yesterday. The snow fell faster than ever before in weather bureau history. It produced the heaviest 24 hour fall of record. And it was the fourth heaviest single continuous fall since establishment of the bureau in 1871.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel called the snow storm typical for the Chicago area in its origins. In general, these storms occur when a low pressure area, centered over the southwest, meets a high pressure area over the northern Great Lakes region when the wind is from the northeast.

Air Masses Play Football.

A low pressure area, the forecaster explained, is a mass of moist and comparatively warm air. Its counterpart, a high pressure area, is composed of a large mass of cold, dense air. To produce winter precipitation the low area must be lifted by running up the slope of the cold area, or by a wedge of cold air running in under the low and lifting it.

"This particular low-high contrast," Donnel said, "may be traced back to a low which came in from the northern Pacific ocean, directly west of Vancouver on Jan. 25. It moved east and southeast to a point over the lower rockies on Jan. 28, and on Jan. 29 was over northern Texas. This morning it centered at Evansville, Ind.

"The influence of Lake Michigan was most important in causing the intensity of the snow fall. The low area of comparatively warm and very moist air moved over Lake Michigan. Strong northeast winds drove the low into the interior where it met northern currents and was forced to ascend over the cold air coming down from the north. The ascent was very rapid resulting in a heavy condensation of water vapor."

14.9 Inches Up to 6 P. M.

He pointed out that snow did not fall throughout the low pressure area, but simply along the northern margin as it moved eastward.

The storm began at 11:30 p. m. Sunday night, but the snow did not begin falling heavily until 4:30 a. m. It then fell at the rate of about 1.2 inches an hour, being whipped by a 31 mile an hour wind which reached peak gusts of 45 m. p. h. early in the day. By 2 p. m., when the storm had passed on to the east and only a few flakes were falling, the depth had reached 14.8 inches. At 6 p. m. the total was 14.9 inches.

To every one who ventured outside, the storm must have seemed a blizzard. But blizzard is not found in the terminology of meteorologists, Donnel said. And in Webster's international dictionary a snow storm becomes a blizzard only during intense cold. The temperature during the storm yesterday ranged around 28 degrees.

Snowiest 24 Hours On Record.

The depth of 14.9 inches brought the total for January to 24.5, the third highest January since 1885. January, 1918, with 42.5 inches, was the record. So far this winter the fall has amounted to 28.1 inches.

Yesterday's storm was the most severe for any 24 hour period, both in duration and the amount of snow. It has been exceeded only three times. On March 25-26, 1930, 19.2 inches fell in 43 hours 45 minutes. On March 7-8-9, 1931, 16.2 inches fell in 47 hours 31 minutes. On Jan. 6-7, 1918, 14.9 inches fell in 32 hours and 10 minutes.

DIES ON WALK IN SNOW.

Richard Zabel, 70 years old, died of a heart attack yesterday as he trudged through the snowdrifts on Margaret avenue, between Cottage Hill avenue and Prospect street, in Elmhurst. Zabel lived at 249 Alexander boulevard in the suburb.

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

TRAIN HITS AUTO IN STORM; BOY IS KILLED; TWO HURT

A high school pupil was injured fatally and his father and a friend were hurt seriously yesterday when an eastbound North Western passenger train struck their automobile at the Cottage Hill avenue crossing in Elmhurst.

Richard Sandner, 16 years old, 117 Willow street, Elmhurst, died on the way to Elmhurst hospital. His father, Edward, 50, and L. R. Reinke, 252 Willow road, Elmhurst, were in the same hospital with injuries. Young Sandner attended York township high school in Elmhurst. The crossing watchman said the motorists apparently did not see his red flag or hear his warning whistle because of the storm.

Raymond Johnson was injured fatally yesterday in an automobile collision north of Elmhurst. Johnson was 33 years old. He lived on Rural Route 2, Elgin. The other car was driven by Miss Erna Sinnier of Schiller Park.

Miss Josephine Bican, 32, was injured by an automobile at Christiana avenue and 55th street as she walked with her head down, battling the snowstorm. The driver, Harold Loomis, 938 North Lawler avenue, took her to Holy Cross hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. ninety-four persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these seventy-six were killed in Chicago, where 1,724 were injured in the same period.

BLIZZARD LASHES AT NEW ENGLAND; TIES UP SHIPPING

Boston, Mass., Jan. 30.—(AP)—A roaring northeast blizzard, ripping into New England at a mile a minute force, tonight interrupted shipping, grounded air transportation, and slowed motor trafic.

So great was the fury of the gale in Boston harbor that the Greek freighter Aghios Vlasios, arriving here from Cardiff, Wales, but unable to reach its pier, threw out two anchors. The Cunard White Star liner Andania, bringing 50 passengers from Cobh and Liverpool, hove-to off Boston lightship rather than risk passage through the channel.

PRIMARY VOTERS FREE TO CHOOSE MAYORAL BALLOT

Stelle Signs Bill; Both Parties Satisfied.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Acting Governor John Stelle tonight signed the Bidwill bill allowing Chicago voters to take either a Republican or a Democratic ballot at the mayoral primaries on Feb. 28. The acting executive added his signature a few minutes after the state senate concurred in minor house amendments to the measure.

Given large majorities in each legislative chamber, this bill had the support of organized Chicago Republicans and Democrats, as well as down state senators and representatives. Leaders of each party believe its enactment into law will enhance the prospects of their favorite candidates.

Both Parties Satisfied.

Republicans, for example, think that an open primary will draw more than 100,000 G. O. P. voters back into their own primaries—after an excursion into the Democratic party a year ago. The feeling of most of the Chicago Democrats is that they do not want the Republicans participating in their quarrel on Feb. 28.

Thus each party is satisfied. The senate, apparently, also was satisfied, for the vote on concurrence in the house amendments was 45 to 1. Senator Earl B. Searcy [R., Springfield] was the sole dissenter.

Concurrence was also given to amendments to another primary bill engineered to passage by Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago], Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman.

This measure, which acting governor Stelle also signed, was drawn to provide a method of voting for persons whose permanent registration cards are not found in the precinct binder. These voters may receive a ballot if their names are found on the precinct polling lists, and two other voters certify that they live in the precinct.

Extend 3 Cent Sales Tax.

Three bills extending the 3 cent sales tax until July 1 received the final legislative approval when the senate concurred in amendments to them adopted by the house.

Although the sales levy will run until July 1, these measures provide that the present $3,900,000 monthly the state contributes for relief shall extend only until July 1. Much of it is gathered through the collections from the third cent of the tax.

House Republicans hope that by May 1 it will be found that the relief load can be reduced. Accordingly, a bill appointing a senate-house commission to examine this possibility was approved by the house last week. It will be considered by the senate tomorrow.

TESTIMONY ENDS IN 17 MONTH LONG WEIRTON HEARING

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Testimony ended late today in the 17 month long hearing into charges of unfair labor practices against the Weirton Steel company—longest labor board case on record.

Trial Examiner James C. Batten adjourned the hearings after counsel for the Steel Workers Organizing committee, which filed the charges, waived closing arguments. The examiner granted counsel the right to file written summations later.

Labor board attachés immediately began packing some 40,000 pages of transcript and several thousand exhibits for shipment to Washington for review by the three-man national labor board. The S. W. O. C. charged Weirton's management fostered independent unions and conspired to discourage organization activities by the C. I. O. affiliate.

NICK STARTS TRIP SOUTH, BUT SNOW ALTERS HIS PLANS

Nick Vasques, 19 years old, heard Florida calling Sunday night and decided to go south with his uncle's automobile and other portable possessions, including a typewriter and some jewelry.

Nick had been living with the uncle, Frank Manquaito, in Morton Grove. He parked the car in the forest preserve near the suburb, intending to get an early start yesterday morning. But he found the machine buried in snowdrifts. He returned to his uncle's house, with an air of innocence, to pick up his WPA pay check. Instead he was picked up by Capt. George Fredrichs of the Morton Grove police. Capt. Fredrichs said he had been looking for Nick, anyway. Elgin police have a warant for him, charging theft.

For Once in a Blue Moon River Flows Backwards

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 30.—(AP)—The Detroit river flowed backwards today. Engineer Sherman Moore of the United States lakes survey office here explained this was due to strong easterly winds of the last few days, which piled up the water in Lake Erie, the river's outlet, until Erie's level was higher than that of Lake St. Clair, the river's source. "It happens once in 30 or 40 years," Moore said.

Mr. Ring was very cozy—until the colored gunman walked in. He took $64 then locked Mr. Ring in his own ice box, where he soon was as unhappy as the people outside.

FIRES AT FLEEING HOTEL ROBBER; HE LIMPS AWAY

A robber, described by his victims as a skinny little man, was apparently wounded last night as he escaped after an attempted robbery in the Shore Crest hotel, 420 Wrightwood avenue.

Mrs. Gladys McCarthy, resident manager of the hotel, saw the robber holding up Fred Parker, the clerk, with a gun. Mrs. McCarthy picked up a revolver, but couldn't shoot because the clerk was in her line of fire. Instead, she ran to George Isbester, a retired naval officer living at the hotel, and told him what was taking place. Just then the bandit ran empty handed from the hotel. Isbester, with Mrs. McCarthy's revolver, fired one shot at him. The robber stumbled, then limped to a waiting taxicab, in which he fled.

REALTOR ROBBED IN FRONT OF HIS EVANSTON HOME

Evanston police are investigating the robbery of H. Edsall Olson, wealthy real estate dealer, who was held up in front of his home at 818 Forest avenue, Evanston, early Sunday. News of the robbery did not become known until last night.

Mr. Olson had just alighted from a taxicab. He was stopped at the entrance to his home by an armed bandit. He was forced to hand over a Masonic ring and a watch, both of which he described as expensive, and $25.

Mr. Olson's father, Charles A. Olson, for fifty-five years handled the real estate interests in Chicago of the late Elihu Root, international jurist and cabinet member.

Floods Spread Through Thames River Valley

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Floods in the Thames valley were spreading today. In the Ipswich area about 2,000 houses were flooded, with more than 3,000 families affected. At Chertsey, Laleham, Shepperton, and Walton-bridge water surrounded 1,000 houses, following a rise in the Thames below Staines during the night.

U. S. TO EXPAND ITS WAR PLANE SALE TO FRANCE

Has No Idea of Giving Up Plans, Quiz Reveals.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt administration has not the slightest intention of discouraging the war planes deal with France, the senate military affairs committee heard today,

The committee held another secret session today and its chairman, Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.], made evasive replies when asked by reporters about testimony. Other members of the committee were not as secretive, and it was learned that the following revelations featured the hearing:

1. The Douglas bomber, in which a French air ministry official was riding when it crashed on the California coast recently, killing the pilot, is to be rebuilt and as many as 1,000 planes sold to France. The original contract called for several hundred planes.

2. The administration will not step in to halt the French plane deal which has been assailed as putting the United States in a military alliance with France.

Germans Take Over Design.

3. Plans for a heliocopter plane of revolutionary design, patented by an American inventor, have been appropriated by Germany. The Krupp interests are preparing to manufacture quantities of these planes.

Grant Mason of the Civil Aeronautics authority was a witness before the committee and was questioned closely by several senators concerning the propriety of President Roosevelt's encouragement of the sale of war planes to France. Mason asserted that there was no violation of law involved and that any government could enter into a similar contract.

"As a matter of fact, however," inquired a senator, "no such contracts have been encouraged or permitted with other countries, have they?" Mason admitted that this was a fact.

"In practice, therefore," a senator remarked to Mason, "this exclusive contract with France amounts to a deliberate favoring of that country in preference to others."

Refuses to Answer Queries.

Mason declared he had no authority to answer questions from several senators as to how far the proposed sale of planes tc France involves the government in obligations to aid France if she should find herself involved in a struggle with some other European power.

Mason gave the committee statistics on the airplane industry in the United States, the capacity of factories, and the amount of sales. Planes valued at $140,000,000 were sold in the United States last year, he said. Foreign orders amounted to $68,000,000 of this amount.

The Douglas bomber which crashed is not now available for the war department's next tests, the committee learned, so the $65,000,000 deal with the French government can proceed without any hitch which might have developed if the army had adopted the plane. Army contracts provide that a year must elapse before planes can be sold to any other buyer.

PRAISE SENATORS FOR VOTING DOWN BOOST IN RELIEF

Members of the United States senate who last week voted against restoring the $150,000,000 cut in the deficiency relief appropriation bill were commended for their action yesterday by the Illinois chamber of commerce.

"We realize full well the pressure that must have been exerted to secure your vote in maintaining the appropriation at its highest level," read the letter sent by the association to the senators.

"The vote is further important in that it shows a desire by congress to serve the people as an independent thinking body with a constructive desire to judge issues of this type on their merits."

INQUIRY ON TIPS OUSTS 17 IN U. S. MARINE BUREAU

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Seventeen inspectors of the federal bureau of marine inspection and navigation have been suspended by order of Secretary Harry L. Hopkins pending their answers to questions challenging their integrity in the matter of gratuities, commerce department attachés revealed today. The suspension followed a year's secret investigation. It was reported that an investigation of the activities of ship inspectors also is under way and that officials of various steamship lines have been questioned on the giving of tips to the inspectors.

Snow Shovelers Dig Along Trail Left by a Jewel Thief

Kankakee, Ill., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Snow shovelers worked feverishly over the two block trail taken by Ashley Cubberly, 42 years old, today in his flight. Police pursued Cubberly after he smashed a jewelry store window. When they caught him he had a wrist watch and three rings. The jeweler said twenty more rings were missing. Cubberly explained the missing rings must have dropped through a hole in his pocket. The snow shovelers hoped to retrieve the rings.

FINISH PRIMARY REGISTRATIONS; 1,826,668 LISTED

Registration at the election board offices for the Feb. 28 primaries ended last night. Despite the storm, 5,605 voters registered yesterday, most of them appearing in the afternoon and early evening. This brought the total of registered voters in the city to 1,826,668. In addition, 13,400 changes in address were made in person and by mail. Since the election last November, the board has handled 34,568 registrations and approximately 55,000 changes of addresses.

NEW TEMBLORS MENACE RESCUE CREWS IN CHILE

Spread Terror Among Quake Survivors.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Menaced by new earth shocks, rescue workers struggled today to bring relief to stricken southern Chile before there was a complete breakdown of the morale of survivors of last Tuesday's disastrous quake.

The survivors underwent intense hardships, despite the efforts of relief workers, because of lack of food, shelter, clothing, and medical aid.

While thousands of men worked to clear away stone and débris under which an estimated 25,000 or 30,000 persons died, the government was doing its utmost to send all women and children and injured persons from the stricken regions.

Shocks Come in Night.

Most of the injured were being taken to Santiago and Valparaiso, the only places with first class hospitalization available.

Refugees huddled in parks in Chillan feared the coming of night as a result of terrifying shocks last night which some described as just as strong as Tuesday's. They did little damage, however, because the Tuesday earthquake had razed almost everything in the city.

Congress was called in extraordinary session to formulate laws and regulations designed to bring about relief and reconstruction. The cabinet decided today to conscript all able bodied men in the quake zone for emergency relief work. The men were ordered to register according to occupations.

U. S. Planes Arrive.

Two United States army bombers commanded by Capt. Franklin C. Wolfe arrived in Santiago shortly after 1 p. m. from Panama and immediately were dispatched to the quake zone with medicines and serums from Panama. Aboard one of the bombers was George Smith of the American Red Cross. The planes will bring injured persons to Santiago.

United States Ambassador Norman Armour flew to Chillan with Col. Ralph Wooten, United States military attaché, and planned to survey the whole quake area before returning to the capital.

A government official said a survey had disclosed that only twenty houses remained standing in Chillan, where the official population figure was more than 46,000.

Secret Papers Disappear from British Air Office

OATH OF SUPREME COURT IS TAKEN BY FRANKFURTER

Decisions in Two Cases Up to New Member.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Felix Frankfurter, a Harvard law school professor since 1914, took the oath of office and ascended to the bench of the United States Supreme court today before an audience that included many admiring New Dealers.

The day's list of orders, handed down after the formal opinions had been read, set down two important cases for reargument, in which Justice Frankfurter will be privileged to participate.

This indicated that the court had been equally divided—4 to 4—as a result of the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo. If this assumption is true, Justice Frankfurter will cast the deciding vote in these cases, previously argued but now set for reargument on Feb. 27.

Wallace Ruling First on List.

The first of these cases involves the contention of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace that the distribution of $586,000 in sales commissions to brokers at the Kansas City stockyards should be held in abeyance until he can institute new proceedings and pass again upon the reasonableness of their charges from 1933 to 1937.

Wallace's original order was reversed by the Supreme court in an opinion that condemned his star chamber methods and failure to give the petitioners a fair hearing. Wallace's suit, now pending, is an effort to get this reversal invalidated.

Another case involves the fate of the long pending child labor amendment to the federal constitution. Specifically, the question is whether the legislatures of Kansas and Kentucky may validly ratify the amendment after once rejecting it.

Oath Ceremony Is Brief.

The oath taking ceremony for Justice Frankfurter required less than three minutes. Before the court convened he had taken the general oath to support the constitution, required of all officials of the United States, in the privacy of the Supreme court's robing room.

Immediately after the justices had seated themselves at the bench Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes announced that President Roosevelt, "with the advice and consent of the senate," had appointed Felix Frankfurter to be an associate justice.

Escorted by Marshal Thomas E. Waggaman, Justice Frankfurter then proceeded to the clerk's desk and Clerk Charles Elmore Cropley administered the statutory judicial oath "to administer justice without respect to person."

Sits Next to Justice Black.

The marshal then escorted the new justice to his place at the bench, which is on the extreme left of the chief justice, because he is the junior member in point of service. To the right of Justice Frankfurter sits Justice Hugo L. Black, the former Ku Klux Klansman, while President Roosevelt's other appointee, Justice Stanley F. Reed, sits at the other end of the bench on the extreme right of the chief justice. They are rotated, as vacancies occur, according to seniority.

Justice Louis D. Brandeis, whom Frankfurter has reverenced along with the late Justices Cardozo and Oliver Wendell Holmes, was not present to watch him take the oath. Justice Brandeis, who is 82 years old, has been confined to his home several days because of illness.

Storm Delays Student's Hearing on Theft Charge

A continuance until Friday was granted yesterday to Harry Elton Albright, 21 years old, former Northwestern university engineering student, who is charged with the burglary of a restaurant at 643 Library place, Evanston. Judge James H. Corcoran postponed the case when Assistant State's Attorney William C. Rotchford was prevented by the storm from reaching court.

ROOSEVELT ASKS ALL CITIZENS JOIN PARALYSIS FIGHT

"National Peril," He Tells Radio Audience.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told a nation-wide radio audience tonight that infantile paralysis is a national peril and the campaign against it should have the coöperation of every crossroads community.

"Only by such coöperation," he said, "has tuberculosis been brought under control in our lifetime. Only by the same concerted action will the scourge of infantile paralysis be stamped out."

Thanks Guests at Parties.

The President spoke from the White House to guests at thousands of balls throughout the country at which money was being raised, on his 57th birthday, for the paralysis drive.

The President said 50 per cent of the money raised this year will go to the national foundation for research work and the remainder will be spent in the communities where the funds originate.

He thanked the army of workers in the current campaign, those who have made contributions, and the "thousands and thousands of friends who have sent birthday greetings."

CHICAGO PARTY POSTPONED.

The Chicago President's ball, to have been held last night in the Sherman hotel, was postponed because of the weather. It will be held Feb. 2.

ORCHESTRA 'HOT'; 3 CHIMPANZEES COLD TO IT ALL

Philadelphia, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Dr. Thaddeus L. Bolton, retired head of Temple university's psychology department, has noticed apes in their native state clinging to one another and going through motions not unlike those of a "jitterbug."

Today he set the scene to music.

While six musicians from Tommy Dorsey's orchestra held a "jam session" at the zoo, three young chimpanzees huddled together in fright.

"Hot music with high notes is too much for their eardrums," Dr. Bolton explained, "and unlike jitterbugs they are made uncomfortable."

He had the musicians shift to "sweet" music and the chimpanzees stopped to gawk with mouths open and noses twitching.

Fire Puts Mr. Warshafsky in Embarrassing Position

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 30.—(AP)—An assistant spilled some cleaning fluid at the exact moment Israel Warshafsky tossed away a match after lighting his cigar in his tire store here today. Attempting to stamp out the flames, Warshafsky's pants were burned off. He was not seriously burned.

U. S. SUPREME COURT REFUSES TO RULE ON GROUP HEALTH PLAN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—(AP)—The United States Supreme court refused today to pass upon a California tribunal's decision that activities of a San Francisco group health organization violated the state medical practice act.

The organization, the Pacific Health corporation, appealed from the California Supreme court. That court held that the group, in selecting and paying licensed physicians to care for members, was itself practicing medicine in violation of the law. California's state board of medical examiners brought the suit against the group.

The health organization contended the litigation was a test case "chosen by the organized medical practitioners of the country to terminate, prevent, and strike down what they generally term 'group medicine.'"

Increase Chlorine Content to Keep City Water Pure

Yesterday's strong wind over the lake increased the turbidity of the city drinking water. Early in the morning City Engineer Loran D. Gayton ordered its chlorine purification content increased between two and three pounds per million gallons as a safeguard.

HELP 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 Miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 Miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LOYALISTS CRUSH ANARCHIST RIOTS IN FRONTIER TOWN

Extremists Seize Control for a Short Time.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France [At the Spanish Frontier]., Jan. 30.—Spanish loyalist authorities today reported they had broken up an anarchist plot to gain control of Puigcerda, a Spanish town across the border from Bourg-Madame, France.

Before regular authorities restored order there was rioting in Puigcerda, at least one civil guard was killed, and there were reports that the anarchists had massacred a number of political prisoners who were sympathetic to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's rebel régime.

Puigcerda is about fifty miles west of here in the Pyrenees mountains. Its normal population of about 2,500 has been swelled to 15,000 by refugees fleeing Franco's Catalonian drive and attempting to find refuge in France.

Mayor Freed from Jail.

Reports from across the border said there were clashes between anarchists and communists and between civilians and civil guards. The extremists imprisoned the republican mayor and town officials, but they were released by civil guards.

A Maj. Quintila was said to be the leader of the extremists. There were varying reports of what happened to him. One report said he was killed when he attempted to flee.

French Minister of Interior Albert Sarraut and Minister of Health Marc Rucart are going to the frontier to supervise the refugee situation. Rucart is worried over the danger of the outbreak of an epidemic which would be communicated to French citizens.

A hospital for contagious diseases was organized in Perpignan. A few cases of typhoid fever have been reported and isolated. A special train with hospital facilities was made ready in France.

French authorities said that of the more than 50,000 refugees estimated to have crossed into France since the fall of Barcelona, only 250 elected to be sent into rebel Spain.

Snowfall Halts Refugees.

A twenty inch snowfall in the mountains and rain along the frontier checked the flood of homeless persons today. Physicians pushed into Spain to distribute clothing and care for the thousands of women and children who spent last night without shelter. A representative of the Spanish ministry of health bought all the clothing in Perpignan stores.

More than 1,500 refugees were reported trapped in the snow northeast of Puigcerda in Col de Tosas, a Spanish mountain pass. French border guards reported finding bodies of refugees frozen to death in the mountain passes.

At nightfall the loyalists' defense line was reported anchored on the Mediterranean coast, just north of Arenys de Mar and fifty-six miles south of the French border. From that point it cut westward to a point north of Granollers, thence north and west to the border near Seo de Urgel.

MILK PRODUCERS STUDY PROPOSAL FOR CONTROL LAW

Members of the Illinois Milk Producers' association yesterday discussed the draft of a proposed milk control law under which a board of five would be empowered to regulate the Illinois dairy industry, fix prices, and impose sanitary requirements.

The proposed bill was drafted by the legal staf of the Illinois Agricultural association at the producers' request. It was considered probable that such a bill may be presented to the legislature next week.

The producers met yesterday in connection with the twenty-fourth annual convention of the agricultural association, which opened a three day session in the Stevens hotel. More than 2,000 farmer delegates were at the convention. Several thousand others were kept away by the storm.

Under the milk bill the governor would name two producers and two dealers to the control board, subject to senate approval. The state director of agriculture would be chairman. The board would license dealers and distributors and require them to be bonded. It would require them to keep records, which might be subpenaed for hearings. It would fix minimum prices paid to producers. It could investigate production costs, processing, distribution, and other matters. In case of price wars or excessive prices the board could declare an emergency and arbitrarily fix prices.

HITLER'S PLEDGE TO AID IN WAR TICKLES ITALY

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Jan. 30.—Despite the late hour at which Adolf Hitler finished his speech special editions of newspapers containing a full summary were in the streets of Rome tonight.

This journalistic enterprise, unusual in countries where the press is under as strict control as it is in Italy, is a measure of the great importance attributed here to what Hitler said.

The speech was heard by millions of Italians, as it was broadcast by all Italian stations. It was received with great satisfaction, particularly those parts referring to Italy. For Italians the kernel of the message was Hitler's declaration that Germany will stand by Italy in the event of war.

FRANCE REFUSES TO MAKE CORSICA REFUGEE HAVEN

Denies Italian Story of Plan for Spaniards.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Jan. 30.—The idea that the French might establish 100,000 Spaniards who are expected to flee from Catalonia, in Savoy, the Riviera or Corsica—that is to say in the parts of France claimed by Italian propaganda—appeared today to be an Italian invention.

The spread of this idea, however, has caused the Paris government much annoyance and led to unofficial denials. The position of the government is that no such idea ever was considered.

The idea was spread chiefly by a secret broadcasting station calling itself Corsica Liberty. The French, who have been unable to discover the station, believe it is broadcasting from somewhere near Leghorn, Italy.

"Our Corsican Brothers."

The French think of Leghorn because for years it has been the base for propaganda in favor of "unredeemed Corsica." Its newspaper, Tribuna di Livorno, publishes a weekly page devoted to "our Corsican brothers."

French authorities, however, do not overlook the possibility that this clandestine broadcaster may be situated on French territory with a high percentage of Italians.

Corsica Liberty broadcast the story that France intended to send at least 50,000 Spaniards to Corsica. They would be chosen, it was said, from among the toughest and most ferocious elements for which Barcelona has been famous for years. Another 50,000, it was added, would be sent to the Riviera and Savoy—that is, to the so-called "Italianate" regions of France.

Punishment for Italians.

The radio speaker charged France was taking this measure to punish the "Italians" and to corrupt them by subjecting them to the influence of the most violent Reds in Europe.

The French government declares it never had any such idea. The Spanish refugees are being put into concentration camps, none of which are in the "Italianate" regions. As soon as Gen. Francisco becomes master of all of Spain, the French hope to repatriate most of the refugees, leaving in France only a small number who are in danger of execution by Franco for political or other crimes.

FARMERS REVOLT AGAINST UNION WITH 'C.I.O. REDS'

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Protesting what they termed "C. I. O. and communistic principles" in the Farmers' Educational and Coöperative union, a group of Pennsylvania farmers quit its state affiliate today and formed an independent guild.

Milton E. McCleary of New Freedom, Pa., a director of the new farmers' guild of Pennsylvania, said his followers objected to the national union's affiliation with labor's nonpartisan league, which it called "The Political Arm of the C. I. O." The affiliation vote, taken at the union's annual convention in Wisconsin last November, "identified us with the communistic movement," the Pennsylvanians protested.

FIND CHALLENGE TO ROOSEVELT IN HITLER TALK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's speech to the reichstag today was regarded by some Washington officials as a reply and a challenge to President Roosevelt's opening message to congress. In this the President upheld democracy against dictatorship.

Hitler was regarded as referring to President Roosevelt and the United States when he said, "We live in a time filled by shrieks of democratic uplifters," and added, "Spokesmen for these [democratic] countries laud the superiority of the democracies. They may do it as far as their countries are concerned, but we have absorbed 7,000,000 unemployed, thanks to our régime."

Observers feared Hitler's declaration that Germany would support Italy in any fight might encourage Mussolini into action against France.

9 GARY CADETS TO GET TRIBUNE MEDALS TODAY

Nine R. O. T. C. cadets in three Gary public schools will receive gold medals from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE today at assemblies to be held in the Emerson, Horace Mann, and Lew Wallace schools. The awards are given for efficiency.

The cadets are Harry Iddings, Glen Vantrease, Manuel Millian, William Neff, Shan Martin, Charles Torie, Eddie Esping, Gus Cokusis, and Jewel Chandler. The ceremonies were postponed yesterday because of the closing of the schools.

Capt. Donald Q. Harris is professor of military science and tactics in Gary. A second presentation of TRIBUNE medals will be made at a federal inspection of the three units next spring.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat hasty, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach often pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in no time and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

Pledges German Support of Italy in War.

"The question, for instance, whether Germany maintains economic relations and does business with countries in South and Central America concerns nobody but them and ourselves.

"Germany, anyway, is a great and sovereign country and is not subject to the supervision of American politicians.

"Quite apart from that, however, I feel that all states today have so many domestic problems to solve that it would be a piece of good fortune for the nations if responsible statesmen would confine their attention to their own problems.

Assails "Apostles of War."

"Gentlemen of the reichstag, do not forget one thing: In certain democracies it appears to be the special privilege of political and democratic life artificially to engender hatred against the so-called totalitarian states, and to excite public opinion against peoples who had done no harm to other peoples and who do not want to do any harm to them.

"Now when we defend ourselves against such apostles of war as Duff Cooper, Mr. Eden, Mr. Churchill, or Mr. Ickes, this is represented as interference with the sacred rights of the democracies.

"According to the conception of these gentlemen, they have the right to attack other people and their leaderships, but nobody has the right to take umbrage against this.

[Alfred Duff Cooper and Anthony Eden resigned as British first lord of the admiralty and foreign secretary, respectively, in protest against Chamberlain's policy of dealing with Europe's dictators. Winston Churchill, veteran British statesman, sympathized with them. Harold L. Ickes, American secretary of interior, several times has criticized the dictatorships publicly.]

To Answer All Attacks.

"I hardly need to assure you that as long as the German reich is a sovereign state the leadership will not let an English or American politician forbid its answering such attacks.

"I deem it necessary that from now on in our propaganda and in our press all attacks be answered, and above all be brought to attention of the German people.

"After all, German soldiers have never yet fought on American soil except in the service of American independence.

"On the other hand, American soldiers were called to Europe to help strangle a great nation that was struggling for its freedom.

"It was not Germany that attacked America, but America Germany.

"The German people do not want their affairs governed by a foreign people. France to the French, England to the English, America to Americans, and Germany to Germans!"

Adolf Hitler Addresses Reichstag

PLEDGE OF AID TO ITALY

Hitler's pledge of German support of Italy in time of war was contained in these paragraphs:

"The solidarity of the German and Italian régimes is more than an affair of egotistic purposefulness.

"In this solidarity lies the salvation of Europe from threatening bolshevik destruction.

"When Italy fought its heroic struggle for existence in Abyssinia [Ethiopia], the German people therefore stood by its side as a friend.

"In the year 1938 Fascist Italy in a rich measure paid us back for our friendship. [A reference to the Munich accord in which Germany won the Sudetenland from Czecho-Slovakia.]

Praises Italy as Friend.

"May nobody in the world be mistaken about the decision that National Socialist Germany has arrived at concerning this friend.

"It can only serve the cause of peace that there is no doubt about it that a war against the Italy of today launched for no matter what motive will call Germany to the side of her friend.

"National Socialist Germany and Fascist Italy are strong enough to secure their peace against everybody, or determinedly to end a conflict recklessly entered into by irresponsible forces. This does not mean we want war.

"Our relations with Japan are likewise founded upon the decision to call a halt to threatening boleshevization of a world become blind."

SPEAKS OF TRADE WAR

A threat that Germany is ready to engage in a trade war was made in Hitler's reply to charges that world trade was retrogressing because of the German methods of mutual exchange of goods [the barter system]:

"The compulsion under which Germany's economic policy stands now is so great that no threat of capitalistic measures can keep us from this activity, for the necessity does not arise from capitalistic greed for gain, but simply from the exigencies forced upon us through the fault of others and for no urgent cause.

"If ever dire need has made people see, it has done it in the case of the German people. Under the pressure of this dire need we have learned above all things to reckon with the most essential capital of a nation, namely, its labor power.

"In the face of the industry and ability of a national labor power planfully invested, all gold and foreign exchange hoards pale into insignificance.

Ready for Struggle.

"We must export in order to buy foodstuffs, and secondly we must—since this export hardly meets raw materials which we do not have—export still more to cover these raw materials.

"And if foreign statesmen threaten with I don't know what economic counter measure, I can only say that in such a case a trade war of despair would begin which would be an easy one for us.

"Easier than for the saturated other nations because the motive for our economic battle would be a very simple one, namely: the German people either live—meaning export—or die.

"As for its leaders, I can only state that they are ready for everything."

WARNS WESTERN POWERS

"If certain newspapers and politicians in the rest of the world now allege that Germany thus threatened other nations [by military preparations in the Czecho-Slovak crisis] by military blackmail, it can only be as a result of crude distortion of the facts.

"Germany restored the rights of self-determination to ten million of her fellow countrymen in a territory [both Sudetenland and Austria] where neither the British nor any other western nation have any business.

"And I need not assure you gentlemen that in the future as well we shall not tolerate the western states attempting to interfere in certain matters which concern nobody but ourselves in order to hinder natural and reasonable solutions by their intervention.

"The assertion that National Socialism in Germany will soon attack North or South America, Australia, China, or even The Netherlands, because different systems of government are in control in these places, is on the same plane as the statement that we intend to follow it up with an immediate occupation of the full moon."

DEMANDS WAR LOST LANDS

Hitler's demand for the return of colonies was couched in this language:

"The entire behavior of the so-called victor powers after conclusion of the world war was as unreasonable as it was irresponsible. The robbery of the German colonies was morally wrong and economically sheer madness, politically in its motivation so dastardly that one is tempted merely to describe it as silly.

"In the year 1918 after the conclusion of war there was authority for bringing about a sensible solution of international problems. The problem at the end of the war was simply this:

"How can a just and sensible participation of all large nations in the riches of the earth be safeguarded?

"Either the riches of the world are distributed by force, in which case this distribution will from time to time always undergo a correction by force, or the distribution is undertaken according to the viewpoint of fairness and thereby also of common sense, in which case fairness and common sense must really serve justice and thereby in the last analysis be purposeful.

Speaks of "Have-Nots."

"To assume, however, that it was permitted by the Lord God to a few peoples first to take possession of the world by force and then to defend their robbery by moral theories is perhaps comforting and above all easy for the possessors, but is immaterial and uninteresting and nonbinding for the have-nots.

"No people have been born to be have-nots and no people to be haves. The conditions of possession on this earth have resulted from historical developments.

"So far as Germany is concerned the position is a very simple one:

"The reich has 80 million inhabitants, that is 135 to the square kilometer [0.3861 square mile].

"The German colonial possessions which the reich once acquired peace through treaty and by purchase have been stolen from us, and that against solemn assurances of President Wilson which were the basis of our laying down arms.

"The pretext that these colonial possessions were of no value anyhow should justify their return without any trouble."

CHARGES JEWS STIR WAR

Blaming Jews for the world war and asserting they also are responsible for the war fever raging now, Hitler said:

"A war started by international Jewry will not result in communism and victory for the Jews, as they hope, but in the destruction of the Jews in Europe.

"If international Jewry should succeed in precipitating a new world war, it will be found that the nationals no longer want to die on battlefields to provide profits for that race. The Jewish slogan of 'proletarians of the world, unite,' will be superseded by the slogan, 'working members of all nations, recognize your common enemy.'

"The world must find a place to settle the Jews who must adapt themselves to sound constructive activity as other nations do or else succumb to a crisis of inconceivable size. The outside world cannot influence Germany's treatment of the Jews in the slightest."

Prior to the speech Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering was reelected president of the reichstag by a standing vote. The reichstag also prolonged until May 10, 1943, the enabling act of March 24, 1933, which gave Hitler and his government full authority to rule by decree without parliamentary approval.

"GIVE ME ANSWERS!"

By CALEB

SIDE BY SIDE with a great hunger in the world today for amusement and diversion one also sees on every hand a great hunger for knowledge. While science and education have made enormous strides in the popularizing of information, men's appetites seem merely to grow on such food, and are continually demanding more.

This, economists and sociologists agree, is as glowing a promise for progress as any light now on the horizon. For knowledge is still as definitely power today as at any time in racial history. And with greater accumulations of it has been even more clearly highlighted the recent startling pronouncement of a scientist, that "Human knowledge, compared with the ignorance around it, is a pindling candle set in an ocean of eternal midnight."

Fortunately for future as well as present generations, however, it is the researcher, supported by the resources of numerous giant corporations, who is the one individual on the contemporary scene most capable of expanding the gleam of that candle and contracting the gloom that engulfs it. In his sanity, intellectual poise, and saving sense of humility allied with imaginative vision, lie the world's surest hopes for emancipation from its questions.

The very simplicity of the questions themselves would deceive any but a research specialist. "Why is grass green?" "What is electricity?" "How do we see through glass?"—are queries any six-year-old puts to a perplexed parent. But as yet we haven't the truth that permits of satisfactory replies. And as with Nature, so with human nature; countless wise volumes probe it and offer interesting hypotheses—but the ancient Greek's "Know thyself!" is still the unmet challenge.

If ever such challenges as these are met, it will be the Researcher who proves their master . . . "Don't give me millions; give me answers to my questions!" runs a famous line from Dostoievsky. It is to that cry of the race that the Researcher's ear is ever tuned. And to the need behind it he dedicates admirable gifts and training, paired with a selflessness of purpose that cannot be defeated.

BRITAIN, FRANCE RELIEVED AFTER HEARING HITLER

Believe Nazis Need Peace to Consolidate Gains.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The absence of saber rattling threats in Adolf Hitler's pronouncement of colonial claims before the reichstag tonight gave Europe new hope for peace.

British and French statesmen were relieved that the German Fuehrer hinted the return of the reich's war lost colonies without force would be his chief aim for 1939

They noted also as significant that Hitler in asserting he would fight for the axis partner, Fascist Italy, withheld outright support for Italian territorial claims against France.

Both London and Paris interpreted Hitler's emphasis on economic difficulties as an indication that Germany needed peace to consolidate the territorial gains she made in 1938 through the annexation of Austria and Czecho-Slovakia's Sudetenland.

Chamberlain Studies Speech.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain sat up late to study an official version of the address, which was expected to have a marked influence on his own statement before the house of commons tomorrow on international affairs. Some quarters believed Chamberlain's statement in a speech at Birmingham Saturday night on Britain's armed strength impressed Hitler.

French Foreign Minister Bonnet and his aides in Paris declared the fuehrer's speech "much more than we expected."

Some misgivings were provoked in London and Paris by Hitler's reference to Gen. Franco's "valiant defeat" of bolshevism which failed to throw any light on German plans in Spain when the civil war there ends.

Baldwin Promises Fight.

As Hitler spoke, former Prime Minister Earl Baldwin, with Chamberlain's approval, declared in a speech that Britain would "fight with unanimity never seen before" if war should come. He disclosed that he was a co-author of Chamberlain's appeasement policy of personal contacts with the heads of European governments.

Chamberlain faces commons tomorrow fortified by a reinforced cabinet.

Chamberlain swept aside domestic legislation at the request of the labor opposition for a full discussion of foreign developments since the House adjourned on Dec. 22 for its Christmas recess.

Three important domestic developments have taken place during the recess. Chamberlain, it was learned, has rejected the idea of holding an early general election; the laborites split over forming an anti-government coalition; and Chamberlain shook up his cabinet.

The general election idea was rejected, it was said, in view of the tense international situation and the start of the government's national defense program.

Ask G. O. P. Vote for Courtney; Realty Leaders Back Kelly

BY PARKE BROWN.

The heavy snow yesterday halted campaign meetings, but Democratic activities were continued by radio and press. Two leaders in the real estate business spoke for Mayor Kelly. But Kelly headquarters attached fully as much importance to a statement issued independently by Prof. Paul H. Douglas. Former Ald. Arthur F. Albert urged Republicans to support State's Attorney Courtney in the Democratic primary. The statements:

COURTNEY—

Arthur Albert.

Former Ald. Albert made his appeal to Republicans to support State's Attorney Courtney in an evening radio speech during which he attacked the expenditures of Mayor Kelly's administration.

The speaker belittled the argument of G. O. P. leaders that the man who votes Democratic this year will be barred from the 1940 Republican primary in which new ward committeemen, new members of the state central committee, and delegates to the party's national convention will be elected.

Asks Voters to Put City First.

"It is far more important," said Albert, "that we vote to nominate Thomas J. Courtney mayor on Feb. 28 than it is to trail along with a few gentlemen who are more interested in selecting and controling some delegates and alternates to a nominating convention next year than they are interested in the welfare of Chicago."

Albert expressed the opinion that the outcome of the Democratic primary will settle the result of the mayoral election on April 4. He charged that the regular Republican organization, with which he never has been identified, is in a conspiracy to bring about the reelection of Mayor Kelly.

Charges Throttling Alliance.

"A bad Democrat and a bad Republican are alike," he said. "They usually wind up standing side by side in a general conspiracy against the public. That is what has affected our city's welfare and throttled it throughout recent years and up to the present day.

"There is one way out and only one way. Every right thinking Republican, Democrat and independent should march to the polls Feb. 28 with one thought in mind—the overwhelming nomination of Thomas J. Courtney in the Democratic primary.

"Mr. Courtney will destroy the bipartisan political oligarchy and restore true nonpartisanship in our local government, which is as it should be if the taxpayers' interests are to be served. Nothing is so nonpartisan as a taxbill."

Cites Ten Years in Council.

"I wish to repeat that I have been a Republican and still am a Republican," he said. "I was elected to the city council and served for ten years. I know from that experience what the price of partisanship in purely local affairs really means. The nonpartisan aldermanic election law, under which all of the fifty aldermen of Chicago are elected, should be extended to include the office of mayor."

KELLY—

Arthur Kruggel.

Arthur Kruggel, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, and F. C. Enderlin, president of the North Side Real Estate board, spoke in support of Mayor Kelly in the first of a series of radio symposiums arranged by the All-Chicago committee.

Both discussed direct taxation with special reference to taxes on real estate. Kruggel began by saying that while the tax rate—the figure used in determining the amount of tax to be paid in dollars and cents—has gone up, the valuations used in tax computations have gone down.

Says Less Money Paid Out.

"For many years," he said, "I have made a study of operating costs in connection with homes and apartment buildings. The records show, generally speaking, that there has been a consistent reduction in the actual money paid out in taxes for real estate. I would say a decrease of almost 50 per cent from the high of 1930."

Professor Attacks Courtney.

Prof. Douglas, of the University of Chicago, said that his public statement on the mayoralty was issued because of many inquiries directed to him as the head of the short lived movement to draft Secretary Ickes as a candidate. It was confined to expression of his opposition to two condidates—State's Attorney Courtney and a former Republican mayor.

"I am convinced," said the educator, who also is a candidate for alderman of the 5th ward, "that there is nothing about Mr. Courtney's background, his record or his associations which indicates that he is entitled to pose as an exponent of good government. His principal associates are ordinary politicians, and, indeed, I believe Courtney himself is but an ordinary politician.

Assails Ax Raid Tactics.

"I cannot see that Chicago would get any kind of real reform if Mr. Courtney were elected mayor."

Prof. Douglas described Courtney's ax raids on gambling places as extralegal, or outside the law.

"His tactics and his personality are dangerous to civil liberties," he said, "and to the maintenance of the rights of minority groups.

"A man who will stoop to extralegal methods in one phase of government is likely to resort to extralegal methods of government in other phases.

"I feel it would be tragic if the people of Chicago were misled into believing that Mr. Courtney represents either good government or progressive policies."

GREEN PLEDGES LOWER TAXES IN APPEAL TO LABOR

Blasts Padded Pay Rolls and Reckless Spending.

Lower taxes in city, state, and nation are the key to higher wages and more jobs, Dwight H. Green said last night in a radio address to workers and the unemployed. Green, former United States district attorney, is the regular Republican mayoral candidate.

"Politicians must stop using labor problems as political footballs," he said. "You men and women are going to receive many promises in the mayorality campaign. You will hear one of the greatest promisers in politics tell you how he is going to restore jobs and how he is going to rid our city of nonunion wages."

"I have never made a pledge or promise in my life that I have failed to keep—I have kept every one of them and I'm proud of that."

Sketches His Background.

Green sketched his own background as a worker on a newspaper route, in a drug store, on a farm, as a truck driver, and pointed to his record of public performance.

He asserted that prosperity cannot be achieved by bloated government spending of the citizens' money.

"Our high taxes, for the most part, are the cause of your unemployment and are the cause of thousands being placed on relief rolls," Green declared. "They are brought about by politicians who are padding pay rolls with the taxpayers' money."

He promised that if he is elected he will eliminate padded pay rolls and reduce taxes. He asserted that the taxpayer is a forgotten man under the Democratic administration. Another is the man 45 years old or older who is seeking employment, Green asserted. He said his aim will be to help both.

Tells of Aims for Labor.

Of labor unions, the speaker said: "Labor unions are a powerful influence for good government. . . . We must secure and protect the rights of labor. And we must have a sympathetic understanding of not one branch of labor, but of all branches of labor."

Civil service employés will not have to ring doorbells under his administration, Green said. He pledged that all public employés will have his aid in securing adequate protection for illness and retirement.

The weather caused postponement of three meetings Green was to have addressed last night: the Women's City club, the Union Teachers' league, and a 7th ward meeting. He will speak at two of nine G. O. P. ward meetings booked for tonight. The two are in the 17th ward, at 235 West 63d street, and in the 27th ward, at 1552 Madison street.

HIGH WAGES FORCE PLANT AND PAY ROLL OUT OF MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—The National Enamel and Stamping company, will remove its tinware department from Milwaukee next month, President A. J. Kieckhefer advised the city council's industrial peace department today. Only the stove department will continue operating in Milwaukee. The move will mean the loss of an annual pay roll of $100,000 and jobs for about 130 men.

A combination of high union wage rates, unfavorable location, and high personal property tax is responsible for the removal from Wisconsin, Kieckhefer said in announcing that his concern will follow the long line of industrial plants to transfer their operations elsewhere. The stove plant is about 40 per cent of the concern's original operations here.

Employés who have sufficient seniority will be transferred to the stove plant, which will mean proportionate layoffs in that department.

Fatally Wounds Friend While Swapping Revolvers

Joseph Castaldo, 19 years old, visited his friend, Carmelo Lacognato, to exchange revolvers yesterday. As he drew a gun from his pocket, he accidentally pulled the trigger. Lacognato was wounded in the abdomen. He died while being taken to a hospital. Castaldo fled after the shooting. The two men lived in separate apartments at 1016 Polk street.

WATCHMAN DIES ON WALK.

James Murray, 60 years old, died of a heart attack yesterday while walking to his home at 600 West 37th street. He was employed as a watchman for the city water pipe extension bureau.

POPE CALLS ALL ITALIAN BISHOPS TO MEET FEB. 11

Will Discuss Status of Treaty with Italy.

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI. today called all of Italy's bishops for an extraordinary address on Feb. 11, the tenth anniversary of the Lateran treaty between the Vatican and the Italian state.

The convocation of all bishops of Italy, numbering more than 280, was described in Vatican circles as rare since the breach between the church and government sixty-eight years ago which the treaty with its concordat healed.

Three instruments in all were signed on Feb. 11, 1929. A political treaty recognized the full independent sovereignty of the Holy See in Vatican City. A concordat regulated the condition of religion and of the Church of Italy. A financial convention granted the Holy See a total of 1,750,000,000 lire [currently $92,050,000] as compensation for confiscated property.

Announcement of the call followed rumors that the pontiff planned to address the bishops on the present status of the concordat which he said in a Christmas eve address to the cardinals had been "wounded" by Italy's racial restrictions on marriage and the "mistreatment" of Catholic Action, lay society.

At that time the pope expressed sorrow that approach of the anniversary of conciliation brought "real and serious preoccupation and bitter sadness" instead of happiness.

Slightly more than a year ago the pope received a large representation but not all of the Italian episcopate.

Speaking to the bishops on that occasion he contrasted the successful operation of the Italian concordat with that of church and state relations "beyond the Alps," which prelates understood to mean Germany.

CITY EMPLOYES OF PEORIA TO BE PAID IN 'SCRIPT'

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—City employés of Peoria will be paid in scrip from Feb. 15 to April 1, it was disclosed tonight, due to an empty city treasury, which was kept in funds by slot machine racketeers until state authorities closed them down.

The emergency procedure was announced by Mayor David McCluggage following a meeting of the city council finance committee to consider the problem. The mayor said employés will be paid as long as funds hold out, and that scrip will be issued until the end of the fiscal year, when the city can borrow funds on anticipated taxes.

No mention was made at the committee meeting of the loss of revenue incurred by the slot machines being driven from the city. The racketeers at one time were "fined" $1,500 a month, but later this sum was paid directly into the city treasury in return for freedom to operate unmolested. No slot machines have been operated in Peoria for two months.

Hear Objections Tomorrow to Council Candidacies

The board of election commissioners will begin public hearing tomorrow on objections filed against the nominating petitions for the Feb. 28 aldemanic elections. Objections have been filed against 121 of the 366 aldermanic candidates. John Rusch, chief clerk of the election board, said the hearings probably will last about ten days. The candidates have until Feb. 8 to withdraw from the race.

STARS PROTEST D. A. R. BAN ON MISS ANDERSON

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Metropolitan opera stars and other musicians have protested against the Daughters of the American Revolution barring Marian Anderson, Negro singer, from Constitution hall in Washington, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced today.

The association said the D. A. R., which owns the building, has a contract clause preventing Negro artists from appearing there. Miss Anderson has scheduled a concert for April 9.

Lawrence Tibbett, president of the American Guild of Musical Artists, told the N. A. A. C. P. in a telegram that the D. A. R. rule "obviously is undemocratic and un-American," and said he will recommend that the guild board uphold the N. A. A. C. P. Other messages were received from Kirsten Flagstad, Geraldine Farrar, Walter Damrosch, and Leopold Stokowski, through an assistant.

Here's Why: Thousands of others, like the Gemmells, have found REM brings prompt relief from coughs. That's why they're glad to "pass the good word along." REM is thorough, for coughs resulting from colds, because it works two ways . . . in the throat and also systemically. REM is much more than just a "tickle-stopper."

AMERICAN FLEET MASSES AT SEA FOR MANEUVERS

Ready to Set Up Defense of Panama Canal.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Units of the American fleet during the last week have taken up stations in a wide area commanding the South Atlantic and the Caribbean, completing the first movement of the extensive winter maneuvers to test the navy's defenses of the long eastern coastline.

Admiral Bloch.

From Norfolk to the Canal Zone, about 2,000 miles north to south, and from Cuba to the Virgin Islands, slightly less than 1,000 miles east to west, the great American armada has been spread in fighting array.

With craft of every type assembled to navigate the air, the surface of the sea, and under water, the immediate task of Admiral Claude C. Bloch, commander in chief of the fleet, is to coördinate the planes and warships and the many thousands of men aboard them into a unified defensive mechanism.

Mass Off Cuba.

The most apparent massing of ships observable is between Guanfanamo, Cuba, where the United States has a permanent naval base, and the Gulf of Gonaives in Haiti. Admiral Bloch, on the flagship Pennsylvania, was based at Guantanamo with the battle fleet near by while heavy and light cruisers rode the waters in the Cuban-Haitian area.

The base force of the fleet is also in the Guantanamo-Gonaives sector of the western Caribbean and the destroyer squadrons are based at Gonaives. At Aux Cayes bay, another Haitian shelter, the submarines have established their base. Several hundred miles east the new Atlantic squadron of battleships, light cruisers and destroyers is operating in Vieques sound.

The most far flung were the navy's flying units, with Patrol Wing 5 at Norfolk, Wing 3 at Canal Zone, and Wing 1 at San Juan. Marine Air Squadron 3, based at St. Thomas, is occupying the most advanced front position, while the 1st brigade of the fleet's marine force is encamped on Culebra and Vieques Island.

Test Canal Zone Defense.

Somewhere in the Caribbean area before the end of February the fleet will be divided into two forces, one for attack and the other for defense, to test the ability of a theoretical enemy to penetrate the approaches to the Canal Zone as well as the skill of the defenders to repulse such an attack.

Meantime, most of the fleet's personnel got in a week's routine drill. After Patrol Wing 1 settled in San Juan harbor, the enlisted personnel of the forty-eight big patrol planes pitched camp ashore on Miraflores Island and prepared for bombing exercises during the coming week.

Landing exercises will be continued this week with the Atlantic squadron, marine aircraft, and marine brigade units participating.

Practice Attacks.

Throughout the last week units of the 1st brigade, divided between Culebra and Vieques, have participated in simulated attacks and landings on Vieques Island. Troops ashore, operating on the defensive, have fought off landings, using tanks, field guns, and planes. This week marines who have been on the defensive will switch and take the offensive.

Until this year practically all operations in the Vieques area were limited to Culebra Island. Recently a fairly adequate landing field was established on Vieques Island and it was found that more extensive areas for the operations of troops were available there than on Culebra, which is not more than ten square miles in extent.

Most of Culebra, however, is owned by the navy and the main marine camp has been set up there on the north shore of the great harbor on the old Spanish site of San il de Fonso.

American, Brazilian Die in Rio de Janeiro Plane Crash

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 30.—(AP)—C. E. Powell, an American, and Lieut. Jose Grisbul of the Brazilian army were killed today when their bomber crashed in suburban Andarahy. Powell, employed by the Vultee Aircraft corporation of California, was instructing Grisbul to fly one of the twenty-six new Vultee bombers recently purchased by the Brazilian army. Eyewitnesses said Grisbul, at the controls of the plane, apparently attempted a forced landing and struck electric light wires.

A Better Way to Treat Constipation!

When you're constipated, it's a great temptation to be satisfied with quick relief. But medicines may become a habit. And they don't keep constipation from returning. It's so much better to get at the cause of the trouble!

If you eat what most people do, chances are the only thing the matter is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean how much you eat. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

What to do? Eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. This crunchy cereal contains both "bulk" and the intestinal tonic, vitamin $B_1$. And it's not a drug, not a medicine! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers. Served by restaurants.

JAPAN PREPARES TO KEEP ARMY IN CHINA LONG TIME

Builds New Barracks; Provides Supplies.

TOKIO, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Lieut. Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, Japan's war minister, declared in the diet [parliament] today that Japan had made "full preparations" to station troops indefinitly over wide areas of China.

It was the first unqualified admission that Japan intends to maintain military forces in China for an infinite period. In answer to a question, Itagaki said:

"It can be said that troops will be stationed over wide areas for a considerably long time. It is impossible to tell just now for how long a time. The army already has made full preparations for this. Construction of the necessary barracks is under way and the army is studying measures to furnish provisions, clothing and medical services for the troops."

The questioner then asked the views of the navy minister, Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, who replied:

"The navy considers the Yangtze valley especially important, has dispatched a strong fleet to this area, and plans to strengthen this even after the end of the [China] incident."

Another point of Japanese policy, the anti-communist pact with Germany and Italy, came up for diet discussion in questions asked of Premier Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma and Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita. Both said that the pact would be strengthened but added that it was impossible to disclose what specific steps were being considered.

Guerrillas Harass Japs.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Chinese sources said today that persistent guerrilla attacks, launched from mountain bases in south Shansi province, had caused 7,000 Japanese casualties in the last ten days. Also in northern Kiangsi province, Chinese said, guerrillas ambushed Japanese troops, killed 1,000 of them, and captured much equipment.

A Japanese spokesman announced that Japanese naval authorities and Chinese customs officials had seized one British and two Norwegian coastal steamers Saturday off Shayangho, a small port south of Haichow, on suspicion of smuggling goods for the benefit of the Chinese irregular fighters.

The vessels, with their foreign masters, were held at Tsingtao while an investigation went on.

[Later reports at Tsingtao said the British cruiser Birmingham had escorted the British ship St. Vincent de Paul from that harbor without opposition. They said the two Norwegian ships still were held.]

Switzerland Adopts Plan for Speedier Mobilization

BASEL, Switzerland, Jan. 30.—(AP)—An ordinance giving the government the right to call Switzerland's citizen army to the colors without further notice was published today. The order was so designed that all frontiers might be manned within a few minutes' notice should international events require it. The September crisis showed the need for a faster method of mobilization it was explained.

A Washington dispatch published last Dec. 30 quoted from a report of the national independent pharmacists stating that before the New York state fair trade legislation, the "Scholl corn plaster" was sold in New York City drug stores at an average price of 22.1 cents and after the legislation at a minimum price of 31 cents. J. A. Shay, vice president of the Scholl Manufacturing company, states that its product evidently referred to is the 35 cent de luxe Zino-pad and adds: "Your newspaper files of past copies will show advertising of our merchandise during the last ten years that up until a few months ago our de luxe Zinopads were offered at 33 cents and since at 31 cents, the minimum under the Illinois fair trade law."

OUR UNDECLARED WARS—FOR OTHERS.

Senator Robert R. Reynolds of North Carolina, a member of the foreign relations committee, tells his colleagues in the senate that the United States has entered upon an undeclared war with Japan. He observes and remarks upon strange and mysterious conditions—understandings which America does not understand, agreements to which it has not agreed, losses which it has been obliged to pocket, gains earned and not collected, prospective benefits other nations expect to obtain from it, debts they decline to honor, and territorial compensations they refuse to make.

America is a strange figure in the strangest world there ever was, and that is so because it is seldom that an American in high office will speak the truth as Senator Reynolds has done and bring it to the attention of the country, a confused country thinking little of itself.

American neutrality in the far east now consists of sticking a spear in the side of Japan from Guam and giving credits to the Chinese for war materials. The Japanese may have their hands full, but their navy is not engaged. They may have a foolish idea of its fighting power. It may not be as good as they think it is. Have we any real object at this time in finding out? If so, what is it?

An agreement with Great Britain gives the American fleet the use of the Singapore base. The inference of the grant is joint use for a combined British and American fleet. The fortification of Guam, any work there for naval or aviation purposes, will be a threat Japan cannot ignore. It may increase the importance of Singapore.

Although there is now a vexed status which Senator Reynolds calls a state of undeclared war, the American fleet has been transferred from the Pacific to the Atlantic and is in war games off the Cuban naval base. This brings up another point of the senator's remarks. While we have none but bellicose uses for Guam and Singapore, to aid France and Britain, we have the best of uses for the British and French possessions in American waters to defend America. Senator Reynolds renews the demand for them. They are bases essential to defense and security.

The French and the British make much of the assistance they hope or expect to get from the United States in their troubles and Americans do not know with what assurance they expect and hope. They have not made much of the debts they owe the United States on the war which preceded the one they now anticipate. Their American possessions have been bought and paid for, but not delivered. They tell Hitler and Mussolini they will not give up an inch of territory. That business is between the four of them, but the refusal has extended also to the United States. Uncle Sam is known as a soft touch, but is he as soft as all this?

The fleet is now at war games off American shores, studded with the fortifications of European nations for which the United States already has sacrificed much and is expected to sacrifice more without gaining from them the slightest recognition of its national interests and their own unpaid obligations. The first article of good faith would compel them to clear out of American waters. Our government does not even ask it.

ON BECOMING A CITIZEN.

A gentleman who recently was admitted to American citizenship has complained to us of the undignified manner in which the matter was concluded. He had no fault to find with the preliminary examinations by the immigration department; his complaint was concerned with the final and culminating ceremony in the United States District court.

It was a great moment in his life, he said, a moment in which by deliberate choice he broke allegiances which he and his forefathers for many centuries had acknowledged; a moment of dedication to a new life, a new country, and a new set of duties and responsibilities. His body carries the scars of half a dozen wounds received in war on behalf of the land of his birth. He was about to take his solemn oath to bear arms even against that country if he should be called upon to do so. He had fought against the United States; now he was being admitted to full citizenship in it.

It was for him, and no doubt for the hundred others from many lands who had gathered in the United States District court, a moment of the greatest solemnity. This is what happened: The judge was announced and every one rose to his feet. A clerk mumbled something in singsong. The clerk sat down and the new citizens were waved from the room. That was all there was to it; not a word of advice or congratulation or anything else; nothing to impress upon these men and women the meaning of the event for them and their new country; no reminder to them of their new privileges and the responsibilities which go with them.

The new citizens left the courtroom puzzled and shocked, as well they might have been. A little more dignity in these proceedings, a recognition by the judges of the solemnity of the moment, might yield an enormous return over the years. It is not in the interest of our country to have its new citizens regard their admission as the merest formality. In obtaining citizenship they have entered into a covenant and no pains should be spared to impress upon them the importance of the occasion.

ABOLISHING TAX EXEMPTION.

The President in a special message to congress has asked that the federal income tax in the future be applied to the salaries of state and municipal employés and the income derived from state and municipal bonds. He also asks that the salaries of federal employés and the income from federal bonds be made subject to state tax laws. He would have these changes brought about by an act of congress.

The question which naturally arises is why has tax immunity in the past been accorded to these particular classes of income. In particular, during the world war when public opinion would have supported any kind of tax to raise national defense funds, why did congress let these sources of income go tax free? And why did President Roosevelt wait five years before proposing that an end be made to tax immunity?

The answer is clear. The tax exemption did not arise from congressional neglect but from the provisions of the constitution. Prior to the adoption of the sixteenth amendment any federal income tax was unconstitutional. When that amendment was submitted to the states opposition to it developed on the ground that the amendment would be used as authority to tax their securities and the income of their employés. Since there is no provision for getting an interpretation from the Supreme court in advance, the nearest thing to that was an opinion from the top flight of legal, legislative, and economic authorities.

The foremost constitutional lawyer was Elihu Root. He rendered a formal opinion declaring that the amendment clearly would not give the federal government the power that was feared to tax the bondholders and employés of states and municipalities. Root's opinion was supported by Senator Borah, a great constitutional authority of the senate. The great tax authority was Prof. Seligman of Columbia university. He joined the senator and the constitutional lawyer in their interpretation of the act. Armed with these opinions, the advocates of the sixteenth amendment were able to allay the fears of the state legislatures and to obtain ratification of the amendment.

A long line of decisions of the Supreme court of the United States has supported the view that the tax immunity of the exempt classes of income was constitutional, and that the exemption had not been modified by the sixteenth amendment.

The President, in now calling upon congress to tax what has been held to be exempt from taxation by the constitution, evidently believes that with three members of his own choice on the Supreme bench he can now obtain interpretations which will accomplish what all authorities have held could only be brought about by constitutional amendment.

His proposal is made to apply only to securities subsequently to be issued. And very little revenue is going to be immediately available if the tax applies only to the future securities. It is clear that, having applied the tax to future issues, it would soon be extended to the issues already outstanding.

There is a growing belief that the relief problem will not be reduced to manageable proportions until it is shifted from the federal government to the states. And considerable sentiment to pass the relief burden to the states now exists in congress. The abolishment of tax exemption would unquestionably increase the cost of borrowing money by the states, at a time when they seem likely to take over a costly function. This is no time to put impediments in the way of state and municipal financing.

At some future time, when the financial condition of the states is more comfortable and when the rates of federal taxation have been reduced so that the premium on tax exemption is moderate, the termination of tax exemption will be appropriate. When that time comes, it should be done by a constitutional amendment.

The President's proposal is an attempt to reverse a long line of judicial decisions and to give a meaning to a constitutional amendment contrary to what was commonly understood at the time of its ratification. This indicates that the President believes that by his three appointments he has accomplished all that he hoped for by the court packing scheme, which aroused congress and the whole country to stormy opposition.

Germany became a dictatorship because the provisions of the Weimar constitution could be nullified by decrees. No democracy can be safe if the provisions of its constitution can be changed either by decrees or by interpretation by an acquiescent court. The proposal to tax well paid state and city employés and municipal bonds would be unobjectionable if it were not clearly unconstitutional. What we object to is the contempt shown for the constitution and the continuing plan to chisel away all of the guarantees in the constitution which stand between us and Nazism.

Editorial of the Day

THE NEW JUDGE.

[Baltimore Sun.]

Mr. T. Alan Goldsborough is a man of more than average vigor and enterprise. In his younger days he was counted one of the more aggressive lawyers of the eastern shore. But for two decades he has given the major part of his time and interest to politics and to his work in congress. And, as far as can be recalled, very few have ever attributed to him that quality known as judicial temperament—either in his active days at the bar or in his political career of the last twenty years.

In these circumstances it is natural that his appointment to the bench of the District of Columbia should serve to recall the very special loyalty to the President's political purposes which he showed during the attempted purge of Senator Tydings last summer. It is easier to think of Mr. Goldsborough's appointment to the bench in terms of personal favor—his back being scratched in return for his scratching of the President's back—than it is to think of it in terms of impersonal selection of the best judicial timber.

This is not strange, in view of Mr. Roosevelt's general attitude toward the bench. But it ought to be strange. It ought to be very strange that a President so vocally dedicated to the creation of a new heaven and a new earth should have regard for anything save peculiar fitness in training and in temperament when he selects a man to administer exact and even justice between other men.

SUCH INJUSTICE.

"Have you any references?" inquired the lady of the house.

"Yes, mum, lots of 'm," answered the prospective maid.

"Then why did you not bring them with you?"

"Well, mum, to tell the truth, they're just like my photographs. None of them don't do me justice."—Stray Stories.

A MAN FROM BUNKER HILL.

If you wish to commune with the spirit which founded this republic, go to Lincoln park and find the granite bowlder that marks the grave of David Kennison. It stands 100 feet east of the Clark street side; Wisconsin street is the nearest intersection. It is inscribed as follows:

"In memory of David Kennison, the last survivor of the Boston Tea Party, who died in Chicago on Feb. 24, 1852, aged 115 years 3 months and 17 days, and is buried near this spot."

This massive grave marker, erected by the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, was unveiled on Dec. 20, 1903.

David Kennison was born near Portsmouth, Me., and was like a character in Kenneth Roberts' "Arundel" novels. As a member of a revolutionary secret society he joined the Boston Tea Party saboteurs on Dec. 16, 1773. The names of fifty-nine participants in this deed of protest have been preserved; Paul Revere was among them.

* * *

Kennison served through the revolutionary war as a private. He fought in the battles of Lexington, Bunker Hill, Long Island, White Plains, Fort Washington, Brandywine, Red Bank, and Germantown. He was captured by Mohawk Indians in a skirmish near Saratoga Springs and held prisoner a year and a half. He also served in the War of 1812, and in the battle of Williamsburg he received his only wound—a mangled hand from a grapeshot.

He spent most of his peacetime life as a farmer in Vermont and Maine. He married four times and had twenty-two children, surviving all but seven. He learned to read at the age of 60; he never learned to write anything but his name which he spelled "Kinnison."

* * *

He came to Chicago in 1845, when he was 109 years old, with William Mack, who provided him with a home until his death. His sight and hearing were impaired by age, but after his 100th birthday these faculties returned to normal, so he declared. He did manual labor until his 112th year, and was active in body until his last illness.

Bravo, David Kennison! There were giants in those days!

WHITE WONDER.

Gently falling, quietly,
Sculpturing every barren tree;
Hiding ugliness of town,
Softly, softly snow sifts down.
Through the veil of whiteness spread,
Hushed our footsteps lightly tread,
Hushed our feet tread eiderdown.
Each bush wears a bridal gown.
Like an angel's hallowed prayer
Fluttering over earth stripped bare,
Gently falling, quietly,
Snow has brought strange peace to me.

Second instalment of the twelve strange findings of A. William Erdmann of Danville, Ill., contending for the No. 1 rating in this column's great dictionary wrestling contest:

3. Only six or seven words have three double letters: Barrenness, sleeplessness, keenness, greenness, whippoorwill, aggressiveness, suddenness, addressee, rottenness, committee.

4. Only one word has four double letters and it is obsolete: Successlessness.

5. Only one word can be spaced into a sentence: Initiate—"In it, I ate."

[Note by Linemaster: Dozens of contribs have corrected Mr. Erdmann on his list of words ending in "cion" by adding "scion." Some have intimated that as a dictionary wrestler he is only a good grunter.]

Chicago English, Boulevard Variety.

This sign was noted in a Michigan boulevard shop window at noon on Jan. 26, 1939:

"Models formally priced up to $75.00 now $48.00."

SHADOWS ON THE DES PLAINES.

Do you remember, O, Des Plaines,
As you trace down your curving line,
When dusky Potawatomis
Peered at your banks for beaver sign?

Do you recall French trader men
Who steered canoes upon your crest,
Or those, black garbed, who gazed on you,
Crosses of peace upon their breast?

The snow today is cuddling you.
Does it bring back on wings of dream
Old memories of when you sang
The lyrics of the virgin stream?

I wonder if it all is stored,
If all the past undimmed remains.
I do not know. I cannot tell.
Can you and will you, O, Des Plaines?

Will Chamberlain.

Miniature of a Child.

She's as effervescent as a glass of champagne, this little lass not quite two. Red-gold curls bubble over her small head in gay confusion, although recently she has attained the dignity of a ribbon to restrain them. Her brown eyes are deep pools touched now with laughter, now with tears. It takes a clear conscience indeed to meet their earnest, searching look. Her mouth is a warm, moist little flower, most entirely engaging when smeared with chocolate and roguishly coaxing for more. She is a pearl without price. Helene.

SUDDEN SNOW.

World o' white, oh, world o' white,
Born in beauty in the night,
Hiding all the city's blight;

May we wonder wistfully
If our faults may some day be Blotted out as easily?

Quizzicuss.

In November, 1753, Benjamin Franklin sent to Peter Collinson, a Quaker merchant in London, a small shipment of scientific curiosities which included notes describing a woodchuck, made when "one of them was killed in the garden of an old inn I put up at." This was probably the first time that the groundhog saw his shadow upon the pages of American history.

PROTECT YOUR CHILD AGAINST SCARLET FEVER.

No one can regard scarlet fever as an incidental disease. In fact, it is one of our most treacherous maladies. Common? Yes. It occurs all too frequently and until physicians employ the Dick test more widely—followed later by immunization of those who react positively—we may look forward to periodic epidemics.

Those of us who have had an attack can recall, perhaps, the comparatively sudden onset with a severe sore throat, vomiting, and fever. Twenty-four hours later the typical eruption is noted, which persists for about six days, then, later, the skin may peel. Although the illness does not burst upon the victim without a few warning symptoms, the child may not feel sick enough to remain away from school. In consequence he may be dangerous to others for two or three days or until some upset sends him to bed.

Then, too, there are some types which are so mild that the ailment may not be identified at all. Such a youngster is an ideal carrier, communicating the infection to his playmates. Others will show scarcely any breaking out, but a minor amount of malaise and a slightly raw throat will keep them at home for 24 to 48 hours, after which mothers will shoo them off to classes where they become "spreaders."

All of which means that every red, painful throat should be viewed with suspicion. Regardless of other signs that may be absent, this one is always present. The trouble is that a typical or apparently innocent case in a neighbor's lad may be the medium of bringing on a grave onslaught in a boy or girl in your home. Contagion is most virulent during the early days—before the rash is "out." There is relatively little danger from the sloughing cuticle.

But the complications which may come strike terror to the heart of every mother. Middle ear disease, joint involvement, pneumonia, and inflammation of the kidneys are all important. No one can foretell just which patient will be obliged to endure a prolonged bout; which one will escape. Good nursing, however, and skilled care will help to lessen the possibility of an extension of the infection.

The 10 year old sufferer who exhibits but little temperature—with the pulse and lungs normal—but who is pale and drowsy, may be affected with a suppression of urine because of acute kidney trouble [nephritis]. Unless the swelling of the renal organs can be reduced promptly the blood pressure will rise. Sometimes the condition is recognized by the marked change in the color of the urine which appears dark and smoky. Because of the potential irritation of the kidneys every patient should be regarded as a likely candidate. Consequently the diet should be regulated carefully with plenty of fluids and mild alkalis—fruit juices.

It is far easier to prevent scarlet fever than it is to cure it. Children can be checked by the Dick method and then protected if they are not immune. With some the resistance thus established will last for a considerable length of time—an average probably of more than a year. At any rate they may be again examined for susceptibility and injected if they are positive. Experience with this plan has been characterized by uniformly favorable results in every part of the world. In fact, the beginning of an epidemic may not be too late to test those youngsters who have not developed the disorder.

How do the causative organisms [streptococci] gain entrance to the body? Probably through the mouth, the throat, and the nasal passages. During the child's growing period every instance of diseased tonsils should receive attention. Perhaps the tissue should be removed—certainly if it is infected—as it may provide a depot for germs or harbor those responsible for scarlet fever long after recovery.

SWOLLEN PALATE.

Mrs. N. C. writes: As soon as the weather turns cold I develop a sore throat and the soft palate becomes so elongated that it gags me. What can be done to prevent this? My tonsils are out.

REPLY.

Infection causes swelling and inflammation. If the offending microbe can be located a vaccine may be made and injected in suitable doses. Care should be taken to cleanse the throat frequently and a skilled specialist may be needed to locate the source of the trouble. If the uvula [soft palate] continues to be bothersome its tip may be snipped off.

WINTER ITCH.

H. S. writes: When I remove my woolen underwear at night I am tortured by itching of the lower limbs. Do you think I am allergic to wool?

REPLY.

Probably not, as the symptom would then be observed over the entire body. Rubbing the skin of the legs with cocoa butter or lanolin should help. The chances are that the annoyance arises because of "winter itch" which comes from a dry skin.

NO.

G. P. writes: Does an attack of acute nephritis cause sterility in a man?

REPLY.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self addressed envelope will expedite handling.

PROPERTY SALE.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am selling a vacant lot for $600 cash, but it seems to me the cost of disposing of my title is too high.

1. Why should I pay $11 to the title company?
2. Please inform me what is actual cost for disposing of my guaranty policy.
3. Is it necessary for me to have an attorney? B. Z.

1. It is customary for the seller to bring his abstract or guaranty policy down to date and to pay the expenses of such continuation, in order to show the buyer that the title is good at the time of the purchase.
2. The title company is in a better position to list its charges than we are.
3. You are in a better position to estimate your experience and resourcefulness than we are. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ECHO.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—In the Pall Mall Gazette of Feb. 2, 1887, the following passage appears:

"Surely it is about time for all sensible persons at home and abroad to exorcise the nightmare which at present oppresses Europe. Pessimism is too much in the ascendant all around. We really must go in for a little healthy optimism. No doubt the outlook is not cheering. The sky is black with clouds. But that is no reason for talking as if a new deluge were about to sweep away the generations of men from the face of the earth. We have got into far too lugubrious a vein of late. A kind of universal nervous depression weighs down the most cheerful, and we are all going about croaking like ravens—War, war, war! The very monotony of the jeremiads has become odious. So, if only for a change, we will today cry just as persistently, Peace, peace, peace!

"We are not blind to the enormous armaments, the increasing votes for military supplies, and all the other symptoms that disturb the minds of men with imminent dread of approaching war. But these things have been in existence before without bringing about war, and it is therefore quite possible that they may not result in war today. The burden of these vast armaments, it is said, is becoming too irksome. The nations will go to war if only in order that they have a forlorn hope that by doing so they may get rid of the incubus which makes peace almost as costly as war. So people say, and some people have been saying so for these many years. We do not believe a word of it. There is not a single nation in Europe which expects to lessen its military burdens, even by the most successful war. And although people say that peace is almost as costly as war, that is only a figure of speech. War is enormously more costly than peace, and all the bloodshed and rapine are superadded." H. F.

THE SCHOOL REPORT.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—I wish to express my appreciation and admiration for the annual report of the superintendent of schools. Parents of school children hesitate to visit the classroom frequently, and so disturb the teachers, and yet they are eager to know what is going on. Every big business advertises at great expense, and considers its outlay of moneys a worthwhile investment. I was delighted to receive a copy of the report from the board of education, and to find a picture of my little boy at work with his group. any one is welcome to see my copy. There is also a copy in the office of any school principal for the public to see.

The taxpayers of Chicago are entitled to see pictures of the splendid work being developed in their schools. That report is a masterpiece. I commend it to your consideration.

DANIEL J. BRODERICK.

FROM A REPUBLICAN.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—What gets my goat is to have a representative of the Democratic party come into my home and ask for a signature supporting their candidate at the primary election when they know that our names are on the registration as Republicans and cannot be changed now [and never will be as long as they try this stuff]. They tell us that these signatures help them in keeping their jobs.

When are people going to wake up and get some brains?

A TRUE REPUBLICAN.

THE IRISH CENSORSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Your Dublin correspondent would have us believe that Eire suffers from an improper and unwise censorship of reading material. There are many who would disagree. With the world flooded as it is with indecent, immoral, and detrimental books and magazines, it is gratifying to read of a country that attempts to stay this tide of evil. One cannot blame Eire for fostering the purchase of her own fine periodicals, with barely 10 per cent of all the postwar books clean enough to have their contents enter the homes of any country.

The De Valera government should be lauded because it bans the democracy-destroying literature of the isms. Is not the zealous TRIBUNE a bit hypocritical when it condemns that phase of the censorship?

Canada very wisely censors many American periodicals, or didn't you know that? How about an article on Canadian censorship?

The United States should hang its head in shame because it is the cause of much of the action taken by the Gaelic officials. America should not only censor but destroy the numerous indecent magazines and books that slyly corrupt the minds of the people. Many of the so-called high class magazines and newspapers publish vile material and it is only natural that they oppose all censorship.

[MISS] ISABELLE M. R. MCCAULEY.

ARRESTS AND LAW ENFORCEMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Your article of Jan. 15 entitled "Police Reports Bare Slump in Traffic Law Enforcement" is unworthy of the Tribune staff.

Such articles are the cause of commanding officers in the police department demanding that policemen make sixty arrests a month, or some other specified number, and when really legitimate violations cannot be detected the policeman stretches the point and gives an unoffending autoist a ticket just to satisfy the captain.

Your report in large type cites a decrease in arrest slips and states there is a slump in traffic law enforcement, and in small type records a decline of 17 per cent in fatal accidents in the city. Be sensible and let credit go where credit is due. The police will be fair and honest if you let them.

WILLIAM T. PRIDMORE.

EVOLUTION IN SPELLING.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—H. E. Bartlett, in THE TRIBUNE for Jan. 26, advocates leaving English spelling static until we can get a high commission to do a thorough job of revising the language.

Is he joking? Did he ever compare the spelling of 1939 with that of, let us say, 1639? Does he not know that there has been a constant change?

Does he not know that in government, in science, in economics, in industry, in language and spelling and manners, the proper procedure is evolution rather than revolution?

Cannot he remember [I am still a fairly young man, and I remember clearly] when people objected to the spelling "program" instead of "programme"?

Is he insulting your readers when he speaks of "the difficulties of most readers" in making out the words?

"As matters now stand," he says, "I do not see how foreigners ever learn the language, for few of the natives ever do." Our abominable spelling is a tremendous handicap, both to the native and to the foreigner. Let's go on, as fast as we can, putting some sense into it. RAY G. HULBURT, D. O.

WAITING FOR A LOCAL.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Who in the world regulates the runs of the Wilson express and the Wilson local during the rush time in the evening? I as well as a lot of people who live between Belmont and Fullerton get off the express at Fullerton and change to a local. When you get off that express the local is just pulling away. Then you stand there and wait, and wait, and wait some more, for the next local, and that wait seems ten times as long on these cold, windy evenings up on that platform. Why can't they run those trains so that the local will follow shortly after the express train at Fullerton? L. RIDER.

STRYCHNINE.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—I read in today's paper that a woman pharmacist put twenty grains of strychnine in a prescription. Every pharmacist knows, no matter what the prescription may read, the maximum or "per diem" dose of that potent drug. No registered pharmacist whose eyes and mind were functioning normally would dispense such a deadly dose of strychnine or its salts. It is not dispensed on prescription in its crystalized form. Pharmaceutical houses under the strictest caution put it up in one-fourth or one-half grain tablets for dispensing. JOSEPH I. SMULSON, R. PH.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

[TRIBUNE Studio Photos.]

A new cleansing lotion, about the consistency of table cream, is one of the finds of the year. It cleanses, lubricates, and leaves the skin just sufficiently moist to take makeup beautifully.

A young woman who is one of the most exacting of all the fussy "tryer-outers" for the preparations and gadgets that come to a beauty writer's desk was the first to get us all steamed up about the merits of a new liquid, creamy, cleansing lotion. She reported with abundant enthusiasm that it was absolutely the berries; efficient in its cleansing job, delightful to use and wonderfully helpful in keeping her dry skin comfortably and attractively moist.

We find, after giving this a good workout ourselves, that what we considered her somewhat hysterical enthusiasm was really rather temperate. We think this lotion is one of the finds of the year.

This is just about the consistency of table cream. You can apply it with the fingers, if you like, or a piece of cotton. Unlike a lot of cleansing lotions, so-called, this cleanses well. We've used it on the hands—when they were plenty grimy, too—just to test its prowess in removing every smidge of dirt. It takes off the make-up in nothing flat.

But the most wonderful feature of this is the immediate softening effect it has. Your skin feels soft and pliable and soothed after you remove the excess with tissue. There is no apparent oil on the surface, but the skin is definitly moist and in perfect condition to take makeup.

From now on this will be a decided pet with us. It's a cleanser, a preventive of dryness, and a very efficient little treatment lotion if the trying symptoms of dryness are already present. ELEANOR NANGLE.

A Palm Beach Party Will Aid The Lighthouse

BY JUDITH CASS.

IN the midst of good old fashioned winter weather it is pleasant to write about a party the woman's board of the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind is giving on Wednesday night, Feb. 15, at the Lake Shore Athletic club. The party is to be a Palm Beach Night around the club's swimming pool.

Swimming and diving exhibitions, a fashion show of sports clothes, and dinner are on the program. The party will not be a late one, as there will be no dancing, but it will be a gay affair. A few hours of Palm Beach atmosphere should be welcomed by stay-at-homes.

Mrs. Theodore Gary, president, and those board members who have not left for winter vacations are working hard on party plans. Mrs. Thomas A. Connors and Mrs. Warren Clarke are chairmen of the benefit. Assisting them are Mrs. Norman H. Ibsen, who is taking reservations; Mrs. J. Glen Sample, Mrs. Phyllis M. Wyman, Mrs. John F. Jennings, Mrs. Charles C. Shedd, Mrs. Marshall Keig, and others. Mrs. Ibsen, the former Mira Lee Benoist, is a new member of the board.

Mrs. Connors, treasurer of the Lighthouse, has heard unofficially that the proceeds of the Lake Forest junior horse show held last Staurday at the Onwentsia's indoor riding ring are to be given to the Lighthouse. The children in charge of the show cleared about $200. The Lighthouse trains and employs blind men in special tasks for which they are fitted. During December and January the 65 men now employed made 3,000 door mats. The Lighthouse also pays for new materials and finds a market for the goods.

Toscanini Concert Will Be Tonight.

Arturo Toscanini and his N. B. C. orchestra will play tonight at the Auditorium theater. The performance will benefit Passavant hospital.

Music lovers from all over the city will fill the theater from the last seat in the topmost balcony to the auxiliary chairs that have been placed in the orchestra pit.

Ticket holders must be on time. The conductor has insisted that all the doors be closed promptly at 8:30 o'clock, and not even box parties will be permitted to take their seats once the music has started. Not every seat has been sold. A few odd ones on the main floor and in the orchestra pit are available. The orchestra will occupy the stage.

To the Ladies' Aid society of the Passavant hospital, and to its president, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, especially, must go the credit for bringing tonight's musical treat to Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Kirk are entertaining at dinner at the Casino for Mrs. Toscanini. They will occupy a center box.

It is expected that tonight's audience will be one of the most fashionable and largest the Auditorium has held.

Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge has come from Indianapolis to be among the dinner guests of Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. and her sister, Mrs. Alice H. Patterson. Other dinner hosts include the Charles H. Swifts, the Edward L. Ryersons, the Robert B. Bakers, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, the John P. Bents, the James W. Thornes, the Arch Shaws, the Robert J. Dunhams, and Mrs. George Rasmussen.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Zanuck's Answer.

"Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 30.

"Dear Ed: The mishap in 'Jesse James' was purely and completely accidental and not wanton cruelty. I am going to some length in my answer to the charges contained in the letter you printed from Sidney H. Coleman, president of the American Humane society, because I know that you are actuated by a sincere love of animals. I know that you wish to present the truth fairly and fearlessly. To accomplish this, I submit quotes from the letter which I have sent to Mr. Coleman.

"'Dear Mr. Coleman: The excuses that you offer in your letter for the conduct of yourself and the association are extremely lame. "Jesse James" was finished many months ago. A print of it would have been available for you or your association any time you wished to see it. Your evidence undoubtedly is the same or similar to that which we had an opportunity to purchase some months ago.

"'I never visited Missouri during the making of the picture, and naturally was not present when the accident occurred, but I have talked to personally and read the affidavits of a great number of people who were present, including the man who rode the horses [incidentally he has made leaps much higher than seventy feet].

"'I have many affidavits here on my desk, but of particular interest is this one from Cliff Lyons, veteran stunt man, who has been in our business since 1922. In sixteen years Lyons has performed stunts with thousands of horses and up to this time had lamed only one horse, and that for a few days. As the son of a veterinary, Lyons not only has had experience in using horses but also in caring for them, diagnosing their ills and treating them. An excerpt from this veteran's affidavit is pertinent.

"'He testifies: "The horse fell in a position where it was impossible to hurt him, and I fell clear of the horse. This is proved because when I came up the horse came up swimming toward me. He was cool and swimming strongly. He definitly was not injured in the fall. In order to keep him from swimming over me and pawing me under, as horses often do, when he had traveled approximately fifteen feet from where he came to the surface I pushed him away and headed toward the boat in which were the men familiar with handling horses under any conditions, and who were there to catch hold of the horse and lead it into shallow water. When they tried to throw a rope over him the horse became excited, floundered, went down and took on a great quantity of water. The fact that the second jump, made exactly as we made the first, went off without a slip, and the horse was led ashore in perfect condition, indicates that the first jump was an unfortunate accident"'.

"If this company's record did not show that at all times for many years we have exercised the utmost care in all scenes handling animals, then I might be able to excuse the vicious attack Mr. Coleman has made upon us, Ed. He attacks the Los Angeles Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the implication being that the local society is either inefficient, lacking in vigilance or integrity. The truth is that the local S. P. C. A. is made up of some of the finest persons in this city and I bitterly resent the implication. A member of the local body always is present at the studio when animals are used, and Mr. Coleman's implication that we get around this by shooting retakes is false, as the S. P. C. A. inspector is always present during any animal scenes that are reshot.

"Sincerely,

"DARRYL ZANUCK."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"'Sharpshooters'! Hm-mm! War story?" ask you.

We answer—"No."

"Gangsters, eh?"

Again—No! The title refers to demon newsreel photographers, who with their trusty cameras "shoot" current happenings of interest in order that the public may know what's going on. . . . In this movie Photographers Mitchel and Waldo see all, hear all, and do about all that could possibly be done, away over in Metavia, where revolution is rife, assassination in the air and a beautiful American girl in danger, while the world awaits with its tongue hanging out for "shots" secured by these "sharpshooters."

After a lot of fast—and often funny—action that will remind you of the old Keystone comedies, our aforementioned friends are successful in seating a rightful monarch, rescuing a noble damsel, foiling a lot of villains, and with the help of a grateful government securing a cameraful of sensational pictures. . . . The movie ends on a merry "haha."

I think Bryan Donlevy will surprise you. This chap who can be so deadly in gangster rôles proves, as Steve Mitchell, to have a decided flair for comedy. Purty good all-around actor, the lad!

The yarn develops under smooth direction. The cast is a good one throughout and audiences at the State-Lake seem to think "Sharpshooters" quite the berries.

Youthful Silhouette Featured as Paris Holds Summer Show

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Creed opened his summer fashion showing with a flattering mode, both feminine and tailored. He is featuring an extremely youthful silhouette with skirts 17 inches off the floor. Some are shortened even more by being cut up the front and back hem. They are gored and slim at the hip and flaring at the hem.

Circular flounced hems are novel on tailored suit skirts. The waistline remains slim and normal. Shoulders while broad, keep a natural look. Shortish hip-length fitted cutaways or abbreviated bellhop jackets, tightly buttoned, accompany suits.

The general effect of the gay nineties with an incongruous abbreviated postwar skirt level is topped up with rakishly tilted rough straw sailors, trimmed with feathers, birds and veils. Some are very large.

Dunton is featuring a Louis XV. silhouette with tight, tapering corselette waist that widens at the chest and below the hips. It is adapted to short daytime models; the fabric, seamed at the waist is released into unpressed pleats 'n the skirt and sometimes over the bosom.

Beauty of motion is Ardanse's slogan. This designer is launching a skirt with a new cut that swings from the knees. However, the wide skirts preserve the molded silhouette when in repose.

The Stage

The Cornelia Otis Skinner production of Bernard Shaw's "Candida" has developed a much sharper cutting edge as it begins its second and final week at the Grand Opera house. Last night's performance, in most regards, was a great improvement over the opening a week earlier.

Many of the insecurities of projection and technique which it was my unhappy duty to note at that time have been bolstered up. A new Burgess, A. P. Kaye, has brought increased strength to the cast. Mr. Kaye has already played the part of Candida's unprincipled Cockney father here, for he was a member of Katharine Cornell's company two seasons ago. His seasoned and delightful performance eliminates what had been the weakest link in the chain.

All in all, however, the performance has profited by its first week of life.

Sinclair Lewis' new comedy, "Angela Is Twenty-Two," comes to the Grand Opera house Sunday, Feb. 26. Philip Merivale and Flora Campbell play the leading roles. Mr. Lewis appears in curtain speeches before and after the performance. C. S.

Coogan, Betty Grable Are Reconciled; Look for a Smaller Home

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Betty Grable danced around like a kid today and said she was looking for another love nest to share with Jackie Coogan.

Betty indicated that the love nest won't have twenty-two rooms and a swimming pool like the first one.

"Betty and I have patched up our troubles," said "The Kid" in Texas. "She may join me in New Orleans. We will start housekeeping again as soon as I return to California. I love her. I'm glad it's settled."

Flashy Veiling Gives New Life to Winter Hat

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Spectacular veiling is a telling new trick to use for that midwinter apathy. With yards of hectically mixed mesh to wind 'round a hat you can achieve not only an air of sophisticated allure, but some color schemes that rival the aurora borealis for splendor.

Ombre tinted wide mesh veiling will make your eyeline and headline with some lovely results. Plenty of the cyclamen pink tints come in the one colored veilings as well as in combines with sulphur, green, bright blue, and the magentas. Chenille dots, big furry blobs of color, make some other wild ideas for the adornment of a somber hat.

Small hats made entirely of swirls of multicolored veiling are another typical fashion of the hour headline. Ties under the chin at the back of the neck, wound around and some descending all the way around and looking like those veils bee fanciers wear for protection when a swarm needs collecting are other uses of veiling.

Wide mesh, fine mesh, and in between patterns come in all the loveliest of new colors, every imaginable shade of blue, pink, violet, yellow, and green. Hardy shades of good, strong purple, navy, and vivid red, taupe tones, and the newest excitement in the tobacco tans and champagne tints come plain or with contrasting or harmonizing dots.

Copper is another flattering color, so are the pale, pale pink and the misty ethereal blues, whether you take them plain, with chenille dots [big or little], or the self dots. All of this veiling does a superjob of flattery, providing a softer outline to face, hat, and eyeline, and giving even more flattery to the complexion.

The rainbow tinted collection of early spring veiling is ready. New or not so new headgear can be transformed while you wait with a length or two or three of these high fashion clouds of illusion.

Sacred Heart Alumnae.

Mrs. Edward H. Bagley is entertaining a group of councilors of the Sacred Heart alumnæ at 1 o'clock this afternoon in her home at 240 Chestnut street, Winnetka.

"Hello, Beautiful!"

This is the first time in a month Bob's seen her. Before, she didn't have a chance in a million of hearing him call her beautiful. Her skin looked so tired out. Then she copied this trick of giving her complexion a tonic beauty pick-up—with Dioxogen Cream.

This wonderful facial cream releases active oxygen right onto your skin. First, you use Dioxogen Cream to cleanse off your make-up. Wipe away. Then pat on a little more. Leave it on a few minutes. Feel its active oxygen breaking free on your skin—refreshing and stimulating it. Like a tonic on your skin! . . . You feel better! You look better!

A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

The hero, pursued by Detective Mike Clancy, is stopped in a Chicago railway depot by a young man, apparently dying, who gives him his wallet and baggage check to get him his medicine. He gets the sick man's bags, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing bank funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him by divorce since babyhood. The sheriff persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiancé, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him in Amarillo and fly him to the ranch in Charles' plane. Mrs. Lodge, wife of Pete's physician and guest, is with them. Our hero falls instantly in love with Mary and dislikes Charles, a handsome show-off, who is the pet of Pete's sister, Matilda, who had loved Charles' father. The hero meets paralyzed old Pete Bowman, kept a virtual prisoner by Matilda. Pete asks him to stay and help Mary, and gives him his guns. Charles is carrying on an affair with Mrs. Lodge and even Dr. Lodge knows about it. In the middle of the night Pete sends his nurse for "John" and has him open the safe and burn a paper. When Matilda finds him there she fires the nurse. Charles and Mary are to be married next morning.

INSTALMENT XX.

TRAGIC SADNESS.

When I left the sherif I went over to Dr. Lodge's bungalow to see if he was up.

He was.

I told him I wanted to borrow some semi-formal clothes if he had any. It seemed to me that his shoulders were nearly the same width as mine and I suspected we were within an inch or so of each other in height.

"Charles offered to lend me some of his," I explained, "but it just happens I'd rather not."

Dr. Lodge looked at me sardonically. "I think I get you. Look in the closet there and see what there is. I myself am not going to dress any different than I am right now so you can have your pick."

While I was looking over the doctor's wardrobe nothing was said by either of us. For that reason we heard the voices which came in at the open window. There were two of them, Mary's which I recognized instantly, and another woman's which I soon identified as that of Mrs. Lodge chiefly because of what she said. They had apparently just met.

"I suppose I ought to congratulate you, Mary, and wish you all the happiness in the world—but I can't because I don't think any of us will ever be happy after today."

Mary must have been startled by that extraordinary statement because it was a few seconds before she replied. "I don't think I quite understand you, Mrs. Lodge."

"You will later. It's because Charles really loves some one else."

"You mean yourself. That is not exactly news to me but I'm afraid I don't take it quite as seriously as you do. Charles is a very attractive man and naturally a great many women who come here—— "

"This is different," Mrs. Lodge interrupted. "It's bigger than you think, bigger than I thought myself at first. It's one of those things which seldom happen and nothing can stop. God knows I've wanted to for my husband's sake."

"Greetings!" Charles' voice boomed in suddenly. "What are you up to, Selma—giving Mary a little advice on what a young bride should know?"

"Yes," admitted Selma, "at least on things she ought to know to keep her from becoming a bride."

That must have been a facer for Charles but he cleverly chose to ignore it. "Now that you know, Mary, come with me and give me a hand with the decorations."

"Not for a minute," Mary objected. "There's something we'd better drag out into the open here before we go any farther. Mrs. Lodge has just said that you and she are in love with each other."

"Absurd!" boomed Charles. "I appreciate all bouquets on this festive occasion but that statement is ridiculous on the face of it. How could I be in love with a married woman?"

Mrs. Lodge interrupted with sardonic, almost hysterical laughter. "When, my dear Charles, did that make any difference to you? Shall I repeat to Mary some of the things you told me only last night—as you held me in your arms after every one else had gone to bed?"

"Selma, you're crazy. You dreamed this. I didn't see you at all last night after the dance. If you're trying to wreck Mary's trust in me you can't do it. We love each other too much. But, under the circumstances, I must ask you not to talk with her any further."

From the closet I looked at Dr. Lodge. He was sitting just as he had been when the conversation started, quite a ways from the window. But he was gazing stonily out through the glass curtains which swayed gently in the morning breeze. His hands gripped the arms of his chair.

I, too, could see out the window. Mary was standing alone, white faced but controled, looking from one to the other of these two people in whose hands her future lay.

Mrs. Lodge, her eyes fixed only on Charles in despairing contempt, spoke. "Are you trying to tell me, Charles, that you are through with me forever?"

"I am trying to tell you," said Charles harshly, "that I never began with you. You've dreamed all this."

Mrs. Lodge took a deep breath. "I think," she said, "that you'll wish you'd never said that. Men have been killed for much, much less."

"I'm sorry, Mary," said Charles, "of course it isn't true but—— "

"Come on," said Mary. "You said you wanted my help with the decorations."

She started away and he followed.

I heard Mrs. Lodge enter her own room and fling herself on her bed. A moment later she began to sob, great shattering sobs.

Dr. Lodge's face was a study in conflicting emotions. I was a little surprised to find that pity finally predominated. I was surprised, too, when he spoke to me. Perhaps he couldn't stand that I should hear her shameless grief any longer. Anyway he said in a perfectly normal voice, "O, Mr. Bowman, come right in."

I was quickwitted enough to play up to that by hurrying to the screen door and opening it on its creaky hinges.

The noise in the next room quieted down almost immediately.

The doctor was continuing to me, "I think I have the very things you will need. Look them over there on the bed."

We played the same scene about the clothes over again—with slightly different dialog, of course. While we were talking Mrs. Lodge came into the bath and, I suspect, doused her eyes with cold water. At least they were only moderately noticeable when she came into her husband's room at his request.

She made some commonplace remark to me which indicated that she did not suspect that I had heard anything out of the way. I was the most embarrassed of the three of us.

"I didn't have quite what I needed in the way of clothes," I told her, "and your husband is very generously lending me some of his."

She was standing at his side by that time and put her hand on his shoulder. "There has never been a more generous man than my husband," she said looking down at him with eyes that threatened to brim over again. "And no one has ever tested his generosity quite so much as I have myself."

He put an arm around her hips now and patted her gently. "Don't you feel sorry for me, darling. Perhaps life gets us all twisted up for a purpose. Sometimes it's your heart and sometimes it's only your legs. I don't know which is the worse. In either case you have to brace up and take it on the chin."

As I started to go she seemed not to notice me. Without releasing herself from his arm she opened the drawer of the medicine table which stood at her elbow and looked inside.

"I've just taken my pills, darling," he said.

She was still abstracted. "I was looking for something else."

"O, O yes. I put that in another place yesterday," he said.

I knew what they both meant. I had felt the weight of a revolver in the trousers of one of the suits I had just hung back in the closet.

The sun seemed very bright outside. It was incredible, someway, that it could be shining at all.

Ballet Dancing Creates Poise, Gracefulness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

We talked recently of the rewards in grace that are earned through study of the dance. We talked especially of the way in which a dancing student's hands signify the beauty that lies within this study. The other day we talked with Rosalean, a "poem in grace."

"Don't make the mistake of depending upon the ordinary ballroom dancing to perfect your figure," says Rosalean. "The regulation dance steps performed with enthusiasm and vigor will whittle flesh off thighs, hips, and legs, but they make little provision for the upper part of the body. Of all the different types of dancing—and Rosalean is a shag expert, too—only the ballet work gives beauty to the throat, shoulder and upper back, hands and arms.

But, as the beautiful dancer says, most of us cannot start torturing our hardened frames into the intricacies of the ballet. She suggests an alternative, however, in the practice of certain simple and effective steps at home, designed to develop and beautify the upper part of the torso. After a few weeks' practice of the exercises we pass on to you, Rosalean promises you will not have to cover up the fleshy part of the waist with a broad belt, or resort to other subterfuges to hide soft flesh on the upper arms and back of the neck.

To start, take position near a horizontal bar set along a wall or near a firm object for balance, such as a bedpost, table, or heavy chair.

First, stand with feet planted firmly on the ground and about six inches apart, toes pointed in opposite directions. Holding on to bar or other support with one hand, bend the trunk backward as far as possible, at the same time extending the arm over the head and around. Repeat ten times.

Second: Stand in the same position with the left hand holding on to stationary object, bend the trunk over to the side, at the same time stretching out the right leg as far as possible and arching the right arm. Repeat ten times.

Requests Folding Wheel Chair.

Has any reader a small folding wheel chair which could be given to Mrs. R. on the south side? She has been crippled with a form of arthritis for the last seven years. Her arms and hands have been affected recently, and she is no longer able to use her crutches. She is a widow and lives with her married daughter. Her son-in-law earns only $55 a month, which barely covers necessities.

Their living quarters are extremely crowded, so the chair would have to be a small one.

Women Voters Hear Mrs. Wright's Report of Lima Conference

The shadow of the swastika overhung the entire proceedings at the recent Pan-American conference at Lima, Peru, Mrs. Louise Leonard Wright, only woman adviser to the American delegation, told fellow memmembers of the League of Women Voters yesterday. She spoke at a foreign policy conference at the Chicago Woman's club. Mrs. Wright, who is chairman of foreign policy of the national league was the special guest at luncheon of the Cook county league.

Much of the action at Lima was designed to show the rest of the world that the twenty-one American republics can make democracy work, Mrs. Wright emphasized.

New trends noted by Mrs. Wright were labor resolutions, introduced for the first time, and provisions for interchange of information among the American countries. The former, Mrs. Wright said, would show that "the democracies are realizing the need for satisfying the working populations." Through interchange of information the democracies are preparing to fight the propaganda of dictatorships with propaganda, "only we call it culture," Mrs. Wright commented.

Errol Flynn to Film Hunt for Fish by Bow and Arrow Expert

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Errol Flynn, motion picture actor, stepped into a new rôle today. He has become a producer of adventure shorts.

Flynn, who has just succeeded in lifting a government plaster off his 75 foot auxiliary ketch Sirocco by payment of a heavy libel for improper registration, will film the rare feat of killing fish with bow and arrow in the Gulf of California.

With him will be his actress wife, Lili Damita, and Howard Hill, world's champion archer.

Hill will be featured in the action shorts, which will be released by Warner Brothers-First National.

Flynn has regained possession of the Sirocco by forming a corporation in which he has only 25 per cent ownership. Under the navigation statutes no boat above a certain length may be registered as American unless 51 per cent or more is owned by citizens. Flynn will not receive his final citizenship papers for three years.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

If you like to make your own mayonnaise and French dressings, you probably keep a can of salad oil for the supply shelf. Most commonly used by homemakers are the various vegetable oils, corn, cottonseed, or peanut. Soy bean oil is used to some extent also. Olive oil, which is technically classed as a fruit oil, is considered by many epicures to be choicest of all for salad dressings. But it is relatively expensive, and for that reason the other oils are more popular.

Salad oils may be used interchangeably in recipes for dressings. The flavor of the dressing depends somewhat upon the oil, but almost as much upon the seasonings used with it.

Roquefort Dressing.
¼ pound Roquefort cheese
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ cup olive oil
1 clove garlic

Rub the bowl with the cut clove of garlic and discard the garlic. Mash the cheese in the bowl and add seasonings. Work in lemon juice and olive oil a little at a time. Beat until smooth and well mixed.

Cherry French Dressing.
[For simple fruit salads.]
½ cup juice drained from canned cherries
5 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon sugar

Put all ingredients into a jar or bottle and shake thoroughly before using.

Tarragon Dressing.
3 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon minced onion
½ teaspoon chopped parsley
½ cup plus one tablespoon olive oil
1 clove garlic

Mix vinegar, salt, mustard, and sugar to a paste. Add onion, parsley, and cut or crushed garlic clove. Let stand an hour. Remove garlic. Add olive oil slowly, stirring constantly to form an emulsion.

Mineral Oil Mayonnaise.
[Nonfattening.]
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¾ teaspoon paprika
Few grains cayenne pepper
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup mineral oil

Put egg yolk and seasonings in a small bowl and beat thoroughly. An electric mixer works beautifully for mayonnaise, but a rotary beater will do. Add a tablespoon of lemon juice and beat again. Add oil gradually, a teaspoon at a time, beating constantly. After a fourth cup is used, add a tablespoon or more of oil at a time. As mixture thickens, add remaining lemon juice. If the oil is added too rapidly the dressing will curdle. After all oil has been added, dressing will be smooth and thick. Keep in a cool place. The dressing may be thinned with milk or fruit juice if desired.

Salad oil or olive oil may be used in the same recipe to make mayonnaise rich in calories. Mineral oil is tasteless and has no food value, so is used in all kinds of dressings when it is important to watch the weight.

The Housewife

Maybe you're not one of the women who finds herself washing out her silk hose and lingerie every night. Even if you do it only once in a while you'll find it convenient to have on hand some new, snagproof clothespins made especially for this petty laundering. They're three-pronged so they hold any piece of lingerie securely and they are of composition so they won't tear it or start runs.

Blouse for Any Type of Suit

WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSE.

No matter what type of suit you have this spring, this blouse will be an ideal complement for the simple reason of its style alone. If you haven't already planned your new ensemble, naturally you haven't the vaguest notion what its neckline is to be. It might be high and it might be low. It might be collarless and it might have any manner of finish. You will play safe if you make this blouse, which has a high, round neckline, with or without a brief collar that will not interfere with any finish at the neckline of the suit jacket.

Basque lines predominate in this topper, which fits snugly and buttons all the way down the front, cardigan fashion. The sleeves are puffed and hug the arm. Neckline and sleeves may be treated to ruffling, or braid may be used on them and also on the panel seams. Both prints and plain colors make up beautifully. Sheers, silks, cottons, and linens all are attractive.

Style No. 3397 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 1½ yards of 39 inch material, with 1¼ yards of ruffling for the collarless version with short sleeves.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

The sprightly spring edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 15 cents the copy. 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY.

Organist Fox Plays Bach as It Was Written

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Dismayed by the unfavorable weather the groups sponsoring the Hans Lange chamber concerts at the Blackstone hotel canceled yesterday afternoon's program which was to have been the first of a cycle of four.

In the evening, however, Virgil Fox put on his scheduled organ recital in Kimball hall, and the members and friends of the Chicago Club of Woman Organists, his sponsoring group, came in good numbers to hear him.

The program began with an antique group and ended with a miscellany of modern and near modern pieces. In between were the two major items, the G minor Fantasy and Fugue of Bach and the Grande Piece Symphonique by Franck.

Now a darling of pianists and conductors, the Bach work is seldom heard in its original form. Mr. Fox made a careful choice of tone colorings and adopted a tempo slow enough to have been feasible for the deliberately speaking organs of the early eighteenth century. By these means he succeeded in putting the great Fantasy and Fugue before his listeners in a form which retained the character—at once brilliant and austere—of the Bach original.

The Grande Piece Symphonique, a long work with much of the mysticism commonly associated with the name of Franck, profited by the beauty of the young organist's legato, the imagination which went into his search for fine differentiations of color, and by the adequacy—brilliance rather—of both his manual and pedal techniques.

series on "Landscaping the Small Property." Both the Garden Club of Illinois, which is offering the program, and Annette Hoyt Flanders, who is giving the lectures, were delighted that 150 gardeners braved the wind and snow to reach the Palmer House for the all day session.

It was not only gardeners living in the city who attended but several enthusiasts shoveled their cars out of drifts in Lake Forest and came into town for the meeting. Others came from Freeport, Milwaukee, Rockford, Wheaton, Geneva, Decatur, Glencoe, and Winnetka. Mrs. Flanders' final talk will be given at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

The second meeting of the current square-dancing season will be held tonight at the Germania club. Miss Frances Bell is president of the dancers, who meet on alternate Tuesdays.

Gen. McCoy to Speak on Defense Today.

Gen. Frank R. McCoy will speak on "Broader Aspects of National Defense" at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at 12:30 o'clock today in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House.

Gen. McCoy, who retired recently from the army, has had a long and outstanding career. At the speaker's table will be Laird Bell, who will preside, Mrs. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Munroe, Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, and Mr. and Mrs. George Richardson.

The Woman's Athletic club is having a badminton tournament at 5 o'clock this afternoon, followed by cocktails and dinner. The players will be Mrs. Edward Grelle, north shore woman's champion last year; Mrs. George Dunscomb, Boyd Anderson, Harry Fraser, and William Martin, who is the professional at the Winnetka Community house.

A lecture by Upton Close will be given at the club at 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning. Mr. Close will speak on "What New in the Far East?"

Tea Today for Head of Fountain Valley School.

Mrs. John Blatchford is entertaining at tea for Dr. Francis M. Froelicher, headmaster of the Fountain Valley school, from 3 until 6 o'clock today at the Fortnightly club. Mrs. Blatchford's son, Thomas, attends the school.

Pouring will be Mrs. Anson Cameron, Mrs. Addison L. Gardiner Jr., Mrs. Ralph W. Trimmer, Mrs. Ralph W. Davis, and Mrs. Earl B. Fowler. Dr. Froelicher will show colored movies of the school. He will speak on "New Movements in Secondary Schools."

Clifford Shaw of the Institute for Juvenile Research will speak on "Crime, Courts, and Delinquency" at 11 o'clock this morning at the Chicago Junior league. His lecture is the third in a series of four on local political affairs.

Alec Templeton, blind pianist, will give a concert at the Lake Shore Athletic club tonight. Because Mr. Templeton is playing in the grand ballroom the usual movie program will be postponed until tomorrow night.

The Diarmuid Russells, who used to live in Lake Forest, are the parents of a daughter born on Jan. 21, in Mount Kisco, N. Y., where they live now. The baby has been named Mary Pamela.

The Infant Welfare Service League of Evanston will present the second in a series of three play readings by Mrs. Ann Birk Kuper, at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Levere Memorial temple of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

Several questions of the recent examination that were based on play of the cards involved a defender's lead up to a tenace position in dummy. This sort of defensive play rarely is seen in average circles and it was my object to show that in innumerable situations it is the one winning maneuver. Take Question 53, for example:

Only East-West vulnerable, the bidding was:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 diamond | Double | 4 spades | Pass |
| Pass | Double | Pass | Pass |
| Pass | | | |

You are East, on defense. Your hand and dummy are:

Dummy [North]
♠ 4
♥ A Q 5
♦ A Q 10 8 6
♣ J 5 4 3

You [East]
♠ A K 5
♥ J 10 4 3
♣ A K 6

West, your partner, opened the club ten. Dummy played the three, you played the king, and declarer ruffed. Declarer now leads the queen of spades [trumps]. If you win, what card do you lead back?

The answer was that East should take the spade queen and return a heart, preferably a low one. I was delighted to find that examinees apparently had profited from similar questions that had appeared previously and that in this case they had not found a lead up to an ace-queen tenace a bugaboo. In previous questions that involved more or less the same type of defense the percentage of correct answers had been very low. In this one I am pleased to report that more than 66 per cent earned the 15 point credit. This proves one thing: That players are quick to learn when presented with the proper examples. I venture the prophecy that next year questions such as this will prove mere child's play to the average reader.

TODAY'S HAND.

North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K Q J 8
♥ A 9 4
♦ A Q

| WEST | EAST |

| ♠ 7 | ♠ A 10 6 3 |
| ♥ K 10 | ♥ 8 |
| ♦ K J 10 7 6 5 2 | ♦ 9 4 3 |
| ♣ K 8 5 | ♣ Q J 10 7 2 |

SOUTH
♠ 9 5 4 2
♥ Q J 7 6 5 3 2

♣ 6

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 spade | Pass | 2 hearts | 3 diam'ds |
| 3 no trump | 4 clubs | 4 hearts | 5 clubs |
| 6 hearts | Pass | Pass | Pass |

I record the bidding as it actually took place in a recent rubber bridge game. Not that I approve of each and every bid. East obviously was attempting to sacrifice when he bid four clubs, but South's free four heart bid had no such excuse. His distribution alone, in the absence of any top strength, did not justify this bid.

If West had opened his singleton spade the contract would have been defeated before declarer could take a breath, but West preferred to lead the king of his partner's bid suit, clubs. Dummy's ace won and a club ruff put declarer into his own hand for a heart finesse against the king. West did not cover the queen, but it was allowed to ride, and the second lead picked up the king. Another club ruff permitted declarer to lead a spade toward dummy. East captured dummy's jack and returned a club, declarer again ruffing. A second spade lead disclosed that West was now void and that East still had the suit stopped, but this was only mildly disquieting to the declarer. He reëntered his hand with a trump and led his singleton diamond toward the A-Q. The finesse held [as it figured to do, considering West's diamond bid] and declarer discarded his only remaining loser, a spade, on the diamond ace.

As I have said, if West had opened his singleton spade the contract would have been defeated by a spade ruff. But even a diamond lead almost surely would have had the same result. Declarer almost certainly would have assumed that his spade suit was solid except for the ace and would not have risked the diamond finesse on the first trick, even though West had bid three diamonds. This was just one more case of the opening lead determining the final result.

Parents Should Throw the Home Open to Youth

BY DORIS BLAKE.

On a recent Sunday we heard a sermon on the home in which an appeal was made to parents to revive some of the old features that kept the family at home some evenings of the week, if not all of them.

The question was asked: "How long ago since any of you parents told the youngsters to bring their friends in for an evening, let them roll back the rug and dance and otherwise make use of the home as a place of their own in which to entertain?"

The usual blast was uttered against the very temporary relationship between the family and today's so-called home. The speaker related one instance of father being out somewhere, the younger stay at home confided, but he knew not where. Mother was somewhere, too. She went out early in the afternoon. Sister went to the movies, perhaps. The boy didn't know. Well, nobody ever did know where Jim, the big brother, spent his time. No one asked.

Another instance was related of a family which included two grown daughters and a boy of 17. The home itself was a marvel of perfection from the decorator's standpoint, an ideal place as to size and comfort into which to bring a group of young persons. But mother protested, when her young family was urging a party her: "I will not have this house mussed up with young people. I will not have my floors scratched up with your dancing." And that, as the speaker said, is why young people often have to seek their fun away from home, too often, he added, in atmospheres that will leave far more permanent scratches than the furniture would suffer.

"Yes," he continued, "there are women who live to create a home, scrimp and save to buy beautiful things for it, entertain great pride in their possessions, but overlook completely the meaning of home to sons and daughters."

Manual Skill Brings Joy to the Growing Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

If you experimented for the first time this last Christmas with having your children make the gifts they gave away, it was undoubtedly an eye-opener. It perhaps made you realize how much pleasure a child, or a person of almost any age, for that matter, can feel in using his [or her] hands. It opened your eyes, I hope, to the possibilities for pleasure—and profit, too—that a continuation of that sort of activity may bring to your children.

So many parents complain of their children not knowing what to do with themselves at home, of their being aimless or even discontented. Yet this need not be if parents will do ever so little to lead them into the use of their hands, supply them with simple materials and, occasionally, an incentive.

That incentive may be the desire to make some article as a gift for Christmas and birthdays. It may be to make something a boy may want for his own use. The young ornithologist will not have to be urged to make a feeding station or a tiny wren house. The young naturalist has plenty of incentives to manual work such as making cages and contriving boxes and containers for live specimens.

The boat lover, and how many there are, will make his small models. And these may be as simple as to be of cork with tiny masts, sails, and rigging. The same holds true of the lad who is fired by a love of aviation.

Both boys and girls may be led into acquiring skill—and enjoyment, too—in manual activity by a desire to fix up their rooms. This may express itself in carpentry, painting, or sewing.

I have only "scratched the surface" of this subject. There are dozens of things that will spring up to be done when once you have given the children your interest, the freedom of the house, and the simple materials required for them to develop the fine art of using their hands. There are books available in libraries to guide young people in the manual arts.

Transfer Pattern Makes Delightful Picture for Wall

BY NANCY CABOT.

A quaint old-fashioned home in the country, or a gay home for leisure by the sea may be yours for the embroidering of these two hot iron transfer patterns. They are as colorful as they are artistic and surprisingly simple to execute. They are ideal wall pictures when glazed and framed with narrow bands of stained or painted wood. Green, rose, pink, yellow, and black are used for the top pictures; blue, green, orange, and yellow for the southern theme.

For a hot iron transfer pattern of the two wall pictures, No. X-552, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Frank Craven tells it. A man went to see the Jules Bache picture collection in New York. Asked by a friend how he liked it, he answered, "It was too, too Duveen."

A suburban milkman had unhitched his horse and, astride the animal, carrying trays of milk bottles, was taking care of his deliveries. Kids yelled, "Hi-yo, Silver."

Anachronism.

Excerpt from an original play written by an 11 year old who had been reading about the Crusades (relayed by Mrs. Willis J. Potts):

Second Knight—Yea, methinks it is time that the heathen varlets taste our English steel. But tell me, thinkest thou that Richard will win the conflict?

Blizzard Sidelight.

We put overcoats and their boots on the terriers yesterday morning and started out. There on the very doorstep was a large mallard duck, blown in by the blizzard, its wings weighted with icicles. Attempts to get the little wild creature inside with the help of doormen and elevator operators failed miserably, and he was frightened away into the storm.

Ultimatum.

A large, important looking woman was at the Sheridan "L" yesterday morning when Don Kelley, WLS sports announcer, was waiting for a train. "Well," she said decisively, "I'll give the 'L' just thirty more minutes to make it."

Cartoon Suggestion.

Suicide Is Kept Secret by Lawyers' Agreement.

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—George Weinberg was buried today, but the fact that this vital witness killed himself yesterday was withheld from the jury in the second trial of Tammany Leader James J. Hines.

Edmond Severi, Surprise witness tells of Hines-Schultz meetings. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Before the jurors entered Judge Charles C. Nott's courtroom, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and Defense Counsel Lloyd Paul Stryker agreed that Weinberg's suicide will not be mentioned until Dewey offers in evidence Weinberg's testimony at the first trial, which was ended by Tammany Judge Ferdinand Pecora on a technicality.

Weinberg was the business manager of the late Dutch Schultz's lucrative policy racket. Hines is accused of being the gang's political protector.

May Not Learn It's Suicide.

The jurors probably will be informed later in the week that Weinberg is dead, but they may not learn until the trial is over that he shot himself in the house where he and two other survivors of the Dutch Schultz gang were held in protective custody.

The defense is expected to strive to let the jury know the manner of the gangster's death, and let them draw their own conclusions as to his motive.

Dewey will try to use a transcript of Weinberg's testimony at Hines' first trial. Stryker will oppose this move vigorously, for Weinberg was Dewey's only witness on two important points of his conspiracy charges and if his testimony can be eliminated it will aid the defense immensely.

Judge Linked to Racket.

These two points deal with Hines' alleged agreement to protect the policy racketeers for $500 a week, and Magistrate Hulon Capshaw's assurance to Hines that he would free sixteen persons arrested in policy bank raids.

Dewey today produced his first surprise witness of the current trial of the Democratic boss. The district attorney put on the stand Edmond Severi, former bartender at the Embassy club, who testified that he had seen Hines and Schultz eating and drinking together at the club four or five times in 1933. Defense Lawyer Stryker was unable to shake the bartender's story.

Other witnesses today were Big Joe [Spasm] Ison and Alexander Pompez, both of whom operated policy banks during the reign of Schultz.

WOMAN DIES OF GUN WOUNDS INFLICTED BY SPURNED SUITOR

Miss Georgia Fitz Hugh, 47 years old, shot Sunday night by a rejected suitor, died of her injuries yesterday in the Edgewater hospital. Her assailant, William Harlev, 52 a salesman, who shot himself after wounding Miss Fitz Hugh, is expected to recover in Bridewell hospital.

Mrs. Virginia McAlpine.

Harlev, police were told, forced his way into Miss Fitz Hugh's apartment at 5653 Kenmore avenue and shot her five times. He also slightly wounded her twin sister, Mrs. Virginia McAlpine, a widow. Mrs. McAlpine told Summerdale police her sister met Harlev about a year ago, when she answered an advertisment for a secretary, but had stopped seeing him when she found he was married. Harlev lives at 1857 South Ridgeway avenue.

Harlev's wife, Myrtle, 47, and his son, Alfred, 25, also gave statements to police yesterday. Mrs. Harlev said her husband had been unemployed for ten years and had had many affairs with other women.

WhitneySued for $500,000; Papers Served in Prison

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Papers in a $500,000 damage suit, alleging waste and mismanagement, have been served on Richard Whitney, former president of the New York Stock exchange, by Warden E. Lewis, in Sing Sing, it was disclosed today. The warden called Whitney to his office and handed him the summons and complaint after receiving them in the mail. The suit was brought by Mrs. Miriam E. Rabell, inventor of a surgical dressing, and her husband and son, who are officers in the Cashay corporation, of which Whitney once was a director.

3 to Be Arraigned Today for Serving Minors Drinks

Samuel Shulman, who operates a tavern at 647 West 69th street; his wife, Frances, and the bartender, William Wall, 5236 Peoria street, will be arraigned in domestic relations court today on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors. They were arrested Sunday night by Policewomen Dorothy Tedell and Mary Bennett. The policewomen said they found two 15 year old girls drinking beer at the bar. Frank Dalton, 20, 5645 Artesian avenue, who was drinking with them, will appear in the same court on a disorderly conduct charge.

NEW MEXICO WPA PAINTED TO JURY AS VOTE GETTER

Four Chavez Relatives and 31 Go to Trial.

Albuquerque, N. M., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—The charge that WPA workers were moved about New Mexico's political stage like puppets was made today at the opening of the federal government's wholesale trial of high Democratic officials and others alleged to have misused the relief agency.

The accusation was made by United States Attorney Everett Grantham in his opening statement to a jury selected to try thirty-five defendants charged with conspiracy against the federal government.

Political Machine Explained.

The prosecutor sketched for the jury the purported workings of an under cover political machine which functioned like a casting director's office within the WPA. Under this arrangement, he said, WPA workers were sent here or there throughout the state where they could be of most benefit to their political sponsors.

The name of United States Senator Dennis Chavez, who is a relative of four of the defendants, was injected into the trial early in the testimony. Chavez, New Mexico's junior senator, has been credited with obtaining most of the WPA millions for the state.

Witnesses also mentioned Clyde Tingley, former governor of New Mexico, whose heated political fight with Chavez was alleged to have been responsible for impressing the WPA into politics so deeply.

Holiday Called a Payoff.

Earl Bowdich, building superintendent at the University of New Mexico, testified for the government that WPA workers on a university grounds project were told, "Go home; you did enough work yesterday," following an election that resulted the way Chavez had wanted.

Forty-five defendants were arraigned at the opening of the trial, but the government dismissed charges against ten. Five of them were subpoenaed as government witnesses, however, before they left the courtroom.

Senator Chavez' personal secretary, Joe Martinez, was among those dismissed, but four of the senator's relatives remained on trial. They are his son-in-law, Stanley W. P. Miller, who was assistant United States attorney when he was indicted last fall; his sister, Mrs. Anita Tafoya; his nephew, Salamon Tafoya, and his cousin, Salamon Chavez.

CRABB'S 2D WIFE GIVES UP SHARE IN HIS PROPERTY

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Catherine Steinmetz Crabb, second wife of Willis W. Crabb, recently ousted as president of the Tazewell County National bank, today signed over all her dower rights to help make up a shortage in Crabb's accounts at the bank which have been estimated at more than $50,000.

Mrs. Crabb received $5,000 for her waiver of rights in all of her husband's property, including some 2,000 acres of farm land and the large Crabb home in Delavan, Ill., where the bank is situated.

This was done, it was said, in order to pave the way for the eventual liquidation of Crabb's holdings. The former banker, who is under a federal charge of making false entries in a national bank, has surrendered his personal fortune of about $75,000 to be used in settling any shortages of the bank.

Crabb is now at liberty under bond of $10,000 on which his first wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Crabb of Bloomington, is a signer. He was bound over to a federal grand jury last week at a hearing in Peoria before United States Commissioner William Moore.

How 3 Mothers out of 5 RELIEVE THE MISERY OF THEIR Children's Colds

VICK HOMES—3 out of 5
For two generations Vicks VapoRub has been mothers' standby for relieving the discomfort of all the family's colds. Today it is used in more homes than all other medications of its kind put together.

CAN BE USED FREELY . . . VapoRub is an external treatment. There's no "dosing"—no risks of stomach upsets. You simply massage it on throat, chest, and back.

ACTS DIRECT . . . VapoRub goes right to work to bring relief, two direct ways at once: (1) It acts direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath. This direct poultice-and-vapor action quickly loosens phlegm—clears the air-passages—checks tendency to cough—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves local congestion—brings comfort and invites restful sleep.

DOUBLY-PROVED . . . VapoRub has been proved in daily use by two generations of mothers—further proved in one of the largest series of clinical tests ever made on colds. Just treat one cold with VapoRub—see for yourself how effective it is—and we believe that you, like most mothers, will always keep it handy in your home.

550 WILL TAKE GOLDEN GLOVES EXAM TONIGHT

Extra Physical Test Listed Thursday.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Five hundred and fifty Golden Gloves boxers are scheduled to take their physical examinations tonight in Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street. Officials of the Golden Gloves tournament, which opens tomorrow night in the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street, hope that all will report.

Because of the snowstorm and the fact that trafic conditions still may not be normal tonight, especially for boys living in outlying districts and suburbs, any boy who wishes may report Thursday evening at 6 o'clock in the Madison Athletic club for his physical examination.

Must Bring Consent Card.

Any boxer who has received a parental consent card may come to this special examination Thursday evening. Boxers must bring the consent card with them. It must be signed by a parent or guardian. This applies to any boxer who has received a card since entries opened.

This extra physical examination will qualify boxers for the south side, northwest side, and north side tournaments. The examination on Thursday will not qualify any one to compete in the west side trials

All boxers who received tickets and instructions at physical examinations to enter the west side tournament must follow those instructions. The first bouts will be held tomorrow evening, starting at 7 o'clock. This tournament will continue Thursday evening and will be completed next week on Feb. 8 and 9.

Entries Close Saturday.

Golden Gloves entries will not be accepted after midnight Saturday. Boxers wishing to enter Chicago's sectionals must submit their names and addresses before this deadline. All entries now in this office and all received from now on will be answered as rapidly as possible. Final examination for this year's bouts will be Feb. 10 in Trafton's gymnasium. Boys passing that examination may compete in either the northwest side tournament in Marigold Gardens or the north side tournament in Loyola university gymnasium.

At the physical examination tonight and the special examination Thursday night, boys still will be accepted for the south side tournament which starts in White City Feb. 14.

32 to Qualify in Open Division.

Thirty-two Open division boxers will qualify from the four Chicago tournaments to compete in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 27, 28, and March 1. Forty-seven teams from out of town and the champions of the C. Y. O. complete the list of contestants.

Seven newspapers are holding preliminary tournaments this evening. They are the Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph; Detroit, Mich., Free Press; Huntington, W. Va., Advertiser; Nashville, Tenn., Tennesseean; Fort Wayne, Ind., Journal Gazette; Lafayette, Ind., Journal Courier, and the Terre Haute, Ind., Tribune Star.

ONLY TWO OF 850 INDIANA PREP FIVES UNBEATEN

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Central's defeat by Emerson left Huntingburg and Jeffersonville the only undefeated quintets among Indiana's 850 high school basketball teams. Central, after winning 16 consecutive games, lost on a last minute basket by Bob Mulroe, a reserve forward, Saturday. The score was 24 to 22.

Huntingburg now boasts an 18 game winning streak, while Jeffersonville has 15. Northern Indiana fans will get a glimpse of the strong Jeffersonville squad next Saturday night when it plays at Hammond.

Golden Gloves Are in Season Again

Mail orders for tickets to this spectacular boxing tournament are now being received. Previous events have been sell-outs. Guard against missing this year's show by placing an early order.

Address Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, making checks or money orders payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. Prices:

Tournament of Champions: Feb. 27 and 28—40 cents, 66 cents, and $1.10. March 1—75 cents, $1.10, and $1.65.

Finals: March 10—$1.10, $1.65, $2.20, and $3.30. All 55 cent seats for the finals are sold.

Dahlstrom to Join Line with Desilets, Gottselig.

New York Americans at Boston.
Chicago at New York Rangers.

A number of shakeups in an effort to break the nonscoring jinx which has had the Blackhawks in its tenacious grip for over a month were announced by Coach Paul Thompson before the team left yesterday afternoon for an eastern trip that has them booked for a game with the Rangers in New York tonight and another with the Canadiens in Montreal Thursday, before returning to Chicago for a game with the Boston Bruins, National Hocky league leaders, next Sunday.

Cully Dahlstrom, who played center between Johnny Gottselig and Jeffre Desilets throughout the months of November and December when the line was the league's leading forward string and its stellar play kept Johnny Gottselig at the top of the league's point makers for over half the season, will be shifted back between his old mates again in an effort to regain the string's scoring punch.

Thompson's Elbow Improves.

Dahlstrom has been working between Jack Shill and Earl Robinson. Russ Blinco will be at the pivot post between these two in tonight's encounter in Madison Square Garden.

Paul Thompson's injured elbow is on the mend, but the United States section's leading point maker of last season does not think the injured member will permit him to resume regular duty until Thursday's game in Montreal. When Thompson returns to the game as a player he will take Bob Gracie's place alongside of Bill Thoms and Mush March. Gracie will be substitute left wing or center.

The team departed in the blizzard for New York at 2:55 p. m. yesterday. Train officials said that in all probability their train would arrive in New York some hours late. The scheduled time for arrival in New York is 9:05 a. m.

ANDERSON TAKES LEAD

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 30.—(AP)—The National Hocky league scoring race finally caught up with Johnny Gottselig of Chicago last week after he had set the point getting pace from the start of the season.

The most recent official figures from league headquarters, including Sunday's games, show that Tommy Anderson of the New York Americans has forged to the front with a total of twenty-eight points. His teammate, Dave [Sweeney] Schriner, and Hector [Toe] blake of the Montreal Canadiens are tied for second place with twenty-six points each, while Gottselig, with twenty-five, is tied with Nels Stewart of the Americans, Marty Barry of Detroit, and Syl Apps of Toronto for fourth place.

While the former leader was held scoreless during the last week, his rivals gained from two to four points each. Anderson topped the list with a goal and three assists for totals of ten goals and eighteen assists. He shares play-making honors with Schriner, who scored once and assisted twice.

The contest for the "bad man" title remained a private affair between Red Horner of Toronto and Art Coulter of the Rangers with Horner leading with sixty-three minutes in penalties to Coulter's fifty.

Gophers Win, but Maroons Make 'Em Work for Victory

Minnesota whipped Chicago, 34 to 27, last night on the Midway to go back into undisputed possession of first place in the Big Ten basketball race, but the Maroons put up a stiff battle and led, 17 to 15, at the half. Here Bob Meyer of Chicago (7) and John Dick of Minnesota (6) leap for a rebound. Other players identified are Dick Lounsbury, Chicago (14), and Paul Maki (16), Gordon Spear (15), and John Kundla (19), all of Minnesota. [Associated Press Photo.]

'WE RELUCTANTLY ACCEPT,' TEMPLE INFORMS WARNER

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Coach Glenn S. Warner was wired today by Earl R. Yeomans, director of athletics at Temple university, that "we are reluctant to accept your resignation but are abiding by your wishes." Warner tendered his resignation as head football coach yesterday.

Yeomans said Fred Swan, line coach, whom Warner favors as his successor, and J. Charles Winterburn, backfield coach, would be retained and would be given first consideration for the head coachship. Both signed three year contracts with Warner in 1937 and, like Warner's agreement, these contracts have another season to run.

Temple Is Satisfied.

In his telegram to the veteran coach, Yeomans said: "I can sincerely say that the athletic authorities were well satisfied with your efforts and appreciate the contribution you have made to Temple football. We sincerely hope you will continue to coach college football."

Swan, in commenting on Warner's resignation, said:

"His hip has been bothering him very badly for some time and I guess he feels he can't go on."

A university source said there was little question Swan would be named and would be permitted to select his own assistants. He added, however, that Winterburn, also a Stanford graduate, was certain to be retained.

Captained Stanford Eleven.

Swan, who is 35 years old, captained the 1926 Stanford team and has been line coach at Colgate and Wisconsin.

Yeomans indicated the position might be filled soon. However, a date for a meeting of the football committee, which would name the coach, is indefinite.

'PUBLICITY MISLEADING'

Palo Alto, Cal., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Glenn S. [Pop] Warner, who announced his resignation last night as head football coach of Temple university, said today he would consider joining the Stanford staf only with the consent of V. E. [Tiny] Thornhill, present coach.

Warner, who went to Temple from Stanford six years ago and was succeeded here by Thornhill, his former assistant, criticized what he said was "undue, unauthorized and misleading publicity" concerning the possibility of his becoming an advisory coach here. He said he had no future plans.

Stratton Dreams of Comeback as Specialists Plan a New Leg

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Monty Stratton, White Sox pitching ace whose right leg was amputated in December following a hunting accident, has recovered to the point where he is ready to order the artificial leg which he expects to aid him in continuing his baseball career. President Lou Comiskey of the Sox yesterday received word that experts were leaving for Greenville, Tex., Monty's home town, to consult on the best type of aid for the injured young athlete.

Stratton's convalescence having approached the point where he is to begin his heroic mechanical experiment, the tall Texan has become more confident than ever that he will be able to pitch. He cherished the idea when he still was confined to his bed, but it was suspected at the time he was whistling in the dark. With the experiment about to begin, Monty has become more optimistic of future success than he was last spring when he pulled an arm muscle which had been injured late in the previous season.

Promise He Can Run.

Stratton, though his position smacks of a guinea pig rôle, has found he has the advantage accruing from having intrigued the artificial limb industry. Some manufacturers accept his plight as a challenge to their resourcefulness.

It is said one expert has assured Stratton and Sox officials that Monty will not only be able to pitch but that he can run with a fair degree of speed. Specific cases of the ability to sprint have been cited, according to reports.

Stratton will not make the trip to the Pasadena training camp, as previously intimated. Instead, he will work out in Texas till April 10, when he will come to Chicago. According to the present plan, he will be in uniform during the benefit game between the Sox and Cubs in Comiskey park on April 17.

Dykes Is Due Thursday.

Manager Jim Dykes, who has been taking a close personal interest in his several incapacitated or handicapped players, will be in Chicago Thursday, en route to the Pasadena camp. Jim had expected to meet Infielder Eric McNair here for a second checkup of Eric's erstwhile bum knee. McNair, however, has sent word that a doc in his home town has said the knee is sound and that, as a consequence, he would remain in Meridian, Miss., until time to set out for Pasadena.

Among the things brought to a standstill by the blizzard was the Cub contract parade. The score as the wind whistled and the snow swirled yesterday was signed, 15; bounce backs, 11; not heard from, 5.

Garbark Signs Contract.

Over the week-end there was transfer from the lists of bounce backs, or contracts returned unsigned. Bob Garbark was impressed with Owner P. K. Wrigley's letter explaining his bonus contract idea and signed at the same figure originally offered him.

Most important in the bounceback classification is said to be Stan Hack, the Cub's leading hitter and only consistent fielder last season. It is reported that Stan was offered a raise in his basic wage, but didn't deem it enough.

There was one change in the status of the outfield contingent with the announcement in Kansas City that Jimmy Gleeson, the rookie purchased from Newark last fall, had dropped his signed contract in the mail. Two years ago the Cubs sailed for Catalina Island without an outfielder enrolled. And just by coincidence, perhaps, they haven't had an outstanding outfielder enrolled since that concerted holdout of the Gardeners' union. Another newcomer, Hank Leiber, is among the outfielders whose autographs are missing in the current demonstration.

To Catch or Not to Catch?

After making the circuit of baseball writers' dinners in eastern cities, Manager Gabby Hartnett will return to Chicago and try to get his mind on his business. Among the things he must decide is whether he is going to shoot for the major league catching record he was after when he busted his thumb. If Gabby catches in 100 games this season he will break his tie with Cracker Schalk in the matter of the total number of years catching 100 or more games.

MINNESOTA'S 2D HALF DRIVE BEATS CHICAGO

Maroons Take 17-9 Edge, Then Falter.

Minnesota's Gophers battled their way back into the undisputed leadership of the Big Ten last night, defeating Chicago, 34 to 27, in the Midway fieldhouse. The adroit little Gopher team now has five victories against one defeat in the conference race, while Chicago, with the reverse of that record, is deeper in last place.

Gordon Spear.

Minnesota had to earn its leadership, however, for the Maroons surprised the 1,500 spectators who braved yesterday's blizzard by running up a lead of 17 to 9 over the Gophers at one stage of the game.

Down to the last five minutes the game was exceedingly close and seemed likely to set a season low in Big Ten scoring. But with Minnesota leading, 24 to 20, the match turned into a free scoring affair, with the Gophers connecting on four straight baskets.

Maroons Miss Shots.

A decision on an out of bounds ball five minutes before the gun, which had the crowd booing the rest of the way, seemed to upset Chicago, and Minnesota scored almost at will.

Chicago played its best game of the season and had twice as many shots as the Gophers, but couldn't match Minnesota's marksmanship. The Maroons also missed nine free throws, as against four misses by Minnesota.

Minnesota trailed, 17 to 15, going into the second half, but dominated the final period when Chicago failed to score a field goal during the first thirteen minutes of the period.

Two spurts for 7 straight points and another for 8 gave Chicago its half time lead. The Maroons took twice as many shots as the Gophers, but their markmanship was less deadly.

Gophers Step Out.

A free throw and a short goal by Spear gave the Gophers a lead they never relinquished shortly after the last half began. At that point Stampf, who had accounted for ten of Chicago's first thirteen points, was ejected on fouls.

Kundla poked in a rebound shot and Dick scored from the corner. After thirteen minutes had passed Bill Murphy, Chicago guard, scored on a dribble-in shot to reduce Chicago's deficit to 22 to 20.

Minnesota then made four baskets in ninety seconds. Kundla arched in a one hand overhead shot. Addington was free under the Maroon basket for another. Kundla raced down the floor alone for a push up. That gave the Gophers a 30 to 20 edge.

Maroons Renew Attack.

In the last two minutes the Maroons made seven points, three by Robert Meyer, who replaced Stampf, two by Lounsbury on free throws, and two on a basket by Billy Murphy. Bill Warhol and Addington scored baskets for Minnesota.

Scoring honors of the evening were divided by Stampf and Addington with ten points each. Lineup:

IOWA WINS, 35-30

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—South Dakota's basketball team gave Iowa a battle tonight, but the Hawkeyes put on a strong finish to triumph, 35 to 30. South Dakota led, 30 to 24, with only four minutes left.

Then, while Iowa, led by Ken Bastian, reserve center, and Angie Anapol, sophomore forward, was counting 11 points, the Coyotes could not score at all. Anapol scored 13 points, and Bastian 12.

TWO JOCKIES SUSPENDED AT HIALEAH PARK

Judges Also Disqualify Long Shot Winner.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 30.—(AP)—The officials at Hialeah Park had to work almost as hard as the horses that raced today, and in some respects their efforts were more interesting.

During the afternoon, which had no important race listed, the stewards suspended Jocky C. Critchfield, who rode Sure Hour in the second race, for five days for disobedience at the post. Later they set down George Seago for twenty racing days when he was detected striking another horse, Blacky Bee, with his whip while he rode Modest Queen in the sixth race. Both suspensions are effective tomorrow.

The sixth race also gave Starter George Cassidy a few bad moments when the fans booed as the field left the stalls raggedly, but the day's first victorious favorite, Panoroscope, came home.

Long Shot Disqualified.

Finally Busby, a long shot, was disqualified after finishing first in the seventh race and the purse was awarded to Foreign Legion, a 2 to 1 favorite. Busby, with Apprentice Jocky Charlton seeking his third victory of the day, cut over sharply in the stretch and interferred with Foreign Legion.

The best race of the day, a six furlong claiming event, saw Mrs. Ethel Jacobs' Nicholas S. come home at odds of $64.70 for $2. After his four straight beatings, the fans forgot Nicholas S. previously had been rated a good thing until they saw him come up on the outside under Charlton's strong handling and beat out B. N. Kane's Blacky Bee. Snow White stable's Modest Queen was third as the first three horses finished only heads apart.

CHANCE SWEET SCORES.

NAISMITH HAS A FEW COMPLAINTS ABOUT HIS GAME

Thinks Changes in Rules Hurt Basketball.

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Dr. James Naismith, the originator of basketball, arrived in town today and in a clear, incisive voice which belied his 77 years, told a group of coaches, officials and sports writers what could be done to make the game better.

Dr. Naismith, now director emeritus of physical education at the University of Kansas, aimed his criticisms chiefly at officials and the rules body as he pointed out that:

1. The rules today consistently penalize the offiensive team.

2. Many officials are not interpreting or enforcing the rules properly.

3. Elimination of the center jump, in addition to penalizing the scoring team, actually slows the game and eliminates many clever plays which would add spice.

Wrong Team Is Penalized.

Declaring that in his opinion the rules of 1932, if they had placed a penalty on a team which wouldn't go out and get the ball, were just about perfect, Dr. Naismith said the fundamental error of the rules committee was in penalizing the wrong team.

"Basketball," Dr. Naismith continued, "is not a game of contact, and yet a rules interpretation which penalizes a defensive man when a dribbler charges into him, makes for rough play.

"I talked over that variety of foul with E. C. Quigley not so many years ago. In the next game he called the foul on the dribbler. The crowd booed, and Quigley didn't do it again. The fans apparently are against anything which would handicap the team with a score in prospect.

Dribble Is a Weapon Now.

"The dribble primarily was evolved to enable a cornered player to get away. Yet today it is used as a weapon with which the offensive player can crash into a defensive man without fear of penalty."

Dr. Naismith points out it should be the duty of the defensive team to prevent a stalling game, and as an example of what happens when a defensive team waits for an opponent to come in toward the basket, he cited a Missouri Valley A. A. U. league game in Kansas City in which a team passed the ball 343 times by actual count without taking a shot at the basket.

Time Is a Minor Item.

The time-saving phase of elimination of the center jump is greatly overestimated, Dr. Naismith said. Before the jump was eliminated the average time required for an official to get the ball and toss it up at center was four seconds. Now a player takes the ball under the basket, has five seconds to get it out, and the team has ten more seconds in which to advance beyond the center of the court.

"And I wish the thirteenth, which called for the ball to be held with the hands only, was still in the book," he added.

"Sometimes, when I see contests played in a pel-mell, rough-and-tumble style, I think I should stay away from games. But, on the other hand, the sport has shown remarkable progress, and, when played strictly in accordance with the rules, still is the clean, fast, scientific game it was intended to be. When they stop penalizing the offensive team by taking the ball from it every time it makes a basket they will take a long step forward."

INDIANA BEATS NOTRE DAME IN INDOOR TRACK

Mel Trutt, Hoosier distance star, won the mile run from Capt. Greg Rice of Notre Dame in 4:19.2 and returned to lead his mates to the only slam of the meet in the 880 yard run. He was clocked in 1:58.2 in the latter event. Rice came back to win the two mile in 9:32.8.

Roy Cochran, Hoosier sophomore, made his bow to intercollegiate competition by setting a new meet record of :50.4 in the 440 yard dash. Dave Reidy, Irish junior, tied the meet record in the sixty yard high hurdles in his trial and in the finals.

Wilmette Boy Wins.

Bill Faymonville, senior from Wilmette, Ill., won the shot put by one inch from Archie Harris, Negro sophomore from Indiana. Faymonville threw the shot 46 feet 5 inches.

The Irish scored an upset victory in the mile relay when Joe Halpin took advantage of a poor pass from Fred Elliott to Cochran going into the anchor leg to take a three yard lead which enabled him to nose out the Hoosier sophomore.

Each Win Four Firsts.

FIVE BIDS MADE FOR ST. PAUL HOCKY PROPERTY

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Five offers for the St. Paul club of the American Hocky association were under consideration of League President W. F. Grant tonight as he returned to headquarters at Kansas City, Mo.

Taken over by the league last weekend after J. E. Goodwillie, club president, failed to meet a pay roll which was followed by a "sit down" strike of twelve players, the team was put up for sale immediately.

Grant, hoping to acquire a new owner at once, came to St. Paul today, but he left after a day of conferences and considering several propositions, all of which were about the same. He did not reveal the identities of the various bidders, but said all were highly responsible parties, most of them St. Paul business men.

FORT WORTH MEETS.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—The Fort Worth, Tex., city council will meet Wednesday to decide whether or not the city will be represented by a team in the American Hocky association. This was learned today at the offices of the association.

Fort Worth already has been granted a franchise. The council meeting will see a vote on whether to apply for a $14,000 WPA grant to make the Will Rogers arena in Fort Worth available for hocky. The team would be called the Fort Worth Rangers.

Horton Smith Takes a Bow as Golf Juveniles Deliver

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Horton Smith, the angular and astute Missourian who has added a reputation for picking comers to his native talent for hitting a golf ball, once more has vindicated himself as a handicapper.

During his stay at the Oak Park Country club a few years ago, Smith suggested three young gents as parties to watch in future tournaments. One of them was Ernest [Dutch] Harrison, a tallish lad from Arkansas for whom Horton predicted great things. Another was Byron Nelson of Fort Worth, Tex. Still another was young Jimmy McHale, who was then wont to work nights in a Los Angeles bakery before packing his clubs and appearing early on the first tees of a number of Southern California tournaments.

Height of Handicapping.

Sunday, Smith saw all three of his selections run one-two-three, one of them tying himself for second. The winner was Harrison, who is now assistant to Horton's brother, Ren, at Oak Park, wherefrom Smith still registers. The event was the annual $3,000 Bing Crosby tournament. Harrison wrought a pair of 69's for a thirty-six hole winning total of 138, which gave him first prize of $500.

Smith's own aggregate of 71—68—139 was matched by Nelson's 68—71, each of them collecting $300. Young McHale, who has turned professional and is now stationed at White Plains, N. Y., tied for third with Bill Nary, home professional at the Rancho Santa Fe course, site of the tourney. Each had 140, a stroke better than Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., and Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y.

Harrison Is Consistent.

Harrison has been one of the steadiest competitors on the tournament circuit since he won a playoff for the Mid-South title at Pinehurst a year ago last autumn. In the Chicago open last summer he suffered one of the truly tough breaks of the season. He shot a 67, tying an eleven year old course record for No. 1 at Olympia Fields, but the effort was washed out by a rainstorm which forced cancellation of the first round of the tournament.

As the touring professionals headed for their next event, a pro-amateur show to be played in Phoenix, Ariz., on Feb. 3, 4, and 5, Chicago players were running the party. Dick Metz of the Mill Road Farm course led all money winners in the California tour with a total of $2,200. Metz, who finished the Crosby event with 145, had defeated Harrison in a playoff for the Oakland open and had taken the San Francisco match play title by winning the final match from Smith. Harrison ranks second in the cash league, having collected $2,051.50. Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Tex., winner of the Los Angeles open, is in third place with $2,034.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, Jan. 30.—The American yacht Chuckle III., sailed by Harold Halsted of Moriches bay, today won the first race in the thirteen international Star class series for the cup of Cuba. It covered the ten mile course in 1:26:53. Adrian Iselin II. brought Ace II., of the western Long Island Sound fleet in second. Kurush of the Havana fleet, skippered by Charles de Cardenas was third. Gale, sailed by Harry Nye of Chicago, assisted by Francis Byrne, was fourth.

CHILDREN TO GET CHANCE AS DOG SHOW JUDGES

BY BOB BECKER.

An amateur dog judging contest, in which novice judges between the ages of 14 and 21 will demonstrate their ability to place dogs competing in a show ring, will be a new feature of the International Kennel club show to be held in the International amphitheater on April 1 and 2.

The contestants will select one breed which they would like to judge. Dogs will be brought into the show ring, with professional handlers exhibiting them. The contestants will be given 15 minutes in which to judge the dogs on a point basis. Experienced dog judges will award prizes to the competitors who come nearest to judging the dogs correctly. There will also be oral examinations on the history of the breed and the standard of points.

Trophies, Medals, and Prizes.

The International Kennel Club of Chicago, believing that an interest in judging dogs should be encouraged, will sponsor the competition and award trophies, medals, and cash prizes. It is the first contest of its kind in the United States or Canada. The I. K. C. intends to make it a part of its program each year.

Officials of the International Kennel club already have received entries for this dog judging contest from many states. One has come from as far east as Pennsylvania. Persons wishing to compete should proceed as follows:

Write the secretary of the International Kennel club, 840 Exchange avenue, Chicago, and specify the breed which you would like to judge. An entry blank will be sent at once. This must be filled out and returned to the club with a check for one dollar, the entry fee. The club then will forward a copy of the standard of the breed and other details about the contest.

Dog Fanciers Enthusiastic.

Organizations of dog fanciers are enthusiastic about this judging contest, for it offers an opportunity to youngsters to learn more about the breeds and at the same time get started on a judging career. All contestants who intend to go in the ring and demonstrate their knowledge of a certain breed will have anywhere from a month or more [depending on the time of their entry] to prepare for the ring test.

Neu Shrugs Off a Little Thing Like Sickness!

Capt. Bob Neu was ill when he led De Paul to victories over Villanova and St. John's of Brooklyn on the Blue Demons' recent eastern trip, Coach Tom Haggerty revealed yesterday.

"Neu was ill during the Villanova game and for a week thereafter," Haggerty said. "I thought of keeping him on the bench against St. John's, but he insisted on playing. As it was, he played only 25 out of the 40 minutes against the New York team."

De Paul and Loyola are looking ahead to their Catholic Youth Organization charity game at the Stadium on Feb. 8. Both schools will be represented by their bands and cheering sections.

27 NATIONS ON ENTRY LIST FOR DAVIS CUP PLAY

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—With the deadline for filing set for midnight tomorrow, twenty-seven countries have entered the 1939 Davis Cup play, the United States Lawn Tennis association announced today. This number exceeds last year's challenges by three for the trophy defended successfully by the United States.

The draw will be made in the Vanderbilt hotel on Friday.

Countries already heard from include Brazil in the South American zone; Australia, Canada, Cuba, Japan, Mexico and the Philippines in the North American zone; Belgium, China, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain, Hungary, India, Ireland, Italy, Monaco, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Rumania, Sweden, Switzerland, and Yugoslavia in the European zone.

CHAMACO BEATS McCOURT TWICE IN BILLIARD MEET

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Joe Chamaco of New York scored a pair of decisive victories over the veteran Charles McCourt of Cleveland today to improve his first place record in the national three cushion billiard meet.

BOZEMAN LOSES TWO.

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Art Thurnblad of Kenosha earned a .500 rating in the national three cushion billiard tournament by upsetting Jay N. Bozeman, Vallejo, Cal., star who is second in point standing, in two matches here today.

Rallying to overcome a 12 point deficit, Thurnblad registered a 50 to 47 victory in 51 innings and then took the second match in 43 inning, 50 to 38, with a high run of five.

CORNELL HANDS BELOIT QUINTET FIRST SETBACK

Mount Vernon, Ia., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Cornell moved a step higher in the Midwest conference basketball race with a 38 to 34 victory over Beloit tonight. It was the first conference defeat for the Blue Devils. Cornell took an early lead with the reserves scoring, but the visitors drew up to 17 to 16 at the half.

Smith, Beloit forward, made sixteen points. Schneider of Cornell was next with nine points. Score:

WALTHOUR AND CROSSLEY LIKELY BIKE RACE TEAM

Jimmy Walthour, New York youngster, and Al Crossley of Boston are expected to ride as the American team in Chicago's forty-first International six-day bicycle race which starts in the Stadium a week from Sunday night. Walthour has won twelve races while Crossley has captured first place in eight.

Walthour is keeping the family name in the news. First it was Bobby Walthour Sr., the Dixie Flier who thirty-five years ago was the pride of Atlanta. Then along came Bobby Jr., the son of the Dixie Flier, and he for years was an outstanding six-day rider. Young Bobby eventually put his wheel away and along came cousin Jimmy who has established the best record of all the Walthours. He started back in 1928 as the amateur champion and since turning professional has had a string of successes.

MANNING, CITY BOWLING CHIEF, DIES IN STORM

Collapses While Walking Through Heavy Snow.

Samuel F. Manning, president of the Chicago Bowling association and member of the executive committee of the American Bowling congress, died of a heart attack yesterday.

Mr. Manning, a secretary in the city board of health, left his home at 126 East 73d street early in the morning and started to plow his way to the motor bus line. At 73d street and South Park avenue he collapsed and died of a heart attack. He was 62 years old.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 10 a. m. in the chapel at 63d street and Harvard avenue. Burial will be in Acacia cemetery. He is survived by his widow, Beryl, and a brother, Clarence of Bethel, O.

A. B. C. PRESIDENT DIES.

Columbus, O., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—John E. Davies, 45, auditor of the city of Columbus and president of the American Bowling congress, died this morning after an operation for acute appendicitis. He collapsed in the corridors of the city hall Jan. 18, and underwent the first of two operations that same day. A second emergency operation was performed Saturday.

Mr. Davies had been identified with the auditor's office for twenty years. His election as president of the A. B. C. for a one year term came at the annual tournament in Chicago last March. Previously he had been on the executive committee for thirteen years. He had been secretary of the Columbus Bowling association for seventeen years, serving as tournament manager for the national A. B. C. held in Columbus in 1933. He was born in Columbus.

As a bowler he set a city all-time high three game score of 780.

I'm proud that folks called me a STUBBORN DUTCHMAN—
. . . because I know they have to admit our old-fashioned methods make a better beer . . . it's now the biggest selling Bottled Beer hereabouts
by RICHARD SEIBOLD, Meister Bräu Brewmaster
IN BOTTLING WE USE ONLY THE CARBONATION CREATED IN THE BEER ITSELF
LIKE IN DRAFT BEER
We could save time by adding sugars or syrups, but we'll never depart from our slow, old-time methods
●It's funny what different ideas folks have about brewing beer. Many salesmen say I'm just a stubborn Dutchman because I won't use "modern" methods of brewing. Because I insist on making Meister Bräu the same, slow way we made it 47 years ago.
But when I talk to folks who drink Meister Bräu, many ask, "How can you make such a good beer at such a reasonable price?"
There are two reasons why. First, because we know how. We've been making Meister Bräu since 1891. And that's a lot of experience.
And, second, by making so much Meister Bräu we enjoy the efficiency and economy of large scale operation. Meister Bräu is now Chicago's largest selling bottled beer.
These economies enable us to pay as much as ⅓ more to get the finest Malt and Hops. Some people may like a beer made with sugars or syrups added. But we insist on an all-grain brew.
Please try this old-time beer made the slow, careful way that brings perfection. It's charged with Natural Draft Beer Carbonation created in the beer itself. Thus it retains the real draft beer flavor.
Ask for Meister Bräu in cans or bottles. That name assures you the true beer flavor.

A. F. L. COUNCIL REJECTS LEWIS' POLITICAL PLAN

Spurns Program of His Nonpartisan League.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor voted today against uniting with Labor's Nonpartisan league, headed by C. I. O. Chieftain John L. Lewis, in a drive to select league-supported delegates to the 1940 Democratic national convention.

Lewis, as chairman of Labor's Nonpartisan league, announced in December that the league would hold a convention this year to approve a plan for sending delegates to the Democratic convention who would work for progressive candidates for President and Vice President. Lewis invited all labor to join in the movement.

Asks A. F. of L. to Refrain.

"The executive council directed me to call on all affiliates of the federation to refrain from participating in the work of the so-called Nonpartisan league and to refrain from holding membership in the league," Green declared after the council's action today.

"The league is purely a political organization," Green continued, "and is formed contrary to the nonpartisan policies of the American Federation of Labor. Its declared purpose to control a political party and a political convention is clearly out of accord with our nonpartisan policy."

Calls League C. I. O. Agency.

Green characterized the league as an agency of the C. I. O.

The A. F. of L. has severed all connection with the Nonpartisan league, which was organized during the 1936 campaign. However, officials of the league have claimed that many in the A. F. of L. are still members and support the league's program.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Mary Eddy.

Funeral services will be held today in Woodstock for Mrs. Mary Eddy, 81 years old, a pioneer resident of Seneca township. She died Saturday night. Mrs. Eddy was born in Scotland. Two sons and two grandchildren survive.

HANGMAN IN OLD GALLOWS DRAMA DIES AT AGE OF 81

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—(AP)—I. O. McGee, 81 years old, the hangman in the strange case of Will Purvis, died today at the home of his son, Otho McGee.

Purvis was the man hanged at Columbia, Miss., 46 years ago and yet outlived the jury which condemned him. The noose that Sherif McGee put around Purvis' neck slipped. Later another man confessed the crime which had sent Purvis to the gallows.

HARRY D. BRIGGS RITES TOMORROW; KILLED IN CRASH

Funeral services for Harry Daniel Briggs, president of the Briggs Outdoor Advertising company, will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in his home at 336 Sheridan road in Wilmette. The services had been previously announced for today. Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery. Mr. Briggs, who was 49 years old, was fatally injured in an automobile accident in Michigan City and died in a hospital there Sunday. He is survived by his widow, Dorothy Bell Briggs, and two daughters, Doris and Carol.

DENTIST DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

UTILITIES LOSE SUPREME COURT ATTACK ON TVA

Right to Resist U. S. Inroads Denied.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—The Tennessee Valley authority won a technical victory today when the United States Supreme court refused to pass upon the constitutionality of its activities. The court held that the case had no right to maintain their suit.

Justice Butler gives dissenting opinion.

Supporters of the Roosevelt administration's half billion dollar experiment in state socialism were jubilant when news of the TVA victory spread through the capital. The court's action, they declared, upset all efforts by the private utility companies to block the creation of a "more abundant life" in the Tennessee valley.

Indicate Course of Action.

Counsel for the Tennessee Electric Power company and thirteen other utility companies were told that they had no standing in court. They agreed with administration supporters that there is small hope of upsetting the TVA by further legal action. The lawyers indicated there is only one possible course of action, and that is a suit by minority stockholders to protest sale of a private utility company's facilities to the TVA.

In an earlier case, decided Feb. 17, 1936, the court upheld the right of minority stockholders of the Alabama Power company to sue when they challenged the sale of certain facilities to the TVA on the ground that it was unconstitutional.

In that case the court passed on a constitutional question, holding that the construction of the Wilson dam was valid as a national defense measure, for the production of nitrate. It ruled that the government had the right to distribute hydroelectric power under its constitutional power to dispose of government property.

Early Decision Limited.

In the first TVA case, however, the court refrained from passing upon the validity of the act itself and carefully limited its decision to power produced at Wilson dam.

Since the court passed upon a constitutional question in the earlier case and refused to do so today, on the ground that the petitioners had no standing in court, some lawyers regarded the decision as a compromise expedient by which a difficult issue was evaded.

They believe that a majority of the justices were not convinced that the activities of the TVA in producing and selling hydroelectric power on a gigantic scale were legal under the government's navigation and flood control powers.

This view is predicated on the fact that the case was argued on Nov. 14 and 15, more than ten weeks ago, and not decided until today. Furthermore, only seven justices participated, and the concurrence of Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justice Roberts, two moderates, with the conservatives, Justice McReynolds and Butler, would have swung the balance against the administration.

"Easiest Way Out?"

Thus some lawyers assume that the court took the easiest way out. Justice Stanley F. Reed took no part in the case because, as solicitor general, he had participated in TVA litigation. Concurring in the majority opinion, delivered by Justice Roberts, were Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justices Brandeis, Stone, and Black.

In a dissenting opinion concurred in by Justice McReynolds, Justice Butler held that the private utilities had a right to seek relief from unlawful competition.

"If, because of conflict with the constitution, the act does not authorize the enterprise formulated and being executed by defendants, then their conduct is unlawful and inflicts upon complainants direct and special injury of great consequence," said the dissenting opinion. "Therefore, they are entitled to have this court decide upon the constitutional questions that have been brought here."

The majority opinion upheld the finding of a statutory three judge district court that the private utilities had no right to complain that their business was being destroyed by government competition, since it was "damnum absque injuria," a damage not consequent upon the violation of any right recognized by law.

Basis of Utilities' Action.

The complainants contended that water power could not constitutionally be created in the guise of controlling floods and maintaining the navigability of streams; that since the power is not produced as an incident to the exercise of such federal authority, the government has no title to it; and that the generation and sale of electric power deprives the appellants of their property without due process of law and results in federal regulation of the internal affairs of the states.

The majority opinion considered

State Senate Gets Bills for Truck Control

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Bills to regulate all trucking in Illinois and require semi-annual examinations were placed before the senate today by Senator Louis J. Menges [D., East St. Louis]. He said the proposed law would "abolish highway transportation monopolies."

The series of six bills, drafted by the uniform motor vehicle laws commission of which Menges is chairman, would take regulatory powers from the Illinois commerce commission and place authority in the state highway division.

"Small truckers will be benefited by placing them on equal footing with the big operators, and at the same time rigid safety examinations for all truckers undoubtedly will cut down highway accidents," Senator Menges said.

House to Get Similar Bills.

Sponsors of the measure were Menges, A. P. Benson [R., Batavia], John W. Fribley [D., Pana], Simon E. Lantz [R., Congerville], George M. Maypole [D., Chicago], and Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago]. A similar set of bills will be filed in the house.

"Live stock thefts from farms are expected to be reduced as much as 50 per cent because all truckers must be registered," Senator Menges said.

"The bill also prevents monopolies such as exist under the 1921 public utilities law, with only twenty-one truck companies now holding monopolies upon Illinois public highways," he added.

Would Require Insurance.

Every owner required to have public liability and property damage insurance or prove financial ability to pay damages.

Every owner required to obtain a certificate from the state highway division before March 1, 1940.

Every truck driver is limited to twelve hours of driving and a total of fifteen hours on duty in any twenty-four hour period.

All trucks must carry name of owner, address, and certificate number painted on body.

Minimum rates will be established by the state highway division.

APPOINT PALMER TO NEW POST IN MARSHALL FIELD

James L. Palmer, director of sales promotion of Marshall Field & Co., yesterday was promoted to the newly created position of assistant to the president of the big merchandising company. The promotion was announced by Frederick D. Corley, president.

A certified public accountant, Palmer has been associated with Marshall Field & Co. for about three years. Prior to that he was a business consultant with various corporations and a professor in the University of Chicago school of business. Since 1930 he has specialized in marketing problems.

Palmer is a member of the American Economic association and the Midwestern Marketing association.

DUTCH CURRENCY RISES SHARPLY IN DOLLAR VALUE

The Dutch guilder rallied sharply in foreign exchange trading yesterday. It reversed a downward movement begun early this month, closing 0.36 cent higher at 54 cents in terms of the dollar. Other principal European currencies also advanced.

The upswing in the Dutch unit was attributed to covering of commitments by traders who had recently sold the currency. Yesterday's rally was well under way before Hitler began his speech in the afternoon. The British pound sterling rose ⅜ cent at $4.68¼. The French franc advanced .00¼ cent to 2.64½ cent.

The New York Federal Reserve bank reported that $9,100,000 of gold had been engaged in England for shipment to the United States.

STEEL OUTPUT RISES THIS WEEK; RATE BEST SINCE MID-DECEMBER

The national steel making rate this week is scheduled at 52.8 per cent of potential production, the highest point since Dec. 12. The American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday that ingot output will increase 1.6 points above the scheduled rate of 51.2 per cent for the preceding week.

The previous high point in this period was 52.7 per cent for the week starting Jan. 16. A month ago steel activity was at 50.7 per cent of capacity and a year ago, 30.5 per cent.

Railroad purchases in recent weeks have been a steadying influence on the steel industry, according to the Dow-Jones News service. The carriers have ordered about 250,000 tons of heavy steel since Jan. 1, it is estimated.

$75,880 IN YEAR PAID TO RANNEY BY PEOPLES GAS

George A. Ranney, chairman of the board of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, received $75,880 in 1938 as compensation from the company and its subsidiaries. The payments were disclosed yesterday in a company statement accompanying solicitation of proxies for its annual stockholders' meeting Feb. 28. The company said stockholders will be asked to reëlect the present board of seven directors.

Ranney owns 2,000 shares of the company's capital stock, the statement said. Holdings of the other directors were listed as follows: Sewell L. Avery, chairman of the board of Montgomery Ward & Co., one share; Edward E. Brown, president of the First National Bank and Trust company, 100 shares; Robert F. Carr, president of the Dearborn Chemical company, 101 shares; Howard W. Fenton, president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, one share; Charles B. Goodspeed of the Buckeye Steel Casting company, one share, and Donald R. McLennan, chairman of Marsh & McLennan, one share.

PLAN OF POSTAL TELEGRAPH HELD FAIR BY COURT

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe, who last week tentatively approved the amended plan of reorganization for the Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation, today filed a written opinion in which he ruled that the plan is fair, equitable, and feasible.

The court ruled that the corporation is insolvent, thus barring the preferred and common stock holders from participating under the plan. All of the common and most of the preferred stock is owned by International Telephone and Telegraph corporation.

Postal Telegraph entered the bankruptcy court in June, 1935, and the plan is the result of protracted negotiations and extended hearings since then.

BUSINESS DONE BY CHECK DROPS IN MIDDLE WEST

Checks written against individual deposit accounts in banks in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district in the week ended Jan. 25 totaled $1,038,478,000. This was a decrease of 10.4 per cent from the $1,159,334,000 reported for the preceding week. The figures were announced yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in its weekly report covering 159 banks in forty-one cities.

Compared with the $1,002,116,000 total for the corresponding 1938 week, there was an increase of 3.6 per cent.

Debits [checks written] to individual accounts of the Chicago banks totaled $579,205,000 compared with $657,298,000 in the preceding week and $566,571,000 in the 1938 week.

Stocks Climb; Hitler Speech Is Held Mild

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 30.—Stock market prices closed fractions to about 5 points higher today in quiet trading. Practically all sections participated in the advance. Volume was 790,220 shares.

The list opened strong and continued to add to its gains until announcement of the Supreme court decision upholding the Tennessee Valley authority. Moderate liquidation in power and light shares halted progress for a time, but the list surged higher again until Chancellor Hitler began to speak at Berlin. While traders took time out to digest his remarks the list marked time.

Early impressions of Hitler's speech were that it was mild. Anticipation of a more violent message had kept the financial district in a highly unsettled state last week.

Steel Shares Advance.

A favorable forecast of steel operations brought about substantial buying in steel shares. Bethlehem featured the opening with a spurt of 2¼ points. It continued strong to close 5 points higher at 67. Other strong spots were United States Steel, up 2⅝; Youngstown Sheet and Tube, up 2½, and Republic Steel, up 1⅞.

Motors also attracted much attention. Chrysler advanced 4⅛ points and General Motors gained 2⅛.

The midday liquidation in utility stocks was considered to have come from speculative interests. Offerings dried up in short order. After that favorite utility stocks edged fractionally higher again.

Rail stocks contributed relatively sharp gains, although interest in them was not as large as in other sections. Gains of 1 to about 2 points were made by Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Chesapeake and Ohio, Great Northern preferred, Illinois Central, and New York Central.

Aircraft Issues Higher.

Aircraft issues were uniformly higher under the continuing impetus of war talk and rearmament programs of the democratic nations. Douglas was a standout, rising 3½ points.

Metals also gave a good account of themselves. Anaconda and International Nickel advanced 1¾ and 2 points, respectively. United States Rubber showed the way in its group with a gain of 2½ points on good buying. Both Goodyear and Goodrich rose more than 2 points.

Westinghouse featured the heavy machinery section with a spurt of 4¼ points. Gains running to more than 1 point were registered by General Electric, Allis Chalmers, and J. I. Case.

San Francisco Market Higher.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Stock trading that followed conclusion of Adolf Hitler's speech brought small gains virtually throughout the San Francisco Stock exchange list today.

General Electric went $1 above its final price in the New York market, chalked up while Hitler was still speaking. It closed here at $40.75. Stocks averaging about 25 cents higher than in Wall street were United States Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Lockheed, Montgomery Ward, and Southern Pacific.

BALANCING U. S. BUDGET TERMED LONG TIME JOB

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Balancing the national budget at a seven billion dollar level would take three years even with heavy increases in taxes, Roswell Magill told the Economic Club of Detroit today. Magill is a former undersecretary of the treasury.

Three possible ways of balancing the budget are a 60 per cent increase in taxes, a one-third reduction in expenditures, or an increase in national income, he said. The probable solution, he added, will be a combination of all three.

JUSTICE OFFICE ENTERS FIGHT ON TRANSAMERICA

Backs SEC; Move Is Blow to Bank.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—Transamerica corporation received a blow today when the justice department joined the proceedings of the Securities and Exchange commission against it. Transamerica is the 200 million dollar holding company of A. P. Giannini, California branch banker and until recently a supporter of the Roosevelt administration.

Thurman Arnold.

Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold appeared in federal District court and argued against Transamerica's petition for an injunction to restrain the SEC from bringing Bank of America, a subsidiary and fourth biggest bank in the nation, into the proceedings.

False Statements Alleged.

The SEC charges Transamerica and its subsidiaries with filing false and misleading financial statements. The commission has ordered the holding company to show cause why its capital stock should not be delisted from the New York, Los Angeles, and San Francisco stock exchanges.

Hearings before the commission have been suspended pending court action on the injunction petition, in which Transamerica charges that the SEC lacks jurisdiction over Bank of America.

Counsel for Transamerica retaliated against the justice department action by demanding that Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. and William O. Douglas, SEC chairman, appear in court for cross-examination in connection with an exchange of correspondence between them, which Transamerica claims was illegal because it revealed operations of the bank.

Justice Department Supports.

When Arnold appeared in court this morning he informed Federal Judge Daniel W. O'Donoghue that the SEC has the unqualified support of the justice department in its action against Transamerica corporation. Arnold denied an "inference" of Bank of America that there is dissension among government agencies over the Transamerica case.

Arnold said he appeared in the Bank of America action under a provision of the law which permitted the department to represent the government in any action involving a federal agency. This indicated that the administration is determined to press its action against Transamerica to the limit. It is viewed as the inauguration of a drive on bank holding companies, and particularly a move to force Transamerica to change policies to which the government objects.

William Stanley of Transamerica counsel argued that the SEC in its Transamerica order had made a "scandalous" attack on Bank of America and that in ordering the bank to produce certain records it was acting illegally.

Says 3 Agencies Have Power.

Only the controler of currency, the federal reserve board and Federal Deposit Insurance corporation have powers over a national bank, he argued.

Stanley called Louis Ferrara, vice president and counsel of Bank of America, to the witness stand. Ferrara testified the SEC order for the Transamerica hearing might "do irreparable injury" and "diminish confidence in the bank."

John Rogge, SEC counsel, then sought to introduce correspondence between Morgenthau and Douglas. Stanley protested.

"The obvious purpose in introducing this correspondence," Stanley said, "is to show that the commission received from the treasury information concerning Bank of America. We contend that the treasury acted illegally in making such information available.

Charges Act Was Illegal.

"We want to ask Secretary Morgenthau if he got an opinion from the attorney general that he was acting according to law. We contend that the secretary committed an unlawful act."

Judge O'Donoghue admitted the letters over Stanley's protest. It was not indicated definitly whether Morgenthau and Douglas actually will be called, but the court told Stanley to take any step he felt necessary in connection with the evidence contained in the letters.

Du Pont 1938 Profit Tumbles 38 Millions to $50,190,827

Net earnings of the parent company and its wholly owned subsidiaries totaled $50,190,827 in the year ended Dec. 31, the report showed. Equal to $3.79 a share on the outstanding common stock, this was a sharp drop from net income of $88,031,943, or $7.29 a share, in 1937.

During 1938, according to the report, du Pont received $14,628,621 as dividends from its holdings of common stock in the General Motors corporation. In 1937 dividends from this source totaled $36,672,635.

Deere Earns $9,469,930.

The 1938 net income of Deere & Co., farm implement manufacturer, was $9,469,930, the company reported in its annual statement to stockholders. In 1937 net earnings were $14,936,476.

Charles D. Wiman, president of Deere, said earnings declined proportionately with the drop in farmers' income during the year. He predicted "reasonably good" business in 1939 if crops are average and prices are maintained. Sales, he said, amounted to $79,233,797 in 1938 against $100,399,710 in 1937.

Net profit of the Plymouth Oil company amounted to $2,601,377 in 1938, a preliminary report showed. This was equal to $2.58 a share. Net earnings in 1937 were $2,936,342, or $2.85 a share.

The report said net profit of the oil company in the fourth quarter of 1938 would total $607,370, or 61 cents a share. In the fourth quarter of the preceding year profit was $821,372, or 84 cents a share.

NORTH AMERICAN CO. TAKES NEW STEP TO SIMPLIFY STRUCTURE

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—The North American company negotiated today another step in its move toward greater simplification of structure through elimination of North American Edison company, its intermediate holding company subsidiary. Stockholders, at a special meeting, approved management recommended amendments to the company's certificate of organization.

The projected change in the certificate was found necessary before the simplification plan itself could be submitted to stockholders. Submission of this question was approved by the securities and exchange commission.

The plan was first announced by James F. Fogarty, president, on Dec. 31. It contemplates refunding of all the outstanding securities of North American Edison company and sale of additional securities by North American company.

Securities to be issued by North American company in connection with the simplification consist of $20,000,000 of 3½ per cent debentures, due 1949; $25,000,000 of 3¾ per cent debentures, series 1954; $25,000,000 of 4 per cent debentures, due 1959, and 696,580 shares of $50 par ¾ per cent cumulative preferred stock.

President Fogarty said at the hearing before the SEC that the changes and new financing would save North American $1,000,000 annually.

174,000 WORKERS HIRED IN MONTH; 44,306,000 IN JOBS

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The National Industrial conference board estimated today that 44,306,000 persons were employed in the United States in December, a gain of 0.3 per cent from November.

As the employed total rose by 174,000 workers, the unemployed rolls were reduced by 77,000 to 9,952,000. The difference in the figures indicates new manpower available for employment.

Because the conference estimates include in its "unemployed" figures 3,398,000 workers in the government emergency labor force, the men and women at work in the United States equaled in December the 47,985,000 employed in 1929, when only 469,000 persons were unemployed.

The December, 1938, employment figures compare with 44,279,000 employed and 9,335,000 unemployed in December, 1937.

DENMARK RULES LOANS IN U. S. NOT PAYABLE IN GOLD

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The supreme court of Denmark ruled today that interest on Danish government loans issued in the United States is not payable in gold.

Denmark authorized the subscription of loans of $30,000,000 in 1925 and of $55,000,000 in 1928 in the United States. The 5½ per cent interest on the first loan and the 4½ per cent on the second were payable in gold. All the bonds were sold in the United States except about $2,500,000 worth, which were purchased in the Netherlands.

When the United States suspended gold payments in 1933, Denmark started paying the interest in United States currency. The Netherlands stock exchange sued the Danish government to enforce the gold payment clause of the bonds, but lost its case under today's ruling.

Washington, D. C. Jan. 30.—The federal reserve board tonight made a bid for complete authority over bank examinations and asked increased power over excess reserves in its annual report to congress.

Marriner S. Eccles irks other authorities.

Officials of other federal supervising agencies—such as the treasury, the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, and the Reconstruction Finance corporation—were indignant over parts of the report, attributed to Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the board, who sent the report to congress.

The parts of the report that aroused a storm of criticism contained repeated references to "diffusion of authority" in the banking structure and urged a need for relationship between bank examinations and credit control.

Brand Criticism Unjust.

These authorities resented the report as leveling unjust criticism at their supervision and as another grab for power by Eccles, exponent of credit manipulation and author of the administration's present "spending for prosperity" policy.

The report warned congress that the present and prospective volume of excess bank reserves may at some time become the basis of "an injurious credit expansion" and requested the power to meet such a crisis.

Pointing out that excess reserves amounted to 3 billion 600 million in the early weeks of 1939 and "this total may be doubled in the future," the report points out that the board has authority at present to raise reserve requirements by only 800 millions and to make sales out of its portfolio of government obligations, totaling 2 billion 560 million.

Fears Injurious Expansion.

"The use of these available means of absorbing the reserves, to the extent that it may be in the public interest to do so, would still leave the banks with a volume of excess reserves upon which it would be possible for an injurious credit expansion to develop," the report said.

The board said, however, that there is no immediate prospect of excessive expansion of bank credit and "no reason to change the present policy of monetary ease adopted for the purpose of facilitating recovery."

A growth in reserves of 6 billions between 1934 and 1938 was attributed by the board to "the extraordinary inflow of gold from abroad."

The board's report implied that its powers over credit gave it the right also to dictate examining procedure and leveled sharp criticism at "divisions of authority." Other banking authorities pounced upon this as a request for power to experiment with depositors' money in manipulation of credit.

For Depositors' Benefit.

One official recalled that the question arose last year whether bank examinations should be conducted for protection of depositors or for credit control and that the treasury, which supervises the national banks, and the FDIC decided they were for the benefit of depositors.

Of this situation the federal reserve report said:

"As a consequence of the diffusion of responsibility and diversity of authority over the banks there is often uncertainty of decision and delay in action where promptness is important in the public interest.

"The board wishes to raise a broad question as to the relationship that should exist between general credit policies and policies pursued in the examination and supervision of banks. There have been times in the past when these policies have worked in opposite directions, with a consequent aggravation of deflationary and inflationary trends."

ILLINOIS CENTRAL 1938 REVENUE IS NEAR 1937 LEVEL

Net operating income of the Illinois Central in 1938 at $16,927,170 was only $954,654 below the 1937 total, despite an $8,599,981 decline in gross revenues, the railroad reported yesterday. If consideration is given to the fact that 1937 net operating income included a $1,579,093 credit from the cancelation of the retirement tax, then 1938 showed a small increase over 1937.

The road had a net income of $1,114,096 in 1938, compared with a net income of $1,960,316 in 1937. Earnings in 1938 were equal to $5.97 a share on the noncumulative preferred, compared with 62 cents a share on the common in 1937.

Roads reporting on earnings yesterday included:

15,000 IN CHICAGO SIGN LABOR ACT REVISION PLEA

The National Small Business Men's association has obtained 15,000 names in Chicago indorsing its petition for revision of the Wagner labor relations act, William R. Harshe, a Chicago director of the association, announced yesterday. Petitions have been circulated throughout the country.

The association is asking that amendments guarantee equal rights and impartial hearings for all parties in labor disputes. It urges that employers, workers, and their families be fully protected against coercion or intimidation.

Other proposed revisions call for full review of evidence in labor cases by appeal to federal courts, and for the limitation of the national labor relations board to a judicial function.

INSULL COMPANY OFFICIALS DENY MISMANAGEMENT

An answer to the $75,000,000 suit filed in June, 1934, charging that Samuel Insull Jr., and other executives of the Corporation Securities company mismanaged the corporation and brought about its bankruptcy April 16, 1932, was filed in Superior court late yesterday. The brief denied all of the original allegations.

The bill named as defendants besides Insull, H. L. Stuart, F. K. Shrader, C. W. Sills, and C. T. MacNeille. The cases of three others of the original defendants have been dismissed in appeals, that of Stanley Field and Edward Doyle in the Appellate court, and a suit against the estate of the late Edward F. Swift has been dismissed in the State Supreme court. Executors of the estate of the late John H. Gulick, so named in the 1934 suit, settled for $5,000 dismissing the suit.

"Goodwill, $1"

A CORPORATION'S goodwill is one of its most prized assets. Although it frequently appears in balance sheets as $1, or some other nominal figure, it is an item constantly in the minds of far-sighted corporation executives. Customer- or investor-confidence is another term for goodwill, which may also be defined as sound public relations.

Advertising of annual reports in the newspaper where they attract the greatest interest is an effective and economical way to build goodwill or sound public relations among investors and consumers. May we give you definite suggestions?

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Encouraged by a generally improved outlook, the bond market turned upward today, with gains of fractions to 1 or more among the favorites.

The upturn was attributed in part to easing of tension over political affairs abroad. Moreover, there was a general feeling in Wall street as trading began this morning that as a result of last week's abrupt security price declines, the sharpest in four months, both the stock and bond divisions were "oversold."

United States government loans joined the advance, with treasury loans showing gains ranging up to 11-32ds point. One of the Home Owners Loan issues, the 2¼s of '42-'44, reversed the trend among the federals, however, and lost 15-32ds.

Transactions totaled $4,367,250, face value, the smallest for a five hour trading session since Sept. 19.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading volume on the Chicago Stock exchange was small yesterday because of the storm. Only 16,000 shares were sold. Stocks moved higher, however, THE TRIBUNE averages of twenty stocks closing at 10.56, up 0.17.

Middle West finished ¼ higher at 7⅝. Commonwealth Edison was up ¼ at 27¼, and Marshall Field was up ½ at 12½. Aviation and Transportation advanced to 3¼, up ⅛. Bendix Aviation, a leader of the upturn, gainted 1⅛ to 25¼. General Motors was up ⅞ at 45.

Bank Stocks.

Trading in Chicago bank stocks was desultory yesterday, dealers reported. Closing bids were about $1 higher. Shares of the City National Bank and Trust company and the First National bank gained $1 a share. Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company stock advanced $1.50 a share.

Totals in Many Counties Undergo Revision.

The 1938 valuations of Illinois railroads for property tax purposes total $346,230,900, a decline of approximately 7 per cent from the 1937 total, the Illinois tax commission announced yesterday. The 1937 valuations totaled $369,851,417. The commission fixes rail valuations for all local taxing bodies in the state.

Simeon E. Leland, commission chairman, explained that due to a new method of allocating valuations to the various counties, marked changes occurred in many of the counties' total railroad assessments.

Increases ranged to as high as 86 per cent in the case of Alexander county. The biggest reduction was a 40 per cent drop in White county.

Cook County Total Drops.

Cook county's 1938 total was $98,588,314, a drop of about 20 per cent from 1937. The downstate total for 1938 was $247,645,586 compared with $247,450,465 in 1937.

The valuations include real estate and personal property owned by the railroads except the so-called non-

The most important change in fixing 1938 assessments was the new policy of applying the equalization factor used in each county. In former years the commission used an average factor for the entire state. In 1937 it was 37 per cent.

Equalization Factor Varies.

The equalization factor varies in different counties. In Cook county, the assessor after determining the fair value of a property, takes 37 per cent of that figure as the assessed valuation.

The new method, Leland said, puts a railroad's holdings in a given county on the same basis as other taxable property in that county. The old method had been attacked successfully in the courts by railroads which won reductions in cases in which the commission's equalization factor was greater than the one used in the county where the assessment was contested.

How Values Are Fixed.

Leland said that in making the valuations the commission considers several elements. These include the valuation as fixed by the interstate commerce commission, the market value of outstanding securities of the companies, and net earnings for the five preceding years.

Buildings with a value of $1,000 or more are assessed in the counties where they are situated. The balance of the valuation is allotted on the basis of the percentage of railroad trackage in each county.

American Radiator Unifies Operations of Subsidiaries

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—The American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation has unified operations of six principal subsidiary companies, which will cease to be operating companies tomorrow, the company announced today. Henceforth the products will be manufactured and sold by the parent company, under their present trade names and trade marks. The companies involved are the American Radiator company, Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company, American Gas Products corporation, Ensign-Reynolds, Inc., Excelso Products corporation, and Fox Furnace company.

American European Securities, $7.02 a share of common stock, against $3.19; Broad Street Investing, $26.48 a share, against $21.52; Capital Administration company, Ltd., $14.16 a share on the class A stock, against $9.69; Carriers and General corporation, $6.19 a share, against $5.18; Electric Shareholdings corporation, $1.83 a share, against 38 cents; George Putnam Fund, $14.97 a share, against $14.37, and Petroleum corporation of America, $13.08 a share, with no 1937 comparison. Including market value of one-fifth of a share of common stock of Consolidated Oil corporation distributed to stockholders Sept. 26, the 1938 net asset value was $14.88 a share, against $14.56 on Dec. 31, 1937.

Selected Industries, Inc., reported assets equal to $100.60 a share on the $5.50 prior stock and 36 cents a share on the $1.50 convertible stock, against $85.69 on the $5.50 prior stock Dec. 31, 1937.

Int. Hydro-Electric Co. Changes Outstanding Stock

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Shareholders of the International Hydro-Electric system, at a special meeting held in Boston today, voted to change the company's outstanding common stock from 40,000,000 shares of 5 cents par value to 2,500,000 shares of 80 cents par value. This action has no effect on the aggregate par value of outstanding common shares, which remains unchanged at $2,000,000.

Delay Storkline Meeting Because of Snowstorm

CALIFORNIA 'USE' TAX UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Disclosure of Coal Cost Data Also Approved.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—The United States Supreme court today upheld the constitutionality of the California "use" tax. The opinion was one of several handed down by the court.

The California use tax is a levy of 3 per cent imposed on goods bought at retail and moved into the state for consumption, use or storage. The state of California was upheld in its effort to apply the tax to the Felt & Tarrant Manufacturing company of Illinois. The court also upheld the application of the levy to the Southern Pacific railroad and the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company.

The companies had contended their purchases were for use in both interstate and intrastate commerce, and that the tax constituted a burden on interstate commerce. Justice Reed wrote the majority opinion. Justices McReynolds and Butler dissented.

Rules on Coal Data Issue.

In another case the court ruled that the National Bituminous Coal commission may disclose cost data submitted by nineteen companies. It affirmed a ruling by the United States court of appeals for the District of Columbia denying an injunction against the commission. The Utah Fuel company and eighteen other coal companies had contended that the bituminous coal act of 1937, which provides for minimum prices, had specified that data submitted would be kept confidential.

The 1935 federal tobacco inspection act was held constitutional. Four tobacco warehouses at Oxford, N. C., had challenged the legislation. The measure provides for federal inspection of tobacco sold at designated markets, provided this is approved in a referendum by growers.

The court denied a review of a lower court decision holding that certain glass making machinery of the Amsler-Morton company infringes on patents held by the Hartford-Empire company.

Mackay Radio Wins Appeal.

The Mackay Radio & Telegraph company won an appeal from a lower court decision holding valid a patent for a directive radio antenna owned by the Radio Corporation of America. Mackay contended that RCA altered the statement and claim of the invention in its application for an antenna patent after it had received particulars of Mackay antennas. RCA contended that it sought only to have Mackay pay for its use of inventions which it claimed were developed by RCA engineers.

A review was granted on a decision upholding the validity of a law passed in North Dakota in 1937 which prohibits the operation of motion picture theaters owned by film distributors. Paramount Pictures, Inc., of New York and subsidiaries appealed from a three judge federal court in the North Dakota district.

Labor Bureau Delays Date on Minimum Steel Wages

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—(AP)—The labor department postponed until March 1 today the minimum wages fixed for steel firms working on government contracts. The wages originally had been set to take effect tomorrow. Labor department officials said that the Bethlehem Steel corporation and 29 smaller producers had asked for a two-month postponement. The department said it granted a month's delay in order to allow time for necessary business adjustments.

STORM HAMPERS GRAIN TRADING; PRICES FIRMER

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

| | Yesterday. | Saturday. | Yr. ago. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Wheat | $ .69⅝ | $ .69¾ | $ .98 |
| Corn | .51⅝ | .51⅛ | .58⅞ |
| Oats | .28⅝ | .28½ | .31 |
| Rye | .46¾ | .46⅝ | .73¾ |
| Soy beans | .81⅞ | .81⅝ | 1.04½ |

Trading in cash grain and futures on American exchanges was at a standstill for a time yesterday because of the severe storm which swept a wide area. Only a few brokers were on the floor of the Chicago Board of Trade at 9:30 a. m. when the market is scheduled to open. It was not until 11 o'clock that enough brokers and cash grain handlers were present to permit the start of trading.

The better political outlook in Europe led to scattered selling of wheat futures when trading opened. Prices declined about ¾ cent. The selling, however, was absorbed by commission houses and a rally followed which carried the May delivery up 1 cent from the early low.

Wheat Market Turns Dull.

Little interest was shown in the market thereafter with the close ⅛ to ¼ cent a bushel lower. Corn was unchanged to ¼ cent higher.

Richard I. Mansfield, with Harris, Upham & Co., was the only official of the Chicago Board of Trade who managed to reach the exchange yesterday by 9:30 o'clock. It was on his orders that the opening was postponed. Only eight members were counted in the various grain pits and the cash market early yesterday.

Three brokers were in the oats pit; one in rye and one in provisions. There was no one in the wheat and corn pits, and only three cash grain brokers were present. Including employes of the exchange only 18 persons were on the trading floor at the normal time for opening the markets.

First Weather Delay in 20 Years.

Yesterday was the first time in the ninety years' history of the Chicago Board of Trade that it was necessary to postpone the opening of the grain markets because of weather conditions. Other North American exchanges opened at their regular time, but buying and selling orders in grain futures were few, as traders awaited the opening in Chicago.

As a result of the storm conditions only five carlots of cash corn, oats and soy beans were sold on the Chicago Board of Trade. Business in the spot butter and egg markets and in practically all lines of perishable commodities was likewise at a standstill.

CATTLE TRADING ALMOST HALTED BY SNOWSTORM

Drifts in Stockyards Hamper Weighing.

Trading in the cattle market at the Chicago stockyards yesterday was almost halted by one of the severest snowstorms on record. Only a few lots were sold during the day, and buyers found it difficult to get these to the scales for weighing because of the high drifts. Most of the 10,000 received were held under shelter near the unloading chutes for selling today and later in the week.

Veterans in the yards said they could not recall a time when the weather forced so many cattle to be carried over unsold. The cattle pens where trading is conducted are in the open.

Hog Prices Soar.

Hog prices soared 10 to 25 cents to the highest level in three months on yesterday's storm market. Aggregate receipts at 18,000, including 6,100 direct to packers, were about the same as the 18,158 received the preceding Monday. Most of the supply arrived before trade became tied up.

The hog pens are partly sheltered from snow so that trading was carried on with little difficulty. About 8,000 head sold readily at the advanced prices. Some packers, however, found it almost impossible to drive stock to their packing plants and consequently did not buy.

4,000 Are Held Over.

About 4,000 hogs were locked up by commission men on bids about steady with last week's close after early orders had been filled. Shippers bought about 3,000 head.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

by Frank Ridgway

Soy Bean Silage Test

January 30, 1939.

A LEGUME silage test being made this winter on the St. James farm near Naperville is demonstrating how soy beans may be used effectively in the production of comparatively inexpensive home grown protein feed. While the herdsman has been feeding soy bean silage only a short time, he already is able to reduce the amount of protein supplied in commercially mixed concentrates.

Thirty-eight of the farm's forty milk cows now being fed the soy bean silage relished the new feed from the time they first tasted it. The two finicky cows are now eating it quite freely. Ninety tons of this tasty silage, sweetened with molasses, will be fed to the farm's herd of purebred Guernseys this year.

Before the soy bean silage was fed to the cows, they were getting most of their protein through a commercially mixed feed containing 32 per cent protein. Here is the way this feed was mixed on the farm with other concentrates: Protein feed, 300 pounds; ground oats, 450 pounds; corn meal, 225 pounds; bone meal, 15 pounds; salt, 15 pounds.

Begin Feeding Silage.

The herdsman began feeding the soy bean silage at the rate of three pounds a day. It was increased at the rate of one pound a day until each cow was getting ten pounds a day.

Within a short time after the soy bean silage was included in the ration the herdsman found it possible to reduce the amount of commercially mixed protein. In mixing the concentrated feed the protein feed was reduced from 300 pounds to 250 pounds in the mixture given above.

Below is the daily ration given the cows before the soy bean silage was fed. This ration is the amount fed daily to a cow producing thirty-five pounds of milk each day. The amount of feed given is increased or decreased depending upon the production of the cow above or below thirty-five pounds of milk a day.

Grain mixture, 10 pounds; hay, 14 pounds; corn silage, 30 pounds; beet pulp, 3 pounds; molasses, 1 pound. The hay was fed as follows: Alfalfa, 4 pounds fed each morning; timothy and clover mixed, 4 pounds, fed at noon, and soy bean hay, 6 pounds, fed at night.

Ration for Each Cow.

Today the following daily ration is fed to each cow, with changes made to allow for some of the protein being given in the soy beans instead of the commercial protein mixture:

Grain mixture, 10 pounds; hay, 10 pounds; corn silage, 30 pounds; beet pulp, 3 pounds; molasses, ¼ pound, and soy bean silage, 10 pounds. The feeding of four pounds of timothy and clover hay at noon in the original ration has been discontinued and the cows are beginning to eat less and less of their hay allowance night and morning. Molasses used in the soy bean silage made it advisable to reduce the molasses poured over the grain mixture.

FOR MEN LIVING IN ILLINOIS—INDIANA—WISCONSIN

NEW AMAZING PRODUCT THAT ENJOYS THE SAME POSITION IN ITS FIELD TODAY AS THE ELECTRIC LIGHT DID TO THE KEROSENE LAMP YEARS AGO.

Under our unique merchandising plan men who qualify will be set up in business for themselves and assisted in getting started successfully.

Permanent; no investment necessary; no lean seasons. We can train any intelligent clear thinker to sell this electric product and assure him of at least $40 commission his first week.

If you are wide awake and want a business that pays big earnings, investigate this unusual opportunity.

EMPLOYMENT DEPT., 9 A.M., TO 4 P. M.
203 N. Wabash-av., R. 618.

Mrs. Glenn Boyd, expectant mother, with her mother, Mrs. G. B. Jacobus (left) and husband, on bobsled on way to train in Flossmoor for trip to Chicago hospital. [TRIBUNE Photo.] (Story on page 1.)
